Death for Kidnaping?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GOOD NEWS of the NRA campaign reports that 20,000 striking miners voted unanimously yesterday to return to work, after Edward F. McGrady, labor adviser of the National Recovery Administration, had urged them to support President Roosevelt's program.

Those striking miners that set a good example to other workers and to employers will return to work this morning.

BLERIOT, who designed the Rossi-Codos plane that has just beaten the world's long-distance records, speaks with authority on flying.

Twenty-four years ago he was the first to fly the English Channel. Now his plane has easily flown the Atlantic, the whole of Europe and on to Damascus. Bleriot predicts:

"The earth will be encircled non-stop, either by a craft using a heavy oil or as soon as a means is found for utilizing electrically driven engines."

THE DIESEL engine in the air will revolutionize flying and cut its cost. Engineers that should know, believe that a trip across this continent or across the Atlantic Ocean will not cost more than five or ten dollars per passenger, with Diesel power. A non-stop trip around the earth will attract no attention 25 years hence.

As to "utilizing electrically driven engines" the genius is probably born who will solve the problem of wireless power, allowing airplanes to pick up their current as they fly over the various water falls and other power plants along their route.

NEXT SATURDAY is set apart as "Negro Day" at the "Century of Progress" exposition in Chicago, with athletic sports, including colored Olympic champions and a pageant at Soldiers' Field called "the epic of a race," 3,000 Negro voices singing "spirituals."

The committee in charge might have reproduced on Soldiers' Field the great sphinx that stands on the Egyptian desert. That sphinx has an Ethiopian face, proving that the Negro race was important far back in the night of time.

Many colored men and women would be more proud of the fact that one of their race once ruled over Egypt than in any modern "spirituals," "Green Pastures," or athletic records.

MR. I. K. SAKS, Cleveland lawyer, asks:

"Why have you changed your opinion concerning capital punishment, favoring it when applied to kidnapers?"

No "indorsement of capital punishment for kidnaping or anything else" has been expressed here. It has been suggested that capital punishment for kidnapers might discourage kidnaping.

Hanging, once the penalty for small thefts, did not discourage small thefts. Death, reserved in late years for murder or treason, has not discouraged either.

It is, however, possible that hanging or the electric chair would discourage kidnaping, now carried on purely as a commercial proposition. The profit to be derived from kidnaping might, in the opinion of kidnapers, be more than offset by the certainty of death in case of detection. Several states, Florida, Missouri and others, make death the punishment for kidnapers, and Gov. Lehman, of New York, recommends such a law.

WHEN MEN buy new automobiles it proves they have money to spend, usefully, and money to spare is the surest sign of vanishing depression.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, announces that sales of his corporation in the United States, Canada and overseas countries showed this July an increase of 190 per cent over July, 1932. In July a year ago the total number of General Motors automobiles sold was 36,872. In July it was 106,918.

EUGENE S. DANIELL, JR., young Boston lawyer, graduate of Harvard, is indicted for placing tear bombs in the New York Stock Exchange, driving out 2,000 brokers and others in tears.

Mr. Daniell is head of a party, invented by himself, objecting to capitalism as responsible for human ills.

Without prejudicing charges against him, it may be pointed out that trying to discourage capitalism by gassing the stock exchange is placing the cart before the horse.

Many now soliciting life insurance or engaged in other useful occupations, might be living on accumulated capital, if there had never been any stock exchange.

THANKS TO the new United States law against kidnaping, a woman was arrested in New Jersey yesterday, accused of sending a threatening letter to a father who had recently employed her as nurse for his daughter.

It read:

"Leave $50,000 in silver at main gate at midnight, August 2, or your daughter's head will be cut off."

Whoever sent that was not familiar with metallic values and weights. Fifty thousand dollars' worth of silver at present prices would weigh about 800 pounds, not easily delivered by the father or carried away by the kidnaper.

More important than this news is the fact that the United States Attorney General's office has made arrangements that will make kidnaping hereafter extremely dangerous, with probability of conviction increased at least one thousand per cent.

GREENFIELD MAN SLAIN; WIFE HELD

Victim Bought Car For Stepdaughter, Children Say

A plain, unemotional woman interrupted her husband's breakfast today to shoot him dead, according to the police.

In the basement kitchen of their home at 4315½ Stanley street, Greenfield, Mrs. Meta Miller, 47, fired three shots that took the life of Fred Miller, 61, homicide detectives reported.

Why? Because he ran around with other women, the sleuths were told.

CHILDREN WAKENED

Asleep upstairs, their three children were awakened by the shots and came running down the steps to see their father slumped over the kitchen table, dead or dying. In his mother's hand 12-year-old William Miller said he saw the gun. He quoted her:

"He had it coming to him."

Only one of the three bullets took effect. It entered Miller's back and ripped past his heart. Another buried itself in the wall over the kitchen sink.

Silent, Mrs. Miller put the pistol in her purse, took her Bible and surrendered to the law, detectives reported. In the Bible was a note, apparently written by herself, and a clipping of a poem entitled: "A Reason for Thanksgiving."

Miller, a fireman at the downtown postoffice, was step-father to Mrs. Millier's two children. One is Gertrude Wright, 18, of whom young William and his twin sister, Laura Miller, said:

"Our father didn't treat us very well. We didn't get enough to eat. He liked Gertrude best. He bought her a car and some clothes. He treated us mean."

ADMITS SHOOTING

At homicide headquarters Mrs. Miller was quoted by Lieut. Frank Ferris as admitting:

"Yes, I shot him. He needed it."

In her Bible was a newspaper clipping telling of mistreated wives.

'I Shot Him; He Needed It'

MRS. META MILLER.....HELD AS HUSBAND'S SLAYER

The 47-year-old Greenfield housewife being taken from Hazelwood Police Station today by Homicide Detective Frank Morgan. Pistol in purse, Bible in hand, she surrendered to police this morning after her husband, Fred Miller, 61, downtown postoffice fireman, had been shot to death at the breakfast table of their modest home at 4315½ Stanley street. Conway Case Judge Gets Threat Note

MUNCIE, Ind., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The Rev. Frank K. Dougherty, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, has been the recipient of a note threatening him with death, police said today.

Dougherty was active in the prosecution at the church trial last spring which resulted in the suspension of the Rev. G. Lemuel Conway from the pulpit of the Madison Street M. E. Church. Conway was charged with attempting an attack on an 18-year-old girl who was a member of his congregation.

Explosion Destroys Oil Tanker at Sea

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The 75-foot oil tanker, Glastce, exploded about a mile off Rockaway Beach, Queens, today and burned to the water's edge with a loss estimated at $20,000. No one was injured.

The small craft was en route from Brooklyn to Long Beach with a load of oil when the explosion occurred in the engine room.

BOND FORGERY BRINGS MILITIA

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—National Guardsmen were ordered into the office of Tom Boyd, state treasurer, today following disclosure of wholesale municipal bond forgeries.

Gov. Alf M. Landon, saying he did not know "how far this scandal is going to reach," told state accountants to take charge of Boyd's records for a "complete and thorough investigation."

Ronald Finney, a bond broker, was under arrest in connection with the asserted forgery of $658,000 in bonds. Three banks with which Finney's father, W. W. Finney, and other members of the family were connected, have been closed for inspection.

Capt. Chester Thomas, of the National Guard, stationed himself in the state vault.

Gov. Landon said a statement by Boyd "if true," indicates that Mr. Boyd was either a party to permitting $150,000 of state bonds to be taken by Ronald Finney to Chicago for a purely personal transaction, or was a party to sending $150,000 of forged bonds to Chicago in the same transaction.

MACHADO, CUBA CHIEFS CONFER

BULLETIN.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 9. — (AP.) — Imminent action by President Roosevelt in the Cuban crisis appeared in prospect today with the arrival of a special report carried here by plane from Washington.

HAVANA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The principal government leaders held an important conference with President Machado at the presidential palace today, apparently to decide whether the chief executive should relinquish his post to put an end to Cuba's political turmoil and bloodshed.

One of the outstanding participants in the conference was Orestes Ferrara, the Secretary of State, who arrived in Havana this morning by airplane from the United States.

While the conference was in sessions hundreds of persons lined the Havana seawall, expecting the arrival of two United States ships which, according to reports that were not confirmed, were off the capital last night.

PRESSURE BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(INS.) — The American government today was bringing strong diplomatic pressure to bear on President Machado to yield to the apparent will of the Cuban people

Homestead Girl, 7, Injured by Truck

Martha Sletka, 7, of 913 Hays street, Homestead, was struck by a truck at Eighth avenue and Hays street, Homestead, at noon today. Hubert Colledge, of Library, driver of the truck, according to police, took the child to Homestead Hospital, where it was reported she suffered a broken leg.

Artists' 'Nude Model' Dons Bathing Suit

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Art bowed to convention today in a little side tent beside a real "big top" artists' show as the "nude model" in the "living reproduction of a famous painting" wore a bathing suit—by request.

Under the "big top," a large tent pitched on the grounds of University circle, Cleveland artists were holding their second annual curb market, exhibiting several thousand paintings, sketches, sculptured figures and other objects of art.

But over in the side tent, where a barker cried "come in and learn how models pose for artists"—Miss Lucille Ebey, the model, wore a brief white bathing suit—completely contrary to advance notices.

The model was posing behind a gauze screen in a living reproduction of Edouard Manet's painting "Olympia," the original of which hangs in the Louvre. In the painting the central figure wore only slippers, a ribbon around her neck, and a bracelet. Cleveland's "living model," however, added the bathing suit.

Sponsors of the market said the revision was suggested by Safety Director E. E. Adams.

DROP PLAN, OPERATORS ASKED

Executives, Miners In Session at Washington

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Confronted by official hostility to the open shop feature of their proposed coal code, non-union bituminous operators this afternoon weighed the advisability of abandoning that controverted section.

Charles O'Neill, of New York, as witness for the operators, had defended the clause upon inauguration of hearings on the 27 agreements put forward by the industry and out of which NRA officials are seeking to devise uniform standards.

Donald Richberg, counsel for the Recovery agents of the law, hammered insistently, however, and finally—once the hearing recessed—asked that the disputed section be withdrawn.

OPERATORS COUNTER

O'Neill had asked him about it. Thereupon he and the operators sat odown in private to go into the matter.

Responsible persons hesitated to predict the outcome.

The nonunion code, representing wel lover half the nation's tonnage, specified that no employer should be required to deal jointly with other employers or with representatives of any employes other than his own, and that no person should be required to join any labor organization to secure the benefit of the code.

That is on the open shop principle, opposed by union labor.

Att he hearing, attended by crowds, O'Neill was applauded loudly by operators.

The nonunion code said no employer should be compelled to deal under the collective bargaining provision of the Recovery Act with representatives of any employes other than his own, and that no employer refusing to join in the collective bargaining provision of the Recovery Act with representatives of any employes other than his own, and that no employer refusing to join in the collective bargaining provisions should be denied the other benefits of the code.

WAGE QPESTIONS

O'Neill said the operators represented by this code were not sufficiently in accord on wage questions to deal with the miners of their entire district, and that

Sally Rand Fined, Nude Dance Banned

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Sally Rand, petite dancer of the ostrich fans, was fined $25 and costs yesterday for staging an indecent performance at a local theater. Sighed Sally as she walked from the courtroom:

"And I was about to spend $25 for new fans. Now what'll I do?"

The judge apparently decided that problem for Sally. He ordered Sally to wear clothing beneath her fans or to forfeit a $200 peace bond each time she appeared in the nude.

Sun-Telegraph Puts Code In Effect Next Monday

The Sun-Telegraph has accepted the newspaper code filed at Washington by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and other associations representing newspapers throughout this country and is putting the code into effect Monday, August 14, in furtherance of the President's program.

U. S. WON'T BUY FROM NRA VIOLATORS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The National Recovery Administration busied itself today with making rough the path of any transgressors of its program.

Officially the administration was holding fire against violators until some date a couple of weeks hence. But it did reveal that it already was plotting out a plan of attack on those who break faith with or refuse pledges to abide by codes of fair competition designed to raise wages and provide more jobs.

PUNITIVE MEASURES

While Hugh S. Johnson, Administrator, frowned at the word "boycott," he nevertheless allowed it to become known that the government would use some of the following methods:

Refusal by the government to buy material from industries holding aloof from President Roosevelt's recovery move.

Publication in newspapers of the names of those who display NRA's "Blue Eagle" but who violate pledges.

A nation-wide combine of housewives against retail establishments refusing to accept codes.

Citing that the intent of the Recovery Act was to increase employment, Administrator Johnson said today that no retailer could stagger employe hours, enforce rest periods or shorten the hours of store operation without defeating the purpose of the codes.

TO WITHDRAW EMBLEM

He said:

"The insignia of the Blue Eagle must be withdrawn from those stores which either collectively or individually flagrantly attempt to frustrate the purpose of the presidential reemployment agreement."

Johnson said that "when employers sign this agreement with their President after reading Section VIII, no one could conceivably set about staggering employe hours, enforcing rest periods, and increasing the time for lunch without pay, or either directly or indirectly conspire to defeat the very purpose of the agreement by materially shortening the number of hours which the stores had customarily stayed open."

Johnson insisted that while the agreements signed by retail stores and groceries provided that no store open less than 52 hours a week before July 1 could reduce the store hours at all, the intent

Auto Thieves Kidnap Child Asleep in Car

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A 4-year-old girl, unintentionally abducted by automobile thieves when they stole the car in which she was sleeping in front of a confectionery store, was found early today—still asleep—when the machine was recovered in the downtown district.

The girl, Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smetana, was left in the car last night by her parents when they went into the store. Fifteen minutes later they emerged to discover both child and car gone.

Dr. Modjeski Denies Chorus Girl's Charge

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Dr. Ralph Modjeski, 72, noted bridge builder and son of the famous actress, Madame Helene Modjeska, countered with a general denial today the allegations on which Jeanne de La Mar, chorus girl, started suit against him for $500,000 for breach of promise.

Dr. Modjeski was the engineer of the Delaware Bridge at Philadelphia which on its completion was the longest suspension span in the world.

PEACE BOARD CALLS FRICK MINES HEAD

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The arbitration board of the National Recovery Administration today issued rules designed to settle the grievance between operators and employes of the H. C. Frick Coke Company at Grindstone, Pa.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—In an effort to settle the Pennsylvania coal strike, once and for all, Gerard Swope—chairman of the arbitration board named by President Roosevelt—today called Thomas Moses, president of the Frick Coke Company, before the group to explain the present situation.

As the board sat down for its first meeting on the controversy, which had threatened a bituminous coal shortage, Swope expressed confidence all difficulties would be ironed out soon.

Louis E. Kirstein, another member of the Industrial Advisory Board of the Recovery Administration, and George L. Berry, president of the Pressmen's Union and a member of the Labor Advisory Board, are the other members of the conciliation board.

Moses entered the conference with a number of papers and immediately began presenting his side.

It was the Frick Company's mines which first felt the effects of the strike, and reports today from Pennsylvania showed the conflict still on between the management of some of the company's mines and some of the miners despite the agreement signed last week under pressure from Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator.

After Moses left the conference with the arbitration board, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was called.

The controversy now hinges about the election of checkweighmen by the miners to weigh coal after it is dug.

After appearing before the board, he said whatever rules of procedure for electing the checkweighman were prescribed by the Swope board would be satisfactory to him and would be lived up to entirely.

Racing Schooner Attached by U. S.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A writ of attachment against the Atlantic fishing schooner Bluenose was issued today by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

The racing champion of the North Atlantic was ordered held in custody of United States District Court pending settlement of a $5,000 damage suit instituted yesterday by Addison Stillwell, wealthy clubman, broker and lumberman, who said his contract was violated and his guests subjected to deliberate indignities on a lake trip.

TWO FRICK PITS STILL CLOSED

Checkweighman Row Laid Before Washington

Developments in the mine situation:

1—Strikers at all but two mines of the Connellsville coke region went back to work.

2—Representatives of the miners and operators were in Washington for the opening of hearings on a proposed code of fair competition for the industry. Recognition of the United Mine Workers of America and abolition of company unions were the most controversial issues between the operators and miners.

3—A delegation representing civic and social welfare agencies of Allegheny County was prepared to fight for elimination of the company town in the provisions of the code.

4—Striking employes of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation in the Pittsburgh district voted to return to work tomorrow. Pittsburgh Coal Company employes will meet tonight and decide whether they will take similar action.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—The Connellsville coke region went back to work today with two exceptions.

The exceptions were the Colonial Nos. 3 and 4 mines of the H. C. Frick Coke Company. The strikers returning to No. 4 said they had been refused recognition of their mine committee and check weighman.

Work was resumed at No. 3, but when the several hundred miners learned of the hitch at No. 4 they quit. State officials said they would urge the men to return to work pending a decision of President Roosevelt's coal mediation board.

The No. 4 miners sent a telegram to Edward F. McGrady, assistant recovery administrator, who yesterday promised them prompt consideration of their grievances and assured them of a new and square deal.

TELEGRAM TO M'GRADY

The telegram to McGrady read:

"We, the miners of H. C. Frick Company, Colonial 4, Grindstone, presented our check

NRA Mediators End Glass Plant Strike

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A week-long strike of 450 men employed by the Fort Pitt Glass Company was settled today by NRA mediators. The men quit in a controversy over wages and hours.

The company is one of the largest decorative glass concerns in the district.

Lawyer Faces Prison In Market Bombing

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Three superseding indictments were returned today by the grand jury against Eugene S. Daniell, Jr., young Boston lawyer accused of releasing tear gas bombs in the Stock Exchange last Friday. Conviction on all of them could mean a maximum prison sentence of 16 years.

Upturn in Jobs, Prices Pleases Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt regards recent commodity price movements and employment gains as keeping the upward trend of affairs on an even grade.

The President today resumed his studies of managed currency, consulting with Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale. Tonight he confers with his Secretary of the Treasury, William H. Woodin. Looking over a roll of charts in his study today, Mr. Roosevelt indicated satisfaction with the recent upward trend of employment and commodity prices.

It was made plain that the objective is a controlled upward movement—a leveling off of the peaks and valleys.

He is particularly satisfied at the figures showing the cost of living has gone up very little in relation to the rise in farm prices.

The President has very carefully kept to himself the ultimate level of prices which he wants. His experts are almost all pointing to the range between 1924 and 1926.

President Roosevelt also gave personal attention to the war on crime in conferences with Attorney General Cummings and Raymond Moley, special investigator of kidnaping and racketeering.

PITTSBURGHERS RAP COAL COMPANY TOWNS AT HEARING

LEADERS ASK ABOLITION OF SYSTEM

Judge Musmanno at Hearing Held in Washington

By DAVE JONES
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9. — Assured by officials of the NRA and of the Department of Labor that their pleas will be kindly received, a dozen Western Pennsylvania men and women, representing social, civic and religious groups, were scheduled to appear today at hearings before the National Recovery Administration to ask abolition of the coal company town.

Two spokesmen have been delegated to represent this group and to speak in their behalf when the NRA officials take up the task of co-ordinating 27 codes already submitted for the establishment of fair competition in the bituminous coal industry.

MUSMANNO TO SPEAK

County Court Judge M. A. Musmanno was listed as one of the speakers. He planned to fly here this morning from Pittsburgh in time for the hearings. The other speaker is Stephen Raushenbaush, of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, who of late has been investigating conditions in the Fayette County coal fields.

In addition to the little group of Pittsburghers who hope to remedy social conditions in the coal fields, many other persons from the Pittsburgh district were present. Many of the large coal companies and steel concerns were represented by their officials.

To prepare for the hearings today, the Pittsburgh delegation held three important conferences late yesterday. First they met with Donald Richberg, counsel for Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator. They were assured by Richberg that they would be given every opportunity to present their proposals when that phase of the coal code is reached.

RICHBERG INTERESTED

Richberg showed deep interest in their petition and listened to the various members of the committee tell of their actual experiences in the coal fields. He then called in E. K. Stimson, deputy administrator of the National Recovery Act. Stimson also assured them that the petition was entirely within keeping of the work to be done by him and his associates.

After leaving Stimson's office, the party visited the offices of the Department of Labor. In the absence of Secretary Frances Perkins, they were received by Turner Battles, assistant to the secretary.

Battles made it plain to the members of the committee that the Department of Labor intended to insist that the code, when finally adopted, would make it plain that miners were to be paid in cash and not with credit at the company store.

In coaching the Pittsburghers for their appearance before the NRA officials today, Deputy Administrator Stimson informed them that they would be permitted to present only facts. There is to be no time allotted for arguments.

Judge Musmanno is expected to give his experiences with the coal and iron police and Raushenbaush will tell of other evils of the company-owned and controlled town.

Miss Elizabeth Wight, investigator for the Pennsylvania Security League, who witnessed the fatal gun battle and riot at Star Junction, Fayette County a week ago, will be present at the hearing. It is not known whether she will be called to tell of her experiences.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

In addition to Judge Musmanno, Raushenbaush and Miss Wight, the committee here today included the following:

Sidney Teller, secretary of the Pittsburgh Civil Liberties Union; Peter J. Dagnal, representing the labor groups of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Harvey S. Fouse, representing the Legislative Council of Western Pennsylvania; C. R. Daugherty, of the Pittsburgh League for Social Justice; Attorney Frank R. Sack, legal representative of the Pennsylvania Security League; his wife, Attorney Bessie Kann Sack, who is legislative chairman of the Pittsburgh branch of the American Association of University Women; Charles T. Douds, secretary of the Pittsburgh branch of the Pennsylvania Security League, and Mrs. George G. Bray, of Carrick, chairman of the Pittsburgh branch of the Women's International League for Peace.

COMMITTEE'S DEMANDS

The committee's petition suggests that the following points be included in the final coal code:

1—Eliminate completely the company stores.

2—Make it impossible for the coal companies through the use of company houses and the contractural relationship of employer and employe to control the social, economic and political life of the miners.

3—Eliminate completely company police and deputies.

4—Secure immediate municipal freedom of the coal company towns by whatever legal steps may be necessary.

5—Secure a moratorium on past debts for rent and food, with a provision for gradual repayment of these debts to the companies after the purchasing power of the coal districts has been re-established.

6—All wages must be paid in full in cash.

FAYETTE MINERS BACK TO PITS

weighman to Mr. Smith, the official representative of the company, and were flatly refused recognition. He also stated that he would not recognize our mine committee, that the company had its own committee.

"The men themselves refused to go to work without any action on our part. The men are remaining at the mine pending telegraphic instructions from you."

The message was signed by Rollie M. Broadwater, chairman; Oscar L. Engle and Louis de Marsio.

About 200 miners, refusing to go into the pit, gathered on company property after sending the message. They explained their grievances and revealed the probable cause of the company's refusal to accept the checkweighman of their choice.

Martin Ryan, president of the Grindstone local and so-called insurgent leader in last Saturday's refusal of union delegates to accept the Roosevelt truce, had been chosen by the men as checkweighman. Ryan, unemployed for the past several years, had risen from the ranks of the strikers as their natural leader.

The checkweighman must be paid by the men themselves. They insist they have a right to a man of their own choice. Frick company officials base their objections on the grounds that Ryan has never been an employe. They also contend that he was not duly elected by the majority of their employes, many of whom did not join the strike movement.

Meanwhile, this morning 15 other mines of the Frick company resumed operations along with numerous other plants of the W. J. Rainey, Republic Steel Corporation, Buckeye Coal Company and Pleasant Valley Mining Company.

MINERS ENTHUSIASTIC

For the most part the miners returned to their jobs with the same enthusiasm that marked yesterday's meeting with Assistant Administrator McGrady. They expressed supreme confidence in President Roosevelt and his New Deal. They sang his praises as they trooped back to the mines, almost like a bunch of school boys going back to the class room after a summer vacation.

National Guard troops kept in the area were stationed at all roads, bridges and ferries leading into Fayette County this morning in anticipation of a march of pickets from outside the district. Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed from strikers just over the district line, who declared they had struck out of sympathy to the District No. 4 miners and would not return to work until they were assured the Frick company would recognize the union.

These mines are in District 5, headquarters of which are located in Pittsburgh, but they say they take no part in District No. 5 activities. They were not allowed to participate in yesterday's meeting with District 4 delegates.

The anticipated movement of pickets from outside did not materialize, however. It was believed their grievance would be settled today as U. M. W. leaders sought to straighten things out and it was predicted they would return to work by tomorrow.

TERMINAL COAL STRIKE OVER

Striking miners employed by the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation under contracts with the United Mine Workers of America today voted to return to work tomorrow morning.

Strikers at operations of the National Mining Company, a United States Steel subsidiary, near Bridgeville, telegraphed officials in Washington that company officials refused to recognize the miners' choices of checkweighmen.

Pittsburgh Coal Company employes will meet tonight to decide whether they will end walkouts that have tied up several of that company's mines.

A number of mines, most of them Pittsburgh Coal and Terminal operations, still were idle today despite the settlement of the Fayette County walkout.

Turner Race Prize Refusal Upheld

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.— (AP.)—The contest committee of the National Aeronautical Association today sustained the decision which took from Pilot Roscoe Turner the $3,375 Thompson trophy of the Los Angeles air races on July 4.

PINCHOT WARNS MILK INDUSTRY ON STRIKE

Ten Million Lives at Stake in State, Governor Says

HARRISBURG, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Urging "immediate stabilization of the dairy industry," Gov. Pinchot today said that "of all industries, that of producing and distributing milk to over 10,000,000 people in Pennsylvania is one which must not break down."

The Governor said he is "hopeful" that pending federal milk marketing agreements and codes will provide a "working basis" for solving present disputes between farmers and distributors. He said:

"The present differences between certain groups of producers and certain groups of distributors cannot be settled by disorder, violence and bloodshed. The blocking of roads, the damaging of trucks and the pouring out of milk do no good to anybody.

LIFE AT STAKE

"Human life is at stake the moment there is serious interruption of the supply of milk. No farmer, no dealer and no public official wants to be a party to any movement that jeopardizes the health and happiness of our children."

Meanwhile a strike of milk producers threatens Eastern Pennsylvania.

This was disclosed at a meeting of 150 dairymen of Montgomery County, who voted last night to support the strike call. The farmers also signed petitions asking the removal of Dr. Clyde L. King, federal milk administrator under the agricultural adjustment act.

Milk Trucks Bullet-Riddled In New York Warfare

Associated Press.

Bullets whizzed in New York State's milk strike today.

Six milk trucks returning from New York City after delivering hygienic dairy milk, were fired upon at Camden at dawn. They were discribed as "bullet riddled" on their arrival at Watertown.

A survey of Madison County, hotbed of the strike, showed that receipts at dairy plants were rapidly approaching normal. Non-striking farmers were protecting themselves with firearms in increasing numbers.

Capt. Stephen McGrath, of the state constabulary, back in the line of duty after being injured in a clash with strikers at Oriskany last week, asked Maj. John A. Warner, superintendent of State Police for permission to arm his men with machine guns.

Strikers repeated their protests against what they called the "brutality of troopers."

Non-strikers demanded more protection.

Six thousand gallons of milk were dumped this morning on roads to Syracuse. This represented 10 per cent of the city's supply. Every important road in the county was being scoured by strike pickets.

Four hundred cans of milk from Wisconsin were received today in Schenectady where a milk famine had been threatened.

Convicted Slayer Beheaded by Nazis

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—An executioner's ax today beheaded Wilhelm Volck, a Communist, who killed a police officer during a riot on February 28.

Volck, sentenced to death for murder, led a raid on a Nazi gathering place, in the course of which the policeman was shot and several storm troopers wounded.

WARNING ISSUED HERE ON NRA VIOLATIONS

Chamber of Commerce Sends Out Scores Of Letters

The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Pittsburgh campaign committee of the National Recovery Administration today sent out the first formal warning to scores of alleged violators of the President's blanket re-employment agreement.

This letter, it was pointed out, is a preliminary move to forwarding legitimate complaints to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator.

TEXT OF LETTER

The letter:

"The Chamber of Commerce, acting for the National Recovery Administration at Washington and its Pittsburgh committee, has received a complaint in writing that the blanket code, or in other words, the re-employment agreement with the President, compliance with which gives the right to display the Blue Eagle and other "We do our part" emblems, is being violated in your establishment.

"We are writing to ask if you will please favor us at your earliest convenience with a statement as to whether anybody in your employ is receiving less than the minimum wage authorized by the NRA, or is required to work longer than the permitted time.

"We would also appreciate greatly if you would assist us by stating whether you have increased the number of your employes and the total wages paid, as we are endeavoring to ascertain for the NRA a result of the application of the blanket code in this district."

SIGNED BY HARPER

Frank C. Harper, secretary-manager of the Commerce Chamber, signed the letter. Officers of the recovery committee are Mayor John S. Herron, honorary chairman, and John S. Fisher, president of the Chamber, general chairman.

Meanwhile, approximately 10,000 employers in the Pittsburgh postoffice district have not yet signed the NRA blanket code. This figure is based on an estimate by Postmaster James B. Anderson and F. Harper.

A survey by postmen in preparation for the President's re-employment drive showed approximately 10,000 employers in the area with three or more employes, Anderson said, adding that there probably are 10,000 others employing one or two helpers.

Receipt of 695 additional signers yesterday brought today's total of pledges to 9,914, according to Anderson, representing both big and little employers.

These figures include such outlying communities as Wilkinsburg, Swissvale, Avalon, Crafton and 18 other carrier stations.

The Allegheny County Beverage Distributors' Association code committee is meeting this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce to discuss a code.

Coal Operators' Open Shop Plans Opposed by U. S.

was one of the principal reasons for the clause in dispute.

The wage scale proposed, he said, was higher by 30 per cent than that in effect between 1913 and 1916, while coal production was considerably lower. He said:

"The only reason we have for making these wage increases is our faith in President Roosevelt's recovery program. A general revival of business and industry is necessary to keep us from bankruptcy under the new scales."

Years ago an officer in the United Mine Workers of America, he said that what the operators he represented wanted was an open shop for both union and nonunion men. He added:

"John L. Lewis will say that we have a closed shop against union men. We say that Lewis wants a closed shop against nonunion men. We want an open shop for both."

O'Neill said the new wage scale, which was put into effect August 1, was generally higher than the wages called for in the few union contracts in effect in the Appalachian region.

COMPANY UNION BAN DENIED

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Edward F. McGrady, labor adviser of the NRA, emphatically denied today that he told striking miners at Uniontown, Pa., the government would guarantee abolition of coal company unions.

McGrady, happy over his success in persuading the striking miners to support the "New Deal" and go back to work, started by airplane for Washington following a talk before the Massachusetts Federation of Labor convention. He came here by plane from Uniontown yesterday.

Concerning guarantees to the miners, he said:

"Under section seven (of the National Recovery Act) the workers are guaranteed an opportunity to organize unions of their own. They have the right to choose their own committees, and have collective bargaining."

He said no worker can be compelled to join a company union and the government will protect any worker who refuses to join and see to it that he is not penalized.

GIRLS TO PICKET AT NEW PLANT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—Striking girl employes of the Berkowitz shirt factory here today transferred their picketing activities to a factory at Frostburg, Md.

About 200 girls boarded automobiles and trucks to go to Frostburg. They said the factory there was sending its products to Uniontown and conditions were similar to those they claim exist here.

The strikers said they would picket the Frostburg factory for several days in order to close it. They are seeking recognition of a union. Richard Berkowitz, manager of the plant, refused to meet their demands.

As the motor vehicles carrying the strikers passed through Uniontown, two girls fell from an overloaded truck. They were injured only slightly and climbed back aboard.

U. S. REVENUE JUMPS HERE

Federal revenues in 24 Western Pennsylvania counties in July jumped 600 per cent over those of the same month last year, Internal Revenue Collector David L. Lawrence announced today. Excise taxes, including levies on beer, gasoline and tires were mainly responsible for the increase, he explained.

Total revenue for this district was $3,053,854 last month as against $379,163 in July a year ago. Of this total income taxes represented only $124,000.

Lawrence placed income from the beer tax since 3.2 beer was legalized as follows: April, $232,805; May, $390,925; June, $497,282; July, $452,711.

TEMPORARY OIL CODE PLACED IN EFFECT

Modified Agreement Will Affect Thousands

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Temporary effectiveness for a scale of wages and hours for the oil industry pending settlement of the controversial code now under consideration was approved today by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief.

Under the temporary agreement, which has been approved by the industry, producers, refiners, and dealers will be permitted to sign a modified presidential agreement and receive the Blue Eagle.

WORKING HOURS

The temporary code provides a 40-hour maximum week for marketing operations, and a 36-hour week for all other branches of the industry.

For employes in filling stations and garages selling gasoline and oil direct to the motorist the agreement proposed a 40-hour week with a pay scale graduated from $12 per week to $15, according to the population of the city.

The announcement also provides for a 40-hour week for employes in the wholesale marketing division, including clerical employes but excluding executives, supervisors and their immediate staffs, with minimum wage rates ranging from 40 to 47 cents an hour as follows:

Middle Atlantic division, New England division, East North Central and Pacific Coast, 47 cents; South Atlantic, East South Central and West South Central, 40 cents; West North Central, 42 cents, and Mountain States, 45 cents.

STATION EMPLOYES

In accord with the proposal of the petroleum industry to bring employes of retail outlets under the blanket code the agreement provides a 40-hour week with minimum wages for filling and service station or garage employes engaged in selling gasoline to the public consumer as follows:

Not less than $15 weekly in cities of over 500,000 population.

Cities between 250,000 and 500,000, $14.50.

Cities between 2,500 and 250,000, $14.

Cities of less than 2,500 an increase of 20 per cent in wages provided the increase does not involve wages exceeding $12 a week.

U. S. WON'T BUY FROM NRA FOES

was that hours of operation should not be curtailed in any way.

In other words, while 52 is a set minimum, it was explained that if a store had been operating 60 or more, it should not curtail its time of being open but rather should employ more people to do the work.

TO TRACE VIOLATIONS

Already Johnson's organization has made plans for tracing violations of the trade agreements and in addition has been promised the support of other organizations in detecting violators. Foremost in this group are the American Federation of Labor and the newly-created Consumers' Protective Bureau, the latter linked to the NRA by the membership of Mrs. Hugh S. Johnson, who is on both the NRA Advisory Board and the Consumers' Bureau.

The American Federation of Labor, at the direction of its president, will clear the names of violators through its state and city organizations. The Consumers' Bureau will deal more directly with them—it will, after all other efforts have failed, make their names available for publication, together with a summary of the infraction.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

The housewives' organization is under the direction of Miss Mary Hughes. This women's section of the emergency re-employment campaign will carry on an educational program in the 48 states with the objective of convincing the housewives and other women purchasers of the desirability of doing all their buying in retail establishments displaying — and complying with the pledge of—the "Blue Eagle."

Of the government's part in "buying right," Gen. Johnson said:

"I don't believe the government itself will buy goods from these people who don't live up to the Blue Eagle provisions.

"It would be a curious thing if it did."

UPRAISED HANDS WHICH CALLED FOR TRUCE IN COAL FIELDS

MARTIN RYAN ADDRESSING COLONIAL NO. 4 MINERS . . . HIS REJECTION DELAYED THE MINERS' RETURN TODAY

One of the few groups which did not get back on the job today despite the scene pictured here when the men voted yesterday to return to work. Ryan, insurgent group leader, was not hired this morning as checkweighman in a dispute with operators, and as a result, the men stayed out pending decision on an appeal to William F. McGrady, President Roosevelt's representative, who effected the truce in practically all mines. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

'Pirate' Tries to Rob Boat at Fair, Seized

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—An attempted holdup of a speed boat as it raced from the World Fair grounds to the Michigan Avenue Bridge with six passengers aboard offered police a new kind of crime to combat today.

And they were frankly puzzled, too, as to whether John Pennick, 27, overpowered by the pilot and other passengers, and accused by them of producing a pistol and threatening a robbery, should be charged with piracy or just plain attempted robbery.

Pennick was arrested last night when the boat docked and James Nester, the pilot, told of the struggle that took place a mile and a half out on Lake Michigan as the craft was skimming over the water at 40 miles an hour.

Nester told police that Pennick was one of two passengers occupying the driver's seat with him and that suddenly he displayed a pistol and stuck it into Nester's side with a demand that he turn over his money. Instead Nester said he shut off the motor and with the help of the other occupant of the seat, Edward Rider, Erie, Pa., disarmed the man just as he fired two shots wild in the air.

SANBORN'S TWO DIVORCES INVESTIGATED IN DEATH PROBE

KIDNAP THEORY DISCARDED BY POLICE

Ex-Cabinet Member's Son May Reveal Business Affairs

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Kidnaping, blackmail or personal revenge were considered by police today as motives that led to the mysterious murder of Henry F. Sanborn, socially prominent railway executive.

Sanborn's body, shot through the back, was found by berry pickers Saturday in a hastily scooped-out grave on Long Island three weeks after he suddenly disappeared from his New York office.

Police attached importance to the finding of a revolver and cartridges in his room at the Railway Y. M. C. A., where Sanborn lived despite the fact he was wealthy and had a salary of more than $450 monthly. They said he was evidently in fear of enemies. The gun was newly purchased.

POLICE SECRETIVE

It was apparent police were withholding information they had uncovered in their investigation. They refused to confirm a report a man, said to have been a friend of Sanborn and whose name has not been revealed in the investigation to date, was being sought for questioning.

Detectives today were to question several of the murdered man's business associates. They planned to question every person with whom Sanborn had business dealings recently.

Later they will question Bancroft Mitchell, son of former Attorney General William D. Mitchell, who sailed for Europe two days before Sanborn was first officially reported missing. Mitchell is believed in Italy. Mitchell had been associated with Sanborn in several business deals.

DIVORCES STUDIED

While the kidnaping and blackmail angles were thoroughly followed, investigation also covered Sanborn's affairs with women. He was twice married and divorced, and was engaged to marry Magnhilde Almskaar, blonde New York business girl, at the time he left his Woolworth Building office on a mission to Long Island, which led to his death.

Miss Almskaar, it was revealed today, had told police she understood that Sanborn's second divorce might not have been made final. Only within the last year his second wife obtained or started proceedings for a divorce in Cook County, Ill., she said.

Mitchell in Italy, Refuses to Talk

FLORENCE, Italy, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Bancroft Mitchell, sought by American police in the hope he might be able to throw some light on the mysterious slaying of his business associate, Henry Sanborn, railway executive, was located by International News Service today. He refused to grant an interview. He said:

"I am sorry. I cannot see anyone and I cannot talk."

Mitchell, who left the United States shortly after the disappearance of Sanborn, later found murdered and buried in a shallow grave by the side of a Long Island road, arrived here last night with his wife.

He immediately took up quarters at the Grand Hotel and did not leave his room during the night or this morning.

Second Wife Accused Sanborn of Abuse

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The second wife of Henry F. Sanborn, slain New York railroad executive, was being sought in Chicago today.

It was revealed that Sanborn had lived here for two years prior to his wife's obtaining a divorce.

The former wife, who was sought in an effort to learn from her the names of associates who might throw some light on the motives behind the crime, is Mary Irene Waterous Sanborn.

Sanborn married his second wife on August 2, 1916, in St. Paul, Minn. They moved to Chicago in October, 1926, and made their home on the near North Side. The divorce was granted on the grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Sanborn testified during the divorce trial here that Sanborn was "very sullen, very abusive and very cruel." Replying to a question as to what had happened on January 12, 1929, Mrs. Sanborn said:

"It was the night when I was having a wedding in our house for a mutual friend of ours and after the wedding he became very abusive and before some guests had left he struck me."

A Breakfast Table Tragedy: Widow, Stepchildren Enmeshed in Slaying

THE WIDOW: BIBLE-READING MRS. MILLER...UNPERTURBED

Exhibiting no trace of emotion over the killing of her husband, Fred Miller, at the breakfast table this morning, the Greenfield housewife calmly seated in detective headquarters as police questioned her. Police say Mrs. Miller readily admitted the shooting "because he needed it." Then she packed the pistol in her purse, carried her Bible in her hand and calmly surrendered. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

DOROTHY MILLER, 14 WILLIAM MILLER, 12 LAURA MILLER

Orphans of the tragedy, William and Laura are twins. They are quoted: "Our father didn't treat us very well. We didn't get enough to eat. He liked Gertrude best." Gertrude, Miller's stepdaughter, and a stepson, Ernest, did not live at the family home in Stanley street.

GERTRUDE WRIGHT

The 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. Miller by a previous marriage. She resides elsewhere, did not witness the slaying of her step-father.

BALBO ARMADA FLIER KILLED IN TAKEOFF

Remaining Ships Land At Lisbon After Hop From Azores

International News Service.

HORTA, Azores, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Another fatality marred the seaplane expedition of Gen. Italo Balbo today when Lieut. Squaglia, second in command of the I-RANI, died from injuries received when his craft capsized in taking off for Lisbon early this morning.

Lieut. Squaglia's death was the second fatality of the expedition. Sergt.-Mechanic Quintavalle was killed when the armada landed at Amsterdam on July 1 while en route to the United States.

Three other members of the crew of the I-RANI were slightly injured.

Armada Lands at Lisbon After Hop from Azores

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Gen. Italo Balbo's air armada, minus one ship which overturned at the takeoff, killing one man and injuring three others, completed another leg of the journey home to Italy today by flying from the Azores to Lisbon.

The seaplanes arrived here in three groups. The last, a formation of three which remained behind to care for the three men injured in the accident in the Azores, flew over Black Horse square just as Gen. Balbo, the first to arrive, was reviewing his guard of honor.

The vanguard of the armada began to alight on the Tagus at 2:30 p. m., G. M. T. (9:30 a. m. Pittsburgh time) and one hour, 15 minutes later all 23 planes were at their mooring places.

The armada required about seven hours to cover the 1,200 miles from the Azores to Lisbon, traveling at an average speed of better than 170 miles an hour.

Balbo Describes Tragic Takeoff for Mussolini

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Gen. Italo Balbo's own report to Premier Mussolini on the accident to one of his armada seaplanes at Ponta Delgada, Azores, today, was made public here by the Mackay Radio Company.

The general ascribed the mishap, which resulted in the death of one man and injuries to three, to an error in maneuvering. He reported:

"The three squadrons at Horta took off in usual formation and so also would the planes at Ponta Delgada except for the limitations of the harbor, which compelled nearly all the planes to take off from the open sea.

"My plane took off cautiously near the beach in the harbor itself. However, the I-RANI capsized, due to an error in maneuvering. Capt. Ranieri, Serg.-Maj. Cremaschi and Sergeant Boveri were only bruised. The second pilot, Lieut. Squaglia, apparently suffered from concussions and nervous shock."

The lieutenant died of his injuries.

ARIZONA VOTES FOR REPEAL

International News Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 9.—Arizona today was the twenty-first state to vote for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The majority was about 4 to 1 and was expected to mount even higher when additional returns are compiled.

Repealists were assured of victory in yesterday's special election when returns from 366 of the state's 444 precincts gave:

For repeal—44,634.

Against repeal—12,955.

Several counties voted as high as 12 to 1 for repeal.

Mrs. Isabella Greenway, of Tucson, national Democratic committeewoman for Arizona, and a lifelong friend of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's family, won the Democratic Congressional nomination for the post resigned by Lewis Douglas, who became director of the federal budget.

BANDIT SCORNS SMALL CHANGE

A youthful robber who spurned "small change" was being sought by North Side police today.

The incident was reported to police by Dennis McCarthy, of 1602 Dagmar street, operator of a Spring Garden avenue street car.

McCarthy told police he handed the robber his change container, but the bandit spurned it, and searched him for larger money. His search was futile. He did not take the change.

A woman passenger on the car was not molested.

The holdup, McCarthy said, occurred at East Lacock and Goodrich streets.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is now centered over the Hudson Bay section and a ridge of high pressure extends southward over the Ohio Valley states to the Gulf. Lows are centered off the Middle Atlantic Coast, over Kansas, and Saskatchewan, with a trough formation extending from Canada down over the plains states to Mexico. Light rains occurred during yesterday and last night over Ohio and eastward to the coast, and showers and thunderstorms were general over the plains states. There is still much cloudiness over the northern states, and its is raining in Missouri and Iowa, while over the southern states the skies are clear. Temperature changes since yesterday morning were slight, but high maximum temperatures have set in again over the plains states. The highest reported yesterday is 102 degrees, at Dodge City, Kan. At Devils Lake, N. D., the highest was 96.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 0.4 foot; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 12.0; Pittsburgh, 10.3; Dam No. 4, 8.8; No. 6, 7.5; No. 10, 8.6, and No. 12, 7.2. The dams are up. Rainfall over the district was general, but mostly light. The heaviest reported is .70-inch, at Freeport.

Flies 400 Miles to Meeting and It's Postponed

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J., Aug. 9.—Four hundred miles from the Vermont-Quebec border rushed Commissioner Arthur E. Armitage by airplane to attend a meeting of the borough fathers. Hurrying into the hall he found the custodian scrubbing the floor. The worker said:

"There ain't no meeting tonight. It has been postponed until next week."

The commissioner moaned:

"And it cost me a month's salary to attend tonight."

Berlin Businesses Mark 'Pure Aryan'

BERLIN.—(AP.)—As part of the campaign to divert German business into "pure Aryan" channels the Economic Union has begun distribution of signs to business houses showing that the proprietor is a German in the Nazi sense of the word.

The signs show a rising sun, the swastika and the German eagle.

Lands Giant Cod After Long Battle

GRAY, Me.—(INS.)—Capt. Herman A. Spinney, of this town, worked his line for 45 minutes before he found out that he had hooked a 127-pound cod, instead of the bottom of the ocean as he had first supposed.

MRS. COSTELLO AIDED BY COURT

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The defense in the trial of Mrs. Jessie B. Costello for the poison death of her fire captain husband scored a point this afternoon when Judge Frederick W. Fosdick denied a motion of the state to have all testimony concerning absorption of cyanide of potassium stricken from the records.

Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, New York toxicologist and defense witness, who had testified that the death of Fire Capt. William J. Costello might have been caused accidentally by inhalation of fumes as he mixed cyanide and oxalic acid for his wife for cleaning purposes or from an abrasion on his hands, was under a severe grilling by youthful Assistant District Attorney John J. Ryan, Jr.

U. S. Reports Drop In Jobless Relief

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—A drop of 1.2 per cent from June to July in families given jobless relief in 45 cities was reported today by Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator. Money outlay for relief decreased 8.4 per cent.

In these cities, comprising the chief industrial centers, the number of families receiving public aid dropped from 1,165,276 to 1,150,750, and the total expended from $27,087,639 to $24,801,845.

Dancing Masters Sign Code, Step To 'Nira'

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The Dancing Masters of America, Inc., representing some 1,000 schools of stage and ballroom dancing, signed the Recovery Administration's blanket code yesterday and claimed the honor of being the first professional group to do so.

Provisions of the code are to be made public today.

The dancing masters, attending their fiftieth annual convention in New York, have devised a new dance step, called "The Nira."

'First Lady' Visits Ill Social Worker

WESTPORT, Conn., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., motored from the summer White House, at Hyde Park, N. Y., to pay a visit last night to Miss Lillian D. Wald, welfare worker and sociologist, who is recovering from illness.

The President's wife and her companion joined Miss Jane Addams, Chicago settlement worker, and Dr. Alice Hamilton, of the Harvard Medical School, as dinner guests of the founder of Henry Street Settlement, New York.

NO BLUE EAGLE BAN ON ADS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, today interpreted his warning against misuse of the Blue Eagle as having no effect on its publication in newspaper advertisements. He said:

"Another misinterpretation is in relation to a notice warning people against racketeers who are attempting to get people using the Blue Eagle to pay for inclusion in a so-called roll of honor.

"Some people have construed this as preventing newspapers from selling advertising space for the announcements of Blue Eagle firms and individuals.

"That is an absurdity.

"The NRA wants all publicity given to the use of the emblem and, obviously, there are no strings on the newspapers as to the form, shape, size, or character of their ads so long as the advertisers are bona fide members of the Blue Eagle fraternity."

MOTOR BALKS NICHOLS FLIGHT

UNITED AIRPORT, Burbank, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ruth Nichols, aviatrix, returned here at 3:30 a. m. today to repair an ailing motor after being gone approximately two and a half hours on an attempt to lower the women's west-east transcontinetal record held by Amelia Earhart.

Miss Nichols circled the field several times before landing. Evidently it was difficult to drop her heavily laden machine on to the runway. She had more than 300 gallons of gasoline in the tanks of her low-wing, speedy ship when she returned. Her landing was perfect.

Having satisfied herself the plane was in good condition except for the motor, Miss Nichols left the field to go to bed. While definite plans were not announced, she was understood to be ready to try to get away again some time after midnight tonight.

Greensburg Stores On NRA Schedule

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 9.—Greensburg stores have voted to adopt a new schedule of closing hours in connection with the NRA code. The plan becomes operative August 14.

'LOCK ME UP, I'M AFRAID OF MYSELF!'

MRS. HAZEL M'CARTHY MACZA

The attractive 22-year-old Mt. Lebanon woman as she pleaded in Morals Court today that she be sent away "to a reformatory or anywhere." Her husband, Frank Macza, is serving a workhouse term for a North Side laundry holdup. Mrs. Macza surrendered to police this morning with the assertion she had stolen a brief case from the auto of a man who had given her a "lift." She was held over for further investigation. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

PATROLMAN J. J. LYONS

RIOT CALL ENDS FIGHT OVER GIRL

A riot call to the East End Police Station early today summoned half a dozen policemen to quell a free-for-all fight at Frankstown avenue and Station street, which started, police said, in an argument over a girl.

Patrolman Joseph Gilbert, who attempted to stop the battle, was the target for a shower of beer bottles. One of the missiles struck him a glancing blow on the head and shoulder, but he was not injured.

After the arrival of police reinforcements, Frank Talitz, 31, of 6425 Frankstown avenue, was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital for treatment to a head injury, and Patrick Tina, 16, of 501 Lenora street, was arrested on a suspicious person charge. A similar charge was placed against Talitz.

Duchess Quits Palace As Duke Cuts Off Gas

Universal Service.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—While political and social circles were discussing a rupture in the household of the ninth Duke of Marlborough, it was climaxed over the week-end, according to the London Daily Express today.

The Duchess of Marlborough, the former Gladys Marie Deacon, of Boston, has moved out of the duke's magnificent London house in Carlton House Terrace and has taken up residence in the Carlton Hotel, the newspaper states.

The duke, whose first wife was the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, daughter of the late W. K. Vanderbilt, of New York, has for some time been living at another hotel while the duchess remained at the ducal London residence.

According to the Daily Express, on Saturday three men said to be private detectives entered the house just as the Duchess was finishing breakfast and took possession, cutting off electricity and gas.

The three men remained throughout the weekend, as did the Duchess, it was stated, and yesterday she decided to move out.

Despite efforts on the part of the detectives, in which police and lawyers were called in, the Duchess moved out priceless paintings and furniture of her own collection and established herself in the Carlton Hotel.

The Duke of Marlborough, former undersecretary of state for colonies, is one of England's largest land owners.

FRENCH AIRMEN TO GET PRIZE

RAYAK, Syria, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos are due to receive a million francs from a grateful government for bringing the world straight-line distance flight record to France.

The prize, which now is worth about $52,800, was offered by the air ministry to be paid at the end of 1933 providing the mark stood that long, but the aviators have received indications that their nation is so enthusiastic over their exploit the sum may be paid immediately.

Rossi and Codos arrived here Monday after flying non-stop from New York, about 500 miles farther than the previous record.

They plan to fly their silvery monoplane, the Joseph Le Brix, to Marseilles, France, tomorrow.

Wife Yields to Arrest To Be 'Saved From Self'

An attractive young woman in Morals Court today asked that she be sent to a reformatory to "save herself from herself."

She is Mrs. Hazel M. Macza, 22, of 409 Cadet street, Mt. Lebanon, whose husband, Frank Macza, is serving a workhouse term for participation in the North Side Laundry holdup several months ago. She was held over.

The young woman told Magistrate T. D. Jones:

"I am afraid of myself. Send me away to a reformatory or anywhere. I tried to get a parole for my husband but failed. I stole a brief case so I would be arrested."

Patrolman J. J. Lyons testified she had walked into the North Side station early today saying she had stolen a brief case from the automobile of a man who had given her a lift from the South Side to the North Side.

She admitted, police said, stealing an automobile on the South Side and of trying to take the machine of her benefactor last night. She couldn't shift gears, she said.

Police said they learned Mrs. Macza had been despondent since the death of her baby a short time after her husband's conviction.

O'CONNELL AIDE DENIES PART IN KIDNAPING

International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—In a sullen manner, Manny Strewl, ex-convict and go-between in the O'Connell kidnaping case, pleaded not guilty to kidnaping John J. O'Connell, Jr., when arraigned today before County Judge Earl H. Gallup.

With his left eye blackened and badly in need of a shave, Strewl was arraigned to answer to an indictment that he and 10 others kidnaped young O'Connell on July 7 and then released him for $40,000 ransom. Others named in the indictment were not identified.

TRAIL BRONX BAND

Strewl was arrested late yesterday in Monticello, Sullivan County, a minute after a habeas corpus writ directing his release had been granted by Supreme Court Justice Sydney F. Foster.

He was arrested on a warrant sworn out by District Attorney John T. Delaney, charging him with the actual kidnaping of O'Connell.

After his arraignment Strewl was taken back to a cell in the Albany County Jail. His attorney said he did not know whether he would attempt to secure Strewl's release on bail.

Reports persisted that the authorities were "hot on the trail" of a band of Bronx Italians in connection with the kidnaping.

TRACE "SNATCHED" GIRL

FORT DODGE, Ia., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Police of several Iowa communities today were seeking trace of Louise Oliver, 14, and her alleged abductor following reports of the girl's parents that she had been kidnaped.

The girl was first missed Sunday night from an Eagle Grove (Ia.) tourist camp. She is the daughter of a Jacksonville (Ill.) couple. Late Sunday night she was seen by a friend riding in the automobile of a man known as Earl Dick, 22, who had arrived at the camp earlier Sunday.

MOTHER KIDNAPS SON

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Geraldine Reynolds Dutton, 22, of near Buffalo, was reported to be fleeing west through Canada last night with her son, Richard Allen Dutton, 3, kidnaped yesterday from the summer camp of his father.

Authorities said two men in custody confessed their participation in the case.

TRAP TRIO IN KIDNAPING

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Three men were under arrest and seizure of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, multimillionaire Oklahoma City oil man, was believed imminent today as Federal operatives led an intensive search of Minneapolis and St. Paul underworld haunts.

Federal agents seized the trio when marked ransom money paid to the Urschel kidnapers appeared at two Minneapolis banks. The three men held incommunicado and under close guard are Charles Wolk, Sam Kronick and Sam Frederick.

Chickens Stolen As Owner Watches

Somebody stole 18 chickens right before the eyes of their owner, Angelo Valsi, early today. Reporting the theft to Bridgeville police, Valsi said he was standing guard on the chicken coop on his farm at Bell Town when the chickens disappeared. He told police:

"It set in to rain and nobody should steal chickens in the rain. Then I must have gone to sleep, and the chicks were gone."

KIDNAP THREAT CLUES TRACED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Though still without a definite clue to his identity, investigators believe the man who threatened the life of 15-year-old Betty Downes is a former railroad employe who once worked for the girl's father, James R. Downes, chief of freight transportation for the Pennsylvania Railroad.

That was admitted last night after federal investigators and detectives set a trap in vain for the man who, in a letter, instructed Downes to appear in suburban Overbrook with $15,000 as "insurance" against his daughter's abduction or death.

Downes, apparently alone, yesterday went to the spot mentioned in the letter and waited for more than three hours for the extortionist to show up. But no one appeared.

The girl meanwhile is being guarded day and night in a fashionable girls' camp in New Hampshire.

SEVEN ORPHANS DROWN AT PICNIC

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Lifeguards and police patrolled the Rockaway shore today, seeking the bodies of six orphan children, missing since a comber struck the Edgemere Beach yesterday. One other child was drowned outright in the tragedy.

They were lost from a group of 105 frolicking youngsters of the Pride of Judea Home, enjoying an annual visit to the seashore.

The children had been taken to the beach in buses, excited and happy over their day's airing. Accompanying them were four officials of the home and 10 women chaperons.

Sixty of the children, set free on the beach, waded out on a 100-yard long sandbar. It was dangerous footing, but they, hand in hand, did not know it.

A lifeguard, Harry Epstein, saw them. He blew a warning whistle and started rowing toward them. His partner, Michael Davis, jumped from his observation tower and started swimming to them.

As the children halted, bewildered, the wave hit, swept 40 of them into the surf, and smashed the sandbar in half. Epstein said:

"It was like a shipwreck. Heads were bobbing everywhere."

Twelve lifeguards were on the job in a moment. They worked carrying children to safety and later at resuscitation until some of them dropped.

Raymond Evans, 10, never regained consciousness after he had been pulled ashore. Nine others were brought back to life.

Police questioned the chaperons. The lifeguards criticized the party's supervision. But six little bodies were sought in vain all through the night.

Auto Injuries Kill Vaudeville Actress

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Tom O'Brien, 52, wife of a former film actor and known several years ago in vaudeville as "Zonetta, the American Girl," died in a hospital yesterday from injuries received a week ago in an automobile accident.

Her automobile collided with another driven by Mrs. Sadie Sandusky, who died after the accident.

AIMEE AND DAVE FRIENDLY, MAY DROP DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Friends of Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, and her husband David L. Hutton, Jr., who has filed suit for divorce, said today the two may become reconciled.

The pair kept their own counsel after an interview in a private dining room of a downtown hotel but they emerged to the gaze of curious onlookers beaming.

Said Jerome Mayo, Hutton's lawyer:

"The prospects are very bright for a reconciliation."

Said the Angelus Temple evangelist, whose seven months' sojourn abroad brought her near-grass widowhood because Hutton was tired of being an also-ran in the public notices:

"Yes, we had a long chat, but I do not wish to discuss it at present."

Hutton commented tersley:

"Talked things over. Probably another visit soon. Nothing to say."

Then he hurried away to the stage of a theater for his singing act and returned for another word with his wife.

Hutton is going ahead with his career in vaudeville houses.

His wife will hold a revival meeting in Racine, Wis., and another in Cedar Rapids, Ia., between September 17 and 27.

Mary McCormic Sued for U. S. Tax

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mary McCormic, opera singer and an Australian screen writer, John V. Farrow, were named yesterday in liens filed in Federal Court by an Internal Revenue collector.

The government charged Miss McCormic owed $120 on her 1932 income tax and Farrow $203.74 on his 1930 tax.

Women Zionists Open 7th Congress

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The seventh congress of the women's international Zionist organizations began here today with 150 delegates present, from many lands. Speakers described the present situation of Judaism as the worst in history, but also a great spur to Zionism.

25 YEARS SHOW INCOME TAX FAILURE

[Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of five articles on the federal income tax system, which 25 years of experience has demonstrated to be unreliable as a revenue producer, costly in administration and discriminatory.)

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Three Congressional committees and Treasury experts were busy today trying to patch up the hodge-podge income tax law.

Sub-committees of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees were tinkering with the complex system.

Experts of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation were poring over a maze of figures and the complicated income tax procedure, preparing reports for the Congressional committees. And Treasury experts were in conference with chieftains on Capitol Hill.

Groundwork was being laid for another overhauling of the income tax law at the next session of Congress.

MORE 'IFS' IN LAW

All of which indicates the taxpayer, especially corporations and individuals in the higher brackets, will have more "ifs" and "buts" in the law to learn.

Experience under the income tax law, first put in operation in 1917 under the income tax amendment to the Constitution, has demonstrated:

1. It is an unreliable form of taxation. In depression periods it fails to produce the necessary revenue.

2. Cost of collecting the tax rises in depression times, because the government's overhead is fairly constant and there are fewer tax returns to handle.

3. Because of the countless thousands of variations in business transactions and the inability to frame a law that will cover each case without leaving room for differences of opinion, the Internal Revenue Bureau and Board of Tax Appeals as well as the courts are constantly flooded with disputed claims.

EXPERTS NECESSARY

4. The individual of substantial means and large corporations must employ tax experts to handle their returns and present their cases before the government agencies, despite the obvious intent of the government to be fair in its assessments.

5—Failure of the income tax system to produce the required revenue in depression times forces Congress to turn to many forms of nuisance taxes that disturb business and upset competitive conditions in dustry.

6—Despite constant efforts of the government to simplify procedure, the course of a taxpayer's return, regarless of the amount of money involved, has become a labyrinth of checks and double-checks, expensive to the government and taxpayer.

7—Congress, in order to keep the income tax system functioning, has had to give wide discretionary authority to administrative officials, resulting in many thousands of tax cases being settled on a "give-and-take" basis around the conference table.

CONTEST OPENS FOR SEA TRIPS TOMORROW

Here are the easy rules for the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises":

Answer all 20 questions. There will be two questions every day in the daily Sun-Telegraph for 10 days beginning August 10 and closing August 21.

White a letter of not more than 50 words telling why you need a vacation this summer.

Send answers and letter to the Cruise Contest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Four winners will be selected, two for each cruise. Correctness of answers and cleverness of letters will be considered in selecting winners. Judges' decision will be final. No entries will be returned. All entries must be in not later than August 25. Winners will be announced as quickly as possible after that date. In the event of tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The two entrants submitting the most nearly correct sets of answers, accompanied by the most convincing letters, will be awarded 10-day cruises to Florida, all expenses paid. The next two most nearly correct sets of answers accompanied by the most convincing letters will be awarded 7-day cruises to Boston, expenses paid.

Entrants must be over 16 years of age. Employes of the Sun-Telegraph or their families, or employes of radio station WCAE, are not eligible to participate in the "Contest Cruises."

Vacation days will not be over for a month or more. Economic pressure has kept many from their annual summer diversions, but the Sun-Telegraph is going to make it possible for four readers to enjoy a deluxe ocean cruise, all expenses paid.

The contest for these begins tomorrow. In tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph the first two of 20 questions will be printed in a coupon. These questions will continue to appear—two a day—in the daily Sun-Telegraph for 10 days. Readers who submit the most nearly correct list of answers to these 20 questions and write the most convincing letter telling why they want a vacation will be awarded the cruises.

All of these four cruises will be made on the Merchants and Miners Line sailing out of Baltimore. The two contestants sending in the best sets of answers, accompanied by the best letters, will be awarded 10-day ocean trips to Florida, the first stop at Miami and then by motor to Daytona Beach, St. Augustine and Jacksonville. Taking the boat again, there is a day's stop at Savannah, Ga., on the way home.

The Boston trips to be awarded as third and fourth prizes also start at Baltimore on the same steamship line, with two days at sea, going and coming, and three days in and around Boston. All expenses will be paid for these four trips, including railway transportation from Pittsburgh to Baltimore and home again in Pullmans.

One of the most attractive features in the general makeup of "Contest Cruises" is its absolute simplicity.

If you want a delightful vacation at the expense of the Sun-Telegraph, here is your opportunity.

Don't miss the first two "Contest Cruise" questions in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

ADMITS KILLING GIRL ON RANCH

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Sheriff's officers today reported Roy Mann, 24-year-old state highway department employe, admitted shooting an attractive young woman to death on a deserted ranch in South Roseville.

The body of the 19-year-old blonde, who Mann said he knew only as Patricia, was found huddled over a 60-foot well shaft in the ranch pumphouse late last night. The body was clad only in a light house dress and a pair of ankle length socks.

Shortly after the body was found, Sheriff's deputies arrested Mann, aided by neighbors who supplied the license number of an automobile they had noted parked at a ranch for several hours Sunday.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Ogle said Mann related he became angered at the girl after two arguments during which she threatened to blackmail him.

GROCERS FIGHT RULING

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The food and grocery industry conference committee last night wired a protest to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, against full application of a ruling given Indiana retail grocers.

Committee members said they understood the hours of one-man, or family stores, were being set up as the standard for all neighborhood retail stores in the ruling. It denied a petition of Indiana small store owners who sought a reduction in store hours to make unnecessary an increase in the number of employes.

Seven members of a committee representing the grocery distributing industry failed to agree on a code here yesterday but continued deliberations.

Signatories of the blainket code in Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin reached 100,514 today with 507,181 employes in Chicago alone now working under its provisions. Wilson & Co., packers, signed the packers' code. They employ 15,000 workers.

BELL BOY SUES 'GIGOLO' HEIR

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Lieut. J. Trimble Brown, U. S. A., $100,000 beneficiary under the will of the late Nellie P. Carter, eccentric millionaire spinster, was sued yesterday for $2,000 by a former hotel bell boy.

Brown, an aide to Maj. Gen. Fox Conner, commander of the First Corps Area, was characterized, during a recent attempt by 10 cousins of the dead woman to break the Carter will, as a "uniformed Gigolo."

Yesterday Aaron Babikian, of Everett, brought suit charging that he quit a lucrative job at a downtown hotel, where Miss Carter had lived for many years, when she moved to another hostelry, on a promise Brown would get him another job. This, it is alleged, Brown failed to do.

Mollisons to Try World Record Hop

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Capt. and Mrs. James Mollison, English fliers, are planning another attempt to smash the world's distance flight record, they revealed today. They will fly from England or Wales, their undertaking including a trans-Atlantic

War Problems Halt As Private's Pants Burn

MT. GRETNA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—War problems of the 104th Cavalry Regiment of the National Guard were held up today until an airplane carried a new pair of pants to Private George Reitz, of Punxsutawney.

Private Reitz now knows that matches should not be carried in hip pockets when riding a horse.

Orders were to advance upon an imaginary enemy near Lawn and Private Reitz couldn't disobey orders. However, his pants were being consumed so rapidly that Reitz shouted "help." Capt. John Bell halted the entire column and before he could ride back the line, Ritz had dismounted and partially disrobed.

Maj. Albert Stackpole telephoned orders to Cammy Vinet, pilot of the major's plane, to hurry a new pair of breeches to Private Reitz.

Maj. Benjamin Levine, of Altoona, is confined to quarters with a severe case of ivy poisoning.

Jobless Girl Dies After Taking Poison

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Aug. 9.—Despondent of inability to procure work, Theresa L. Mooney, 21, daughter of Mrs. Mary Mooney, died in the hospital within an hour of taking poison.

MACHADO, CUBA CHIEFS CONFER

and leave office, at least temporarily.

Ambassador Sumner Welles was using all the diplomatic suasion possible to prevent a situation which might force this government to the point where it would be obliged to withdraw from the scene or send marines to restore law, order and personal liberty.

Department officials admitted Machado has refused to accede to Welles' formula calling for his retirement. They insisted, however, that efforts to persuade the 61-year old dictator to withdraw will be continued, and meanwhile "we still are not talking intervention."

PHONES WASHINGTON

Welles had a long telephone conversation with Undersecretary of State Phillips this morning.

Although officials admitted that efforts were being made to have Machado quit office, either by resigning or taking a leave of absence, it was emphasized this was not an attempt by the United States to dictate who should be President of Cuba, but merely an effort to carry out the will of all political factions in Cuba, including Machado's own Liberal party.

We're selling more sheets, shoes, blankets, men's suits, women's dresses, children's wear THAN WE EVER THOUGHT POSSIBLE IN AUGUST!

Why? Because the public at last realizes that the price rise CANNOT be stopped—that it's part of the National Recovery Act—official, legal, inevitable! AND—

Because shoppers realize that here at Harris' the old, low prices are still in effect . . . new coats and dresses, new suits for men . . . AT THE OLD PRICES—if you come in time—right NOW!

If You're "On the Job" Your Credit's Good

Once you've landed that position, come in and get yourself presentably outfitted. Don't worry about the payments. We'll arrange those to suit YOU. Just as the NRA is taking the chance of bringing back prosperity by untried measures, we'll take a chance that you'll pay us "when you have it".

LONG RUNWAYS FOR AIRPORT

Improvement of three runways at the County Airport to meet requirements for the government's A-1-A rating was brought nearer today by the County Commissioners' purchase of 30 additional acres.

The purchase was authorized yesterday at the cost of $250 an acre, from the Carnegie Steel Company and the Monongahela Railroad. The steel company agreed to provide slag to fill in the property and the railroad contracted to haul the slag at 11 cents per cubic yard. The contract is to stipulate a maximum of 150,000 cubic yards. This is expected to bring the new property and part of the present airport to the proper level.

The purchase permits the lengthening of three runways to the necessary 2,500 feet each. This length was stipulated by J. E. Sommers, of the airport section of the U. S. Department of Commerce, while inspecting the county field.

COX PILGRIMS DUE FRIDAY

The Rev. James R. Cox, of St. Patrick's Church, and most of the members of his party on a pilgrimage to Rome, will arrive home Friday morning. They will reach New York Thursday on the S. S. Manhattan.

Father Cox will have to work harder than ever, according to Brother Andrew, who has been handling his welfare activities while "the father of the jobless" was abroad. Brother Andrew says the breadline at Old St. Patrick's has increased instead of diminished. This he attributes to the closing of activities along these lines at the Helping Hand.

Ask Me Another

How do flies walk on the ceiling? What causes rain, lightning, thunder, wind? Why do onions make you weep?

The answers to the parent-stumping questions such as these are given in a series of broadcasts designed for children, beginning over an NBC-WCAE chain of stations this afternoon at 5:15.

* * *

Waring Stays

Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians due in our midst Friday, begin another 26-week series of programs over Columbia-WJAS tonight at 10.

* * *

Lewis Heller, younger brother of Litle Jackie Heller, who sings with Ben Bernie's band, is heard over WWSW tomorrow afternoon at 4:30.

* * *

Eva Le Gallienne's series of romantic readings for children, (and for grown ups,) continues over KDKA at 7:15 with "Alice in Wonderland."

* * *

Brice Revival

Fannie Brice revives a ballad that was born with the century, singing "When You Know You're Not Forgotten by the Girl You Can't Forget." She is featured as usual with George Olsen's orchestra, over WCAE at 8.

* * *

The Singing Strings, a trio composed of three Charleoi musicians, return to the WJAS air waves tonight at 8 after an absence of several months.

* * *

Lois Miller, Pittsburgh's singing organist, presents a program of classic and popular favorites over KDKA at 6:30.

Cohan Follows Brisbane, Rogers

By AIRCASTER

The radio newsreel—

George M. Cohan, Broadway's veteran showman, took pen in hand yesterday to sign up with the oil company whose broadcasts Will Rogers inaugurated, and which lately brought Arthur Brisbane to the air.

Mr. Cohan begins broadcasting August 20, with Rogers and Fred Stone filling in the coming Sabbath. Cohan will hold forth for six weeks and introduce excerpts from some of his Rialto successes.

When Frances Upton plays the role of "Mrs. Holtz" on the air, as she frequently does, it must all have a bittersweet flavor for both of them. Not so long ago, Frances and Lou publicly announced their intentions of becoming "Mr. and Mrs." in reality. Frances broke the engagement over a rival—cards. Lou spent every evening shuffling the pasteboards, and she felt she would see little of him as a husband. She admits that Lou is the only man she ever really cared for.

Ziegfeld Beauty in Real-Life Drama

Mary Alice Rice, Ziegfeld Follies beauty, dramatizes her own strange experiences behind the Follies footlights for Altoona radio listeners tomorrow afternoon.

"In "Secrets of the Follies" Miss Rice reveals how she became a Ziegfeld star overnight, despite the jealousies and conspiracies of the other chorines.

The real life drama is heard over WFBG Thursday at 3 p. m.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Roy Chapman Andrews better look to his laurels. Here is another globe-trotter who found something that may prove as interesting as the dinosaur eggs unearthed by Mr. Andrews in the Gobi Desert.

Frank A. Biringer, of Cecil, excavating with a spade in the back yard, dug up mud balls the size of a pigeon eggs. Sealed within the sphere was a tiny bug all curled up. It looked like a potato bug. He found six of the mud balls.

He's curious to know what he found. Who can tell him? Any scientific trotters tuned in today?

* * *

Speaking of bugs, I got a distasteful subject to mention, but it is in the interest of a frantic housewife that can't get rid of bed bugs. She needs something sure. She's tried most everything and anything.

* * *

For those red ants, Mrs. O'Malley, break their contact with the floor to prevent them from getting into your refrigerator. Place the legs of the refrigerator in saucers or pans. Put coal oil in the pans. Be careful of fire, though. Aren't those ants terrible?

* * *

Getting away from nature in the raw I just learned that Pirate Adam Comorosky is not only perturbed about his idleness enforced through his ankle injury, but he fears its effect on his music. Adam just bought an accordion. He claims he can't practice because he keeps time with his right foot, the one at the end of the injured ankle.

Paul Peters—Globe-trotter didn't make that announcement. Try the missing persons bureau of the police for information.

J. E. B.—Can't very well advertise your remedy. Thanks for writing, though.

Today's hint for the housewife—A bucket of cold water, with a few slices of onions floating around, left in a room all night will kill the odor of fresh paint or varnish.

U. S. INSISTS ON FAIR DEAL BY BANKS

Federal authorities intend to see that there is no injustice to depositors in reorganization of the closed banks of Western Pennsylvania.

This is the statement of Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson, special counsel for the Comptroller of the Currency, who is in Pittsburgh conferring with officials of closed banks regarding plans for reopening.

Judge Johnson declared that no pressure will be brought to bear on depositors to subscribe for stock in new banks. He said:

"We know there is a chance for unfairness there and are watching it closely. I was in a closed bank once myself and I wanted my money."

This does not mean, however, that some of the larger depositors will not be asked to help in the re-organizations, Johnson said. The old stockholders also will be called upon to subscribe for new stock, he declared.

The affairs of the closed banks may require his attention in Pittsburgh for another month, Johnson said. He is conferring daily with conservators and delegations from the institutions which failed to re-open after the national banking holiday.

The speed achieved in re-opening the banks will depend on the citizens of the local communities, Johnson said. He offers help in preparing plans for re-organization. His office is in the Federal Reserve Bank Building, Grant street.

Overture "Oberon" ..... Weber
"From My Window" ... Mrs. F. F. Rohrer
"The Horn" ..... Flegier
Excerpts from "Song of the Flame" ..... Gershwin

Nocturne ..... Tschaikowski
The Emperor Waltz ..... Strauss
Selection from "Pinafore" ..... Sullivan
Introduction to 3rd Act of "Lohengrin" ..... Wagner

Mr. Lissfelt

The weather was against the Schenley Lawn Players last night and so they had to move indoors to the ballroom, a not too comfortable place to listen even to light music at this season.

The music somewhat atoned for the discomfort, however, and the soloists were both good. Mrs. F. F. Rohrer's vignette, "From My Window," which we have heard as a song, bears translation to the larger ensemble and with equally good effect. Of the orchestra one became aware how capable it really is after the weeks in its alfresco quarters.

Samuel Kliatchko's musicianship is well established by now and when he plays an enticing nocturne as last night, we are bound to respond.

Raymond Griffin has an excellent bass voice and he should have sung something better suited to show in artistic makeup, for the two songs given lost their humor indoors and showed only the depth of his scale.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should a Girl Inform Her Fiance About Her Past?

Remorse!

Terrible word! Terrible feeling! And it's supposed to be a virtue.

But for how long is remorse a virtue?

How much time should we spend being sorry?

When should we put the sad, bad yesterdays behind us and go on into bigger, better tomorrows?

And can a "bad girl" ever do that?

Poor, foolish Nona would like to know.

Dear Elsie:

This is such an old, old story. Maybe it will bore you. You must hear it so often. But please, I do need your advice. I don't know what to do, I am so wretched.

About a year ago I had an affair with a boy. It was foolish, I know—now. And how I do regret it, and repent it, now that it is all over! What I would give to be able to live those months over again; to have them back! How differently I would live them!

At the time I didn't think it mattered what we did, because I thought we would marry, and it would be all right. But we broke up. He has gone away, and now I have met someone else.

ACCEPTS PROPOSAL

I know I could be a good wife if I married him. But that is just what I am afraid of. I love him so, I would rather die than give him up. And I can't tell him about this other one. I don't know what to do.

He has asked me to marry him and I have consented, knowing all the time of this shadow. I know I am not being fair. But if he knew he would be so hurt—not angry, just hurt to the quick, to think I had done such a thing.

For heaven's sake help me. Should I tell him? Or have I a right, really, to keep this chapter of my life to myself? The other boy is abroad, permanently, and I will never see him again, I am sure. Therefore this man I love could never find out from that direction.

I have confided in one friend, who told me I would have to decide for myself, but that is just what I can't do. I am so bewildered! I am only 18, yet I feel so old. I worry over it, night and day. "Shall I tell him, or shan't I?" is all I have in my mind. I know the old saying "he who sows shall reap." But must I always reap harm from a period of folly that I bitterly regret?

Nona.

So you don't want to reap what you've sowed? I'm not surprised. Few of us do. Few of us pay attention to signposts. Most of us yearn to go back and "do things differently"—when it is too late. I've done it myself. All regular humans have.

But we always have to pay up for what we do. That's one bill we can never duck!

Why do Stuffy Old Folks try to herd youngsters around and tell 'em how to act? Why do we have conventions? That's why! To keep them out of jams—to keep them from being hurt and being sorry.

Does this mean, then, that you will have to go to "reaping harm" for the rest of your life, Nona?

No, it doesn't, honey. You have paid—you are paying—for that mistake. Paying in bitter shame and regret, for those foolish notions of Being Modern and free.

All right! Begin now to pay by building, instead of blubbering; by looking forward; growing into a fine, honorable woman, in place of the silly, wilful girl you were.

FORGET THE PAST

Put that past behind you. Turn your face toward Tomorrow. For life needs you, just as you need life. It isn't what you did yesterday that counts. It is what you make of the days ahead.

And must you, to clear the slate, tell this man you love of what you have done? That depends on you, child. Once the world would have demanded that you tell him—called you a cheat if you didn't. That was when the world believed that a man owned the woman he married. But now the world is beginning to believe that a woman owns herself—that she is no more obliged to tell than a man is.

So, answer for yourself, little girl. If you feel that you belong to yourself, and are answerable for and to yourself, don't tell him. But if you, yourself, feel that the only honest thing to do is to tell him, then you must; for all must obey the law of our own souls, and no one else can tell us what that law is.

Couples Should Quarrel in Private Only, Fay King Believes

WHAT A PITY FOR A COUPLE TO QUARREL IN "LOVER'S LANE"
IT LOOKED AS IF SHE WAS GOING TO HIT HIM WITH THE EAR OF CORN ON THE COB!
AT THE PICTURE SHOW

By FAY KING

If a couple must quarrel they should stay at home or pick some quiet spot where they will not disturb others.

Nothing is so distressing as to be dining near people who are having one of those exceedingly polite quarrels. They are so cultured about it, but it is, nevertheless, very bitter, and one expects the silverware and china to enter into active service any moment.

And then those couples who pick a picture show for their quarrel. And you try to follow both the plot on the screen and the plot in back of you!

But the most thoughtless couple of all are those who will pick the most popular lover's lane to fight in. It brings such discord where only harmony had been.

Madge's Husband Warns Her About 'Ede'

Dicky owes Lillian so much that a lifetime of respectful devotion would not pay his debt, and for the most part he accords her deference and real affection. But I think there arose a very real desire to beat or choke her in him at her airy query, "Is our Edith getting temperamental again?"

"You! you—" he said, his face black with anger, his fingers clinching involuntarily into fists.

Lillian laughed impudently up into his wrathful face.

"Go on, hit me, darling," she said sweetly. "It probably will make you feel a lot better, and you can imagine you've paddled Ede, too; which, my bucko boy, I'm shouting sure you have a yen for nothing else but."

For the fraction of a second he glowered down at her, then his tightened lips relaxed into the grin which is never far from Dicky's anger, and the wrath fled from his eyes.

"I ought to boil you in oil," he growled, "or stretch you on a rack, or—"

HARRY JOKES

"Hold everything!" Harry Underwood's deep voice boomed from the door, which had inadvertently been left ajar when Dicky entered. An instant later Lillian's husband was in the room, bringing with him the atmosphere of irresistable good humor and unconquerable strength with which his magnificent physique, his mental poise and his unfailing good nature always equip him. He advanced toward Dicky in a burlesqued, threatening attitude, and just in front of him swept his right arm protectingly toward Lillian.

"'Who touches a hair of that gray head,'" he intoned, then bowed low to Lillian.

"Forgive me, my dear, I should have made that more euphonious; 'silver-threaded,' or something like that; but I am a purist in quotations, you know."

Lillian, whose lovely, prematurely white hair is like a coronal around her face, wrinkled her nose at him.

'Look here, Harry!" Dicky began wrathfully, but Mr. Underwood imperturbably drew up a chair opposite him, and sat down in such fashion that neither man could leave his seat without the other having to move.

"The patient will kindly not move, talk or even breathe till Dr. Underwood has had time to go into the silence," he said solemly. "Dr. Underwood, having been informed of the patient's mental condition, and having supplemented his information by his own observation, will now consider the case."

With solemn mien he drew out a large handkerchief, covered his face and leaned back in his chair, while the rest of us gave vent to the helpless laughter which is generally the tribute of his friends to the big man's nonsense, so accomplished comedian is he.

He waited only until we had stopped laughing before removing the handkerchief.

"The patient may now begin to relate his symptoms," he said. "He need not be afraid to speak freely. This is all confidential."

OFFERS SUGGESTION

"You'll be a confidential corpse in another minute or two," Dicky said grimly, but with a twinkle in his eyes which showed that he was not really angry at the foolery, "and I can't wait any longer, much as I enjoy your histrionic talent and the genteel hen-pecking of our respective wives."

I gave an offended and incredulous start, for I had said no word to Dicky except my brief answer in the negative to his query, "Has Ede been here?" and my countering question, "Did you expect to find her here?" But he evidently had read the malice behind my apparently innocent question, and was letting me know that he had seen it.

"It's all very simple," he said, rising with a decision that put an end to foolery. Ede is having a bit of hysteria over a business proposition that has come up, and she has one or two other bees in her bonnet that she may come up here and let loose. There is nothing I can do about it—you know what a mule she is—but I though I'd come up and tip you off that she may be around, and ask you to pay as little attention to her as you can without being actually discourteous.

"As for me, I'm going to be conspicuous for my absence. In the mood the lady was in when I left her, the sight of me would only add fuel to the fire she's built already. So long, darlings! Kiss Ede for me, or kick her, whichever appeals to you most. I suggest the latter."

He strode gracefully from the room. I think Lillian gave some signal, imperceptib e to me, to her big husband, for he rose almost immediately, with a muttered paltry excuse for leaving. When he had gone, Lillian arched her eyebrows at me inquiringly.

"Now, what do you suppose the Dicky bird means by that chirp?" she asked. And the buzz of the hotel office telephone punctuated her question.

Bridal Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have been having quite a serious discussion as to whether or not married women are invited to bridal showers. I can see no reason why, if these women are friends of the bride, they should not be invited, and have decided to ask you for your advice.

Thank you for your opinion on this subject, and may I compliment you on your excellent column? A.

I agree with you . . . there is no reason why married friends of the bride-to-be should not be invited to the bridal shower. If they are close friends of the bride-to-be, I see no reason why they should be penalized for being married, by not being invited to the shower!

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Rule of Eight

Of the thirteen tricks in the play of any hand won either by the Declarer or his opponents, four are won with Aces, usually about four with other honor cards, and the balance with lower cards. Thus the ratio of tricks won with honors ranges from 8 to 8½ in almost all deals and the tricks won with low cards are from 4 to 5. From this we secure the yardstick of tricks, as the proportion of roughly 8 honor-tricks to 5 low-card tricks holds true for any average deal and may be relied upon as an axiom of the game.

The Rule of Eight makes it possible to measure the chances of scoring one-odd, two-odd or game, especially at notrump. It may also be applied with great accuracy to estimate the balance of honor strength around the table when contemplating either Penalty Doubles or Slam bids. In order to determine the balance of strength it is only necessary to add the honor-tricks shown by partner's bids to the honor-tricks in your own hand and subtract the total from 8 to 8½. The remainder shows definitely and clearly the number of defensive (honor) tricks held by the opponents.

Playing-tricks or winners at notrump are difficult to estimate with any degree of accuracy during the auction, but honor-tricks are definite values through which notrump probabilities may readily be computed. At notrump the winning of tricks with low cards depends in large measure upon honors, which are needed as reentries and stoppers. Only honor-tricks and plus values can be counted when a hand is valued for a notrump bid. The count of honor-tricks in itself includes a proportionate number of low-card tricks under the rule laid down in the Four-Five-Six Count, which is as follows:

Trick Expectancy at Notrump

Honor-Tricks in Partners' Combined Hands	Will Develop Long-Suit Tricks	Total Trick Expectancy Is
4 to 4½	2 to 3	One-odd
5	2½ to 3	Two-odd
About 6	At least 3	Game

At a suit bid, the total of playing-tricks in the hand of the prospective Declarer includes the full value of honors and honor combinations—that is, the defensive value is presented in the honor-trick table plus such extra values as result from the advantage of playing the hand at one's own bid (for instance, the full value of Ace-King-Queen is 3 whereas its defensive value is only 2)—and long-suit tricks in the bid suit and side suits. The long cards over three in a bid suit may be valued at one full trick each when partner shows adequate trump support or when the suit is practically solid; otherwise they are valued the same as inside suits. In no case are ruffing-tricks counted in the Declaring Hand. Below is given the table of long-suit tricks:

Bid Suit (If Supported)	Length of Suit	Each Side Suit
1 trick	4 cards	½ trick
2 tricks	5 cards	1 trick
3 tricks	6 cards	2 tricks

Playing Tricks in Support of Partner's Trump Bid

In counting the hand in support of a suit bid by partner, the Responding Hand includes the following three types of playing-tricks:

1. Trump-tricks in partner's bid suit, provided there is adequate trump support.
2. The full value of honors in side suits.
3. Long-suit tricks in side suits, which are valued the same as long-suit tricks in side suits in the Declaring Hand.
4. Ruffing-tricks, which are made possible by the shortness of side suits and length of trump.

Today's Question

Neither side vulnerable. The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	?

You, North, hold:

♠KQ975 ♡62 ◇AKQ ♣A74

What do you bid?

Answer: Three clubs. The hand contains over 4 honor-tricks and is far too strong to bid only four spades. A Forcing bid may be made on a three-card minor suit headed by the Ace. The club suit is to be preferred to the diamond suit for two reasons: first, if your partner is able to support the clubs you will feel much better about later contracting for a Slam, but if your partner supports diamonds, that will not improve your hand particularly; second, forcing in clubs rather than diamonds may stop a damaging club Opening against a possible Slam declaration.

Household Hints

Rinse your knife in boiling water before cutting hard-boiled eggs and the yoke will not break.

Roll a wild duck in melted pariffin, and when it cools peel it off. All the feathers and down will come with it.

Boil a few spoonfuls of water in the pan before putting in the milk. This will keep the milk from burning.

Lettuce will keep crisp for two days if a half-lemon is placed on the same dish—amid the leaves for preference.

HAY FEVER VICTIMS!

Give up damp, irritating handkerchiefs—use soft, disposable

KLEENEX

WHY multiply your tortures by irritating your inflamed nose with a rough, damp handkerchief?

Do as countless other hay fever sufferers have done—switch from handkerchiefs to Kleenex, and find blessed relief throughout the hay fever season!

Soft, dry, soothing

Kleenex is comforting, soothing, silky, made of the softest yet strongest of tissues—far more absorbent than linen or cotton. It is always fresh and dry. Simply use and destroy, instead of carrying around a soggy, revolting, mucus-soaked handkerchief!

And no more handkerchief washing, the world's most disagreeable job! As for having handkerchiefs laundered—it costs less to use Kleenex.

Double thick and extra strong, Kleenex is packed in a patented pull-out carton, with the tissues ready at hand for instant use. Only the next tissues to be used are ever exposed at one time. Hands can not enter the box to contaminate or mess up the other sheets, or to take out more than is required. This assures the least waste, the utmost economy, in the use of Kleenex.

Try large-size Kleenex

Three times the size of regular Kleenex, large-size Kleenex is especially recommended for use with cosmetics. Also convenient for guest towels, dusting, etc. Kleenex is sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

PATH CLEARED FOR U. S. HOME LOANS HERE

All legal forms necessary to set in motion the machinery of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in Pennsylvania have been approved by the federal board of the corporation, and nothing now stands in the way of granting loans, according to word from Washington.

In Pittsburgh, title examiners and appraisers are at work on properties of early applicants, according to J. S. Baughman, manager of the Pittsburgh office.

MANY SEEK AID

The first loan will be made, Baughman said, as soon as the examinations can be completed. In the meantime hundreds are appearing at the offices in the Benedum-Trees Building daily in search of help.

The legal forms required in making the loans will be distributed here and in other state offices before the end of the week, according to a Washington message. Interim certificates to be exchanged later for Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds are also available, it is reported.

The certificates are in denomination of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. The bonds which will replace them are being printed at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington and will be ready in about three weeks.

CAN PAY WITH BONDS

Recently it is reported that a number of large mortgage holders have indicated their willingness to accept the bonds in place of their mortgages.

One feature which it is believed will stabilize the value of the bonds is that they may be always used by the debtor in paying off the face of his mortgage obligation to the government.

WOMAN MAYOR BEATS OUSTER

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Issaquah's fighting woman Mayor, Stella Alexander, won her fight against a recall movement yesterday.

Although petitions had been signed by two-thirds of the little coal mining town's voters calling for her removal, the action was stopped by Superior Judge J. T. Ronald. He declared:

"The whole proceeding is contrary to statute. A restraining order will be issued."

Court attaches said Town Clerk R. I. Case and the Kings County Election Board will be enjoined from taking further steps toward calling a recall election.

'Pittsburgh Johnny' Freed in Robbery

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—As a result of an investigation made at his request, Judge Harry S. McDevitt yesterday freed Joseph (Pittsburgh Johnny) Dewire, 25, of Woodlawn, and Mike Tumey, 26, of this city, who were sentenced to prison last May on charges of robbery.

Detectives testified there had been no holdup, no money taken and no weapon used and that the affair resulting in the conviction had been only a brawl.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

People Should Not Neglect Abrasions of Skin

Dr. Copeland

There are many afflictions of the skin, but few are as disturbing and alarming as erysipelas. Fortunately in these days this disease is not encountered frequently. It was very common when little was known about infection and antiseptics. In those times, hospitals, especially maternity wards, were the scenes of severe and serious epidemics of erysipelas.

The disease was spoken of as "St. Anthony's Fire" and it was regarded as highly contagious. Today it is not counted as one of the contagious diseases. The old name is seldom used. It is known as an infectious disease, caused by a germ called the "streptococcus erysipelatis."

The germ enters the body through an abrasion, a wound, any scratch or break of the skin. Trouble is not suspected until the victim notices a marked itching and burning of the injured skin. Then there follows sudden fever, with chill and marked redness of the skin.

The eruption begins about the second day after the infection and may spread all over the body. It is more likely to be localized. In mild cases the eruption disappears about the fourth day and signs of improvement begin within a week. Unfortunately, not all cases of erysipelas are of a mild nature. Complications, such as gangrene and other serious disturbances may develop. By proper care serious complications can be prevented.

Never neglect an abrasion of the skin. No matter how slight the injury appears to you, always apply an antiseptic. If throbbing and redness are present consult with your doctor. Do not forget that simple injuries to the fingers, hands or feet may lead to serious disorders.

Fever, headache and intestinal disturbances are warning signs that the infection has spread beneath the skin. They are due to the absorption of poisons from the infected wound. Careful nursing and medical care are essential if undesirable complications are to be prevented.

As I said, this dreaded disease is less frequently seen today. We are fortunate enough to live in a different age. We have at our disposal adequate measures for combatting infection and disease. In addition, this particular disease can be controlled by the administration of a special preparation called "erysipelas antitoxin."

Answers to Health Queries

I. C. Q.—What do you advise for scars made by hot water burns?

A.—It would be well to consult a skin specialist. He will determine how deep the scars are and what treatment is best for this particular case.

J. M. Q.—How much should a girl 16 years old, 59 inches tall weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 108 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little significance.

Helen T. Q.—What do you advise for pimples?

A.—Diet and elimination are important in the correction of this disorder. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

AX HANGS OVER ELLIS ISLAND

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—Commissioner of Immigration Edward Corsi tendered his resignation today, bringing to light a strange situation which officials here interpret as meaning that every immigration employe in the country faces the technical loss of his job at midnight tonight.

The Department of Immigration passes out of existence as such at that hour, Corsi said, due to a merger ordered by the President creating the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization.

Even if Corsi had not resigned his job would have been automatically abolished at midnight, Byron Uhl, deputy commissioner, and other executiveos of the department face the loss of their offices also.

While Secretary Perkins is expected to take some action during the day, a number of questions puzzled Ellis Island, where the immigrants usually do the worrying. If no new executive is appointed, who will assign the forces to incoming ships tomorrow? And unless they are specifically appointed to the new bureau, will these minor employes have authority to go about government work?

Craftsmen Given Greeting By Mayor

Mayor John S. Herron yesterday welcomed more than 600 members of the Memorial Craftsmen of America to their 28th annual convention, which will continue until Friday in the William Penn Hotel.

Meeting at the same time, the women's auxiliary elected Mrs. T. O. Collier, of Plainview, Tex., as president. She is the wife of the retiring president of the craftsmen.

Handshake Wed Them, Judge Parts Them

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Three years ago, Elizabeth Katenberg, of Jenkintown, and John Hugo Klaren, who said he was a "philosopher," shook hands in an attorney's office after getting a marriage license, and announced they were married to each other.

Yesterday the handshake marriage was unclasped by the Court of Common Pleas, which granted a divorce to Mrs. Klaren on grounds not disclosed.

The court suggested that the two "shake" on the divorce, but Klaren was not present to defend the action. He is 35 and Mrs. Klaren 23.

THREE JUDGES THREATENED

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The lives of Judges Joseph B. David, Charles Miller and Rudolph Desert, all sitting in the Criminal Court here, were threatened in a letter received today by Judge David. The letter, which the judge turned over to postoffice inspectors, stated in part:

"You won't send any more people to prison. I will shoot you in the back or throw a bomb in your car or home. That goes for Judge Desert and Judge Miller."

Disregarding the threat, however, the judges, conducting a concerted war on racketeers, kidnapers and gunmen in Chicago, moved swiftly and precisely today to clear up the remaining cases before them. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney said he was more than well satisfied with the co-operation given him by Criminal Court judges. He added:

"We'll clear the streets of gunmen and racketeers if it takes every resource we have. There will be no letup."

Boy Hurt as Cars Crash on Highway

Horace Weeder, 14, is in Allegheny General Hospital with a possible fractured skull as a result of an auto crash on the Perry highway, at Perrysville, early today. A car driven by the boy's father, A. K. Weeder, Ingomar, Pa., collided with a truck, according to the state highway patrol.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

During Walter Winchell's two weeks' holiday, his column will be written by celebrated friends.

The Oldest Man on Broadway
By Damon Runyon

The Oldest Man On Broadway is 58 years old "by the Bible," as he asserts.

This doesn't make him The Oldest Man On Broadway in point of years, perhaps, but no one who knows Jack Doyle will deny him the title in the matter of experience and knowledge of Broadway.

Moreover, he makes the claim that he is now the oldest businessman on the Rue Regret between 34th Street and Columbus Circle, with the possible exception of Macy's. That is, oldest in age of his concern, which is a billiard academy at 42nd Street and Broadway, known for years simply as "Doyle's."

As he started his billiard academy only twenty-six years ago, his claim, which Jack Doyle thinks he has pretty well substantiated, shows you how the Broadway scene changes. I say "only" twenty-six years, because that isn't a long time in the life of a business enterprise, though it is a couple of generations on the Long, Wrong Trail.

Through Doyle's, then, across this period of time, has circulated the sporting life of Broadway. It is there that for many years the betting odds on various sports events have been made, where enormous sums have been posted, and where hot argument can be heard at almost any hour of the day or night. It is, so to speak, Broadway's Sporting Bourse.

And there, except in golfing hours and weather, you can find The Oldest Man On Broadway, a genial, hello fellow, with a crisp manner and a brisk tongue that gives off tomorrow's slang.

He is of medium height, groomed to the minute, and has a memory like an elephant. He has seen and lived more of Broadway than any man alive, and is still seeing and living it. For thirty years the atmosphere has been the breath of life in his nostrils. He loathes solitude, and any place where he cannot hear the roar of the street is a wilderness to him. He is a high roller within his means, and his means have long been reasonably ample.

He has fond memories of a dozen different periods of Broadway, but no vague longings for any of them. He is too much engrossed in the present. He sits dangling his feet in the Old Man River of streets, taking a keen delight in the constantly changing times and tides. There is no "old" Broadway and no "new" Broadway to Jack Doyle. It is always just Broadway, and the way it is today is the way he loves it.

The only phase of change on Broadway for which I ever heard Jack Doyle express a dislike was when the underworld began swarming over his favorite street. He has an innate loathing for "tough guys." The most moderate reputation for "toughness" bars a man from Doyle's, and it is of record that the bad boys have always let him severely alone.

He was a drug clerk in Springfield, Mass., before he came to New York some thirty-odd years ago, and he worked as a sheet writer for various bookmakers at the racetracks when he first hit the big town. Then in 1906 he opened a billiard academy at the northeast corner of Broadway and 42nd Street with John J. McGraw, then in the heyday of his baseball fame, and Tod Sloan, old-time king of the jockeys, as his partners.

Later Jack Doyle bought out his partners, and for a time was located around 42nd Street near Sixth Avenue, but he then moved back into Broadway. In the city directory and telephone book his name appears as John T. Doyle. The "T" is phoney. Years ago Sid Mercer, the baseball writer, decided that just Jack Doyle was scarcely dignified enough. He began referring to him as John Tecumseh Doyle, with no particular reason for the Tecumseh. Jack Doyle appropriated the "T."

Actors, authors, jockeys, horse owners, Wall Street brokers, baseball players, prize-fighters, gamblers, painters, sculptors, dancers, golfers and cartoonists have leaned their elbows on Jack Doyle's long bar, recently revived in all its old-time glory, or scuffed up his green cloths with their cues, down through the years. He is a marvelous raconteur and can tell you tales by the hours of the famous characters he has encountered in his days and nights on Broadway, though he prefers talking of the last ball game, or fight, or the newest thing in shows.

The Oldest Man On Broadway has outlived the Cafe de L'Opera, Martin's, the Gilsey House, the Gedney House, Traynor's, the Hoffman, the Marlborough, the Normandy, the Fifth Avenue, Delevan's, the Criterion, the Metropole, the old Delmonico's, Shanley's, Rector's, the Cadillac, the Claridge, Churchill's, Maxim's, Bustanoby's and a hundred other spots on the street.

He has outlived them to sit in the Ha-Ha Club, and the Stork, and the other spots of the moment, and to find as much enjoyment there as he did in the old-time spots. The Oldest Man On Broadway says there is not much difference as far as he can see, except the current dolls are prettier, and the wine isn't quite as good as that which used to be sold by Hector McKenzie, Edgar Gibbs, Murphy, Pommery Bob Vernon, Manny Chappell and Julius Kaufman, the celebrated wine agents of a bygone day.

And, he adds, the whisky isn't quite up to Hector Clems' old brand, though Jack Doyle says that is scarcely to be expected.

Lillian Russell, Maxine Elliott, Edna Goodrich, Truly Shattuck and Frankie Bailey were among the famous stage names when The Oldest Man On Broadway was first sprouting out. But he thinks Helen Morgan, Hope Williams, Katherine Cornell, Ina Claire and that Hepburn girl are all pretty good, too, and he wouldn't trade you Greta Garbo, of the cinema, for a barge load of those old-time stage actresses.

Pittsburgh Phil Smith was the big racetrack plunger of his day. He nearly always hung out around the Imperial Hotel. Sol Lichtenstein, Eddie Burke, Davy Johnson, Billy Cowan, Honest John Kelly, Kid Weller, Maxey Blumenthal, Riley Grannan, Tom Shaw and Joe Ulmann were large operators on the turf. In later years Arnold Rothstein, who was to become the biggest gambler of his time, shot a mean game of pool around Doyle's until The Oldest Man On Broadway told him he did not care for his play.

The Oldest Man has nearly always lived somewhere close to the throb of the Heart of the World. For years he had quarters in the famous old Criterion, near his present business location. All the hot sports of the period lived at the Criterion. Now he has an apartment at the Park Central Hotel. His most dearly beloved pal lives there with him—a canary bird, which is the absolute pride and joy of The Oldest Man On Broadway.

Kent Is Out As Name

Douglass Montgomery of the stage, who was introduced to films a couple of years ago as Kent Douglass, is in pictures again—but as Douglass Montgomery, which is his real name.

Playing "Laurie" in "Little Women," Montgomery admits he likes pictures better than he did when he left to go back to the stage, but even so he is here only for a while. His home is in Pasadena, he visits for the summer anyway, and the picture fills in the time.

"I should have liked some of the picture parts that were offered me before," he says, "but I didn't want to sign a long contract in order to play them. I think the stage is better for me, anyway, and I want to learn a lot more about it."

New Gay Spot To Open

Chinese Boy Snapped Up As Find

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—Word goes around Hollywood that the screen's next sensation as a child actor may be Harry Shar Low, 4-year-old Chinese boy, now playing his third role in the last few months.

Born in New York, this almond-eyed youngster speaks both English and Chinese, the latter with an American accent. He comes by his acting talents naturally as both parents have played on the American stage. Their last appearance was in "The Honorable Mr. Wu."

Baby Harry Shar Low was discovered here by Tom Gubbins, contact man between the studios and Los Angeles' Chinese population. Gubbins regards him as the most promising of the 200,000 Oriental extras and actors he has supplied to the movies in the last 10 years.

The young actor's first part was that of a newsboy in "International House." Fox snapped him up for "Shanghai Madness" and later for "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case." Contracts already have been signed for him to appear at M-G-M and for a featured part in El Brendel's new vehicle, "I Came From Hell."

Another of the funny tales of the week is told of Heather Angel and Harvey Parry, Hollywood stunt man.

Miss Angel

The English actress was questioning Parry the other day about his death-defying feats.

"Yes," said Parry, "my wife threatens to divorce me unless I give up stunts. She says they make her so nervous she can't go on with her work."

"What does she do" inquired Heather.

"Oh," replied Parry, "she's the target for Steve Clemento, the knife thrower.

If you can believe Clara Bow, boys are easier to raise than girls. The other day her two young cousins, whom she brought out from New York to live with her, got into a fight. Lillian, aged 11, threw a stick at John and knocked his thumb out of joint. When Clara intervened, the girl went on a three-day sulk, said she wanted to go home. Said Clara: "Okay, you can." So she is shipping the youngster back to New York to think it over."

Over a glass of beer at the Colony Club, Bert Wheeler told me that his favorite blonde, Patsy Parker, will be driving out here in a couple of weeks. She's visiting San Antonio with her mother. . . . Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller always sit in the same corner at this popular rendezvous. The other night Gary Cooper also was present. A vivacious blonde attached herself to him. Time and again Lupe shot moody glances in their direction.

Ho-De-Ho!

Cabell (Cab) Calloway and his Cotton Club orchestra from Harlem will play a dance engagement in Duquesne Garden next Monday night only. For those who wish to be entertained by the music and songs, but do not care to dance, there will be a special admission price concession.

Back In Films

Lupe Velez, who recently completed a long engagement in a Broadway musical show, will make her return to the screen in the M-G-M picture, "The Hollywood Party."

Miss Anderson Signs Long Contract

Judith Anderson, star of the New York stage, has been signed to play the leading feminine role opposite George Bancroft in "Blood Money," his first starring picture for Twentieth Century Pictures. The contract calls for her exclusive services to Twentieth Century Pictures for an extended term. Judith Anderson rose to fame as an actress in the New York stage production of "The Dove.' She last starred on Broadway in "As You Desire Me." "Blood Money" is an original story by Rowland Brown, the screen play being by Brown and Hal Long.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Max Gordon has "Design for Living" on his hands, and, presumably places to put it, since few persons outside of Pittsburgh saw it last season, but has nobody to help him do it. Judith Anderson, Ian Keith and Geoffrey Kerr, whom he had thought about for the parts created by Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt and Noel Coward, who wrote the comedy, have all dashed off to Hollywood—or will. Speaking of the Lunt family, Lynn and Alf, when they leave their farm in Genessee Depot, Wis., will go to London for a production of "Reunion In Vienna." After that the Theater Guild would be ready to open its arms to them again.

Senator Frank J. Harris, president of the Harris Amusement Company, has appointed M. M. Wear manager of its Reynoldsville houses, the Adelphi and Liberty. He formerly was manager of Harris theaters in Butler and Washington.

* * *

Corinne Griffith, screen star before the talkie era, has attracted the attention of New York producers as a result of summer stock engagements in the East.

Ethel Barrymore, who is appearing in movie houses in a one-act playlet, has her eye on Broadway all the time. She plans to give the big town folks a sight of "Encore," a play she already has tried out elsewhere.

Rider

Gracie Hanneford represents the third generation of the Hanneford equestrian family, famous riding group in the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus that will show at Penn and Fifth avenues next Monday and Tuesday. Gracie's father, "Poodles" Hanneford, noted riding clown, and his mother also appear in the act. During the winter Gracie is a Chicago school girl; in the summer, a circus princess of the bluest blood in the sawdust realm.

Marion Davies Next 'Going Hollywood'

"Going Hollywood" has been decided upon as the title of Marion Davies' new picture that was temporarily titled "Paid to Laugh." It is a story with a musical background by Donald Ogden Stewart and C. Gardner Sullivan. Music will be supplied by Arthur Freed and Nacio Herb Brown who wrote the music of "The Broadway Melody."

Announcement also is made that Miss Davies' picture to follow "Going Hollywood" will be the remarkable story, "Operator 13,' by Robert W. Chambers.

"The Wildest Furniture Market since 1895"—says an Associated Press Dispatch, referring to the prices in the Chicago mart.

BUT Pittsburgh families are fortunate in that local merchants did not wait until the very last minute to supply their needs of their August event . . . the result is that REASONABLE PRICES will be the rule in the Furniture sales to be featured this month . . . Once these stocks are disposed of, every indication points to higher prices on all replacement orders. So economical families will do well to protect themselves by taking advantage of these

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"I NOTICE, of late," writes George Barnes, of Rochester, N. Y., "that you are doing quite a few hick stories. Well, with all due modesty, I proclaim this one to be the hickiest story of them all. This one, Mark, is the original of all those comic strips you've seen of rural life in America.

"It concerns Abner Harkins, who arrived in New York fresh from Tompkins Corners, on a matter of business. What the business was, I haven't the faintest idea. At any rate, it was soon dispensed with, and he decided to take a bit of a look around town. Mainly, I suppose, to see what was holding the skyscrapers up.

"Slowly, he walked across Forty-second street. When he reached Lexington avenue, he spotted the Chrysler Building. He pulled up to a sudden stop, shifted from one foot to the other, and let his eyes travel up, up, up the smooth white sides of the huge tower until he saw the top.

"Looking at him, you could see the incredulity in his eye. Mentally, as he drank in the wonder of it, he was saying to himself: 'It's a lie! It's a downright, gosh-darned, Lord-help-us lie! There ain't no sich buildin'.'

"But, after awhile, you could see that he began to believe what he saw. It dawned upon him that here was something the like of which he never saw. And he knew, as he stood there, that the folks back home in Tompkins Corners would never believe him when he told them about this wonder of the age.

"As a matter of fact, if he ever told Mirandy, she'd probably hide the apple jug on him as a result.

"So he just stood there, gazing at the tower in silence, much like Samuel Clemens when he first saw the Atlantic Ocean. Then, out of the crowd which hurried by, a man stepped. He approached Abner quickly.

"'Say, you,' he said roughly. 'What are you doing?'

"Abner looked at the stranger coolly. The man was tall and fat, and he bore an arrogant air, like some officials.

"'Me?' said Abner innocently.

"'Yass, you,' repeated the stranger. 'C'mon. Out with it. What were you doing?'

"Abner smiled. He pointed to the Chrysler Building.

"'I warn't doing much,' he replied. 'Jess a-countin' the floors in that there buildin'.'

"'Ah,' said the stranger. 'Just as I thought. I was afraid of that. Don't you know that it's a high crime in New York to count the floors in buildings? Don't you know that? Answer me!"

"Poor Abner. He looked bewildered and frightened.

"'Naw sir,' he said truthfully. I didn't know it 'r I wuddna done it.'

"The stranger shrugged his shoulders. His manner softened.

"'That's too bad,' he said. 'I don't like to be harsh with you, my friend. But a crime is a crime. How many stories did you count?'

"'Six,' said Abner. 'I was a-startin' from the bottom, and—'

"'Ah,' said the stranger. 'Six, eh? Well, that will cost you six dollars, or six years in jail. Which shall it be?'

"Abner reached into his trouspocket and pulled the rubber band off the roll. Carefully, he counted off six dollars which the stranger took, and, after warning Abner not to do any more counting, walked off.

"As soon as the stranger was out of sight in the crowd, Abner started to chuckle. The chuckle grew into a laugh, which changed into a guffaw.

"A young fellow mooched up to Abner's side and asked what he was laughing at. Abner wiped the tears from his eyes and managed to answer.

"'Wal,' he replied, 'I jes now put it over on a city slicker. I told him I counted six stories and I'll be gol-dinged if I didn't count eight!'" . . .

* * *

"IT'S been a long, long time," writes Irving Grey, "since last I saw you. As a matter of fact, you may not even remember me, but I think you will.

"We were kids together on East Ninetieth Street, remember? We used to shoot craps together in the afternoons after school. Sometimes we'd go to a vaudeville show when we were in the money, and sometimes we talked about what we'd be later on in life.

"Kids, Mark. Just kids. But what life has done to us, sounds to me like a movie. You are at the pinnacle of success. You have made a grand success of life. You are known everywhere, and your friends are legion.

"I don't envy you, Mark. I rejoice in your success. It makes me happy to think that I once knew you. But life has done very little for me. Very, very little.

"At the time, I am not working, Marion—that's my wife—is quite ill. Bills have piled up. I've been knocked around quite a good deal, and I'd be tempted to call myself a success even if I got a job shining brass somewhere.

"But I don't want to annoy you with my worries. I merely want to ask you this: Would you mind sending me the $10 you've owed me for the past twenty years?" . . .

Patricia Pitt

The sons of Mrs. Wilbur Shenk, of Ellsworth avenue, who has a summer home near Erie, go to Erie for their brides. Several years ago Alan Shenk married Mary Lane Van Cleve, Erie society girl. And Charles Chalfant Shenk will marry Marion Claus, of Erie, this fall. And the third of the Shenk brothers, Wilbur Shenk, Jr., is seen constantly with another Erie girl, Catherine Collman.

Marion Claus, the daughter of Mrs. A. A. Claus, of Erie, has named Wednesday, September 6, as the date of her marriage to Charles Shenk, with the ceremony to take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the summer home of the bride's uncle and aunt, the Robert Hoffstetters, at Manchester, near Erie.

Virginia Claus will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Alan Shenk, of Pittsburgh, will be matron of honor. Alan Shenk will be best man, and the ushers will be Wilbur Shenk, Jr., Charles Palmer and William Forster, of Erie, and Paul Jergens, of Chicago.

Brother Usher

William Claus will give his sister in marriage, and the Very Rev. Dean Francis Blodgett, of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral, will officiate. Only members of the two families and close friends will attend the ceremony.

Marion Claus is a descendant of one of Erie's pioneer families, is a member of the Junior League, and a graduate of the Knox School, Cooperstown, N. Y. In her senior year at Knox, she was chosen queen of the winter carnival.

Queen At Knox

The bridegroom-elect attended Lawrenceville School, and is a graduate of Princeton, where he was a member of Cloister Inn.

The Sewickley John Bonner Semples, are in Evanston, Ill., the guests of Mrs. Charles Deering. And of course they'll attend the fair. After a fortnight in Evanston, the Semples will go to Newtown Square, Pa., to see their son-in-law and daughter, the Samuel Alexander Gayleys. And still later they'll go to Echo Lake in Canada to visit Mrs. Semple's brother-in-law and sister, the Arthur T. Shinns.

Attend Fair

Early in September they'll meet the junior Semples in New York when their boat from Europe docks. Just now the junior Semples are in Scotland, and they expect to visit Norway and Sweden.

Miss Mabel Oakes Married to C. S. Bryant

At 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Lorenz Avenue Church was the scene of the marriage of Miss Mabel Oakes and Charles S. Bryant. The bride is the daughter of Grant L. Oakes, of Lessing street, Crafton Heights, and she married the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bryant, of Lorenz avenue, Elliott.

The bride wore white organza with taffeta and a hat of white horsehair braid. Her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Betty Hartzell, as maid of honor, wore yellow crepe with a matching hat of braid and carried garden flowers. Miss Sylvia Oakes and Miss Hazel Oakes, the bridesmaids, wore pink and blue organza frocks and carried garden flowers. Harold Bryant was the best man and Wallace Cherry and Frank Hager were ushers.

After September 1, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant are to make their home in Crafton.

Field Club Arranges Swimming Exhibition

The house committee at the Pittsburgh Field Club announces a swimming and diving exhibition to be held at the club's pool on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Featured will be Miss Lenore Kight, world's champion girl swimmer, and girl's national championship relay team, Miss Louise Clark, Miss Anna Mae and Miss Johanna Gorman and Miss Kight.

A special exhibition of fancy diving will be given by Derland Johnson, Paul Caldwell, Jr., and Robert Tierman.

Beaver Juniors to Hear Mrs. M. M. Redenbaugh

The Junior Woman's Club, of Beaver, will hear Mrs. M. M. Redenbaugh, of Pittsburgh, talk at a meeting tomorrow night in the Associated Arts Building, Beaver.

Mrs. Redenbaugh will discuss the homes of tomorrow as illustrated in displays at the World's Fair in Chicago. Mrs. H. S. McCleery, of Beaver, is program chairman for the evening.

Neely Family Reunion To Be Held Wednesday

The twenty-fifth annual reunion and basket picnic of the Neely family will be held Wednesday, August 16, all day, at Wissihicken Cabin, Riverview Park. Dr. Frank Neely, of Perrysville avenue, North Side, is president.

Dorothy Demmer Married to Dr. Pfohl

A bride of this morning was Miss Dorothy Gertrude Demmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Demmer, of Miffin avenue, Wilkinsburg, and her marriage to Dr. George H. Pfohl, of South Evaline street, was solemnized at 9 o'clock in St. James' Catholic Church, Wilkinsburg.

Miss Beatrice Demmer was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Everista Demmer, another sister, and Miss Katherine Healey were bridesmaids. William Pfohl was his brother's best man and Harry Pfohl, another brother, and Dr. Joseph Perone were ushers.

Dr. Pfohl and his bride will make their home in Tudor Hall after their honeymoon.

Southampton Fetes Beckon Registerites

Late summer finds a group of Pittsburgh and Sewickley social registerites at fashionable Southampton, L. I., attending many of the gay entertainments there.

Nancy and Elizabeth Craig, daughters of the Mark Rodgers Craigs, of Sewickley, are there now, the guests of the Oliver Rodgerses, of the Meadow Club Tea House, who are doing informal entertaining in their honor.

Virginia Thaw, granddaughter of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Sewickley Heights, who is spending August at Southampton, will be among the mannikins at the fashion show August 15 at Lenoir, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson, of New York.

The show is a benefit, of course—for the Southampton Fresh Air Home for Crippled Children. Virginia's parents, the William Thaws, the III, gave a dinner recently at Southampton for Anthony J. Drexel.

Dubante Mary Mellon and her younger sister Jane, daughters of the E. P. Mellons, of New York, well-known here, and related to the Pittsburgh Mellons, are entered in the Fox and Babcock cups tennis tournaments, now being played.

At East Hampton, L. I., the David Oliver Shoemakers, of Pittsburgh, are being entertained.

THE MAD RUSH FOR SCHOOL CLOTHES IS ON AND KNITTED THINGS ARE MOST COVETED

THE FRANTIC search for school wardrobes is on. A month from now, thousands of fresh, young girls will pick up pens, pencils and carefully selected clothes to start college life again.

* * *

IT IS true they'll need a very special wardrobe, but it's a simple one to put together. Knitted things stand at the head of the class. Nothing better suits the atmosphere of bright green campuses or occasional after-class excursions into town.

* * *

A GOOD fashion never dies. To date nothing has been created to overshadow the prominence of knitted clothes for sports. The accompanying illustration tells the story completely.

* * *

LOOK AT the three costumes sketched. One knit is a bit more tailored than the other. It is meant for town wear. As if tailored of fine silk, careful dressmaking touches distinguish it. The other two-piece solid and jacquard combination would find itself very much at home on the campus, and in current literature classes. There is something classic about it. As the years go by, it becomes increasingly evident that this very simple sweater suit, with round basque neckline, is a fashion that young people insist on whole heartedly! It is still worn by girls who've stuck by it year after year.

* * *

THE NEW licorice brown, eel greys, bright and purplish navys, greens and black-and-color combinations of woolens and precious silk fabrics are exactly duplicated in yarns. Some of the weaves are masterpieces of design.

* * *

ANTTHER good fashion you cannot keep down is the suede jacket for sports. Poke around until you sight a very new version which should be in the shops about this time. Adjustable slide fasteners, shaped just like fashionable frogs, close the jacket at one side. Suffice to say that the whole thing fits unbelievably well. Many sizes are eliminated because you simply jerk the slides a little to the right or left, depending on whether you need extra girth or want to eliminate some. It will adjust itself to you.

C. O. P. CLASH SPLITS WARD

Three Republican groups are clashing in the Thirteenth Ward, one backing Mayor John S. Herron, the second Councilman P. J. McArdle and the third Register of Wills Joseph N Mackrell.

The Mackrell group is headed by E. E. McConnell, formerly affiliated with the Citizens League. He broke with the league when it indorsed McArdle and has begun organizing for the Register of Wills. At a meeting last night in Bissinger's Hall, North Lang avenue, McConnell and Albert Frazier, chairman of the Mackrell Committee, attacked the league, speaking to about 25 persons.

The Mackrell group is to be known as the Progressive Republican Club.

The Citizens' League postponed a meeting it had scheduled for last night, but a group of workers met with C V. Shoup to plan a meeting for tomorrow night, when McArdle will be the chief speaker. He will be invading the Mayor's home ward, and will speak in Homewood Carnegie Library.

League aides are at work forming an organization in the ward, but have not yet named a chairman.

The regular organization in the ward is working for Herron, maintaining silence as the league and some of its former followers fight things out among themselves.

Warden to Explain Convict's Social Calls

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—R. H. Hudspeth, warden of the Leavenworth Prison annex, arrived here today to confer with Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, relative to the special privileges extended Terry Druggan, Chicago beer baron, an inmate of the annex.

The chaplain and two prison employes have been suspended and Bates called the warden here for questioning.

What, More Soup? So 'Taster' Hurls It at His Wife

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—As a taster of soup George Ververka was busy, because that's his business. A canning company pays him a salary for tasting soup.

But his wife, Jeannette, charged in a bill for divorce when she set down a plate of her own soup for him to eat he looked at it and shouted:

"What! More soup?"

It was after that, she alleged, that he picked up the plate and threw its contents in her face.

WOMAN DOCTOR MUM ON DEATH

GREENWOOD, Miss., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean maintained today a stony silence in jail where she is held in the death of Dr. J. Preston Kennedy, an associate, who District Attorney Arthur Jordan said accused the woman in a deathbed statement, of giving him poison in a glass of whisky while a guest at her home.

Dr. Dean, a tall 33-year-old brunet, is a specialist in children's diseases. She is unmarried. Dr. Kennedy, a surgeon, was associated in his practice with the woman doctor. He was divorced in March.

'Gen.' Coxey Defeated In Ohio Primaries

MASSILLON, O., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—"Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, veteran crusader for the unemployed, was defeated for the Republican nomination for Mayor of Massillon yesterday, running a poor third in the primary. Two years ago he was nominated and elected by record majorities.

Clarence W. Angerman, the Council president who opposed most of Coxey's policies won the nomination with 1,477 votes.

NAZI UNIFORMS MERE ECONOMY

Home from a six weeks' tour of Germany, John Ihlder, secretary of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, today said Nazi uniforms are worn by people everywhere, but the reason isn't patriotic—it's the only suit most of them own.

Discussing the housing program in Germany, Mr. Ihlder said the government is building cottages on the outskirts of industrial centers for its unemployed. Each cottage, he said, has a garden plot on which tenants are expected to raise most of their food. Old housing in the slums is being repaired and made sanitary.

TWO INJURED IN LEAP AS BLAST WRECKS HOME

POLITICS

3 G. O. P.'s, 2 Democrats in Mayoralty Primary

By MARK SHIELDS

Today there is practically no question but what three candidates will be on the ballot September 19 for the Republican mayoralty nomination and two outstanding contenders for the Democratic place.

Mr. Shields

The assurance as to the Republicans is reached through the decision of County Controller Robert G. Woodside to become campaign manager for Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell. There is every reason to believe that, before he accepted the place, Woodside was convinced that Mackrell was a candidate who meant exactly what he said some time ago, that he was "definitely a candidate for Mayor."

Otherwise Col. Woodside would not have taken such an advanced position in opposition to the Republican city organization and some sections of the county regulars. He would not invite future reprisals from Mayor John S. Herron and Senator James J. Coyne in a footless adventure.

* * *

Campaign's Start Delayed a Week

Councilman P. J. McArdle, of course intends to stay in, backed by the Citizens League. The trappings of a reg ar campaign will not be put on, however, until next week, when headquarters will be opened in the William Penn. Originally the intention had been to start things this week, but the absence from the city of J. Garfield Houston, campaign chairman for McArdle, has delayed matters.

And there nev : has been any uncertainty about Mayor John S. Herron's intention to seek nomination. Doubt surrounded the others only because of frequent but unavailing efforts to unify the opposition to Herron behind a single candidacy.

The association of Col. Woodside with Mr. Mackrell certainly complicates affairs for County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, if he intended to take a stand in the mayoralty fight. Mr. McGovern has plainly indicated he did not care for Mr. McArdle, though many of his friends are in the Citizens' League.

And the County Commissioner has no more bright and burning political hatred among a long list than he has for Col. Woodside.

Perhaps Mr. McGovern will confine himself to the county fair, leaving to others the political Donnybrook fair.

* * *

Whole Situation Quite Confusing

In the past, Col. Woodside has been closely associated with W. L. Mellon, whose preference for Mayor Herron is plainly indicated by some names on the "committee of 100" made public by the Mayor yesterday. It is all too confusing for even a fairly literate citizen.

And here's another example of the existing confusion:

Mrs. Lois D. McBride is a member of the Citizens' League. Her claims to an indorsement for Juvenile Court Judge by the county social agencies were ably but futilely advanced by Mrs. Templeton Smith and Mrs. J. O. Miller, also members of that league. One very active member of the league, listed among its "political committee," which is dealing with a projected councilmanic slate to run with McArdle, may be the vice chairman of Mrs. McBride's campaign committee.

The league, except for a few dissenters, none among those mentioned above, is earnestly for Councilman McArdle for Mayor.

* * *

NRA Could Mean Nervously Reeling Around

Mrs. McBride is to be supported by Mr. Mackrell and the group backing him, especially those members of the group who are actively identified with politics, and who, if Mr. Mackrell was not a candidate, would be for Mr. Herron rather than Mr. McArdle.

Mr. Mackrell will not have on his ticket, councilmanic or otherwise, any candidate who is not for him for Mayor, and who will not work for him for Mayor—with the possible exception of Coroner W. J. McGregor.

So what is the Citizens' League, whose first and primary aim is the election of its candidate for Mayor, going to do about the Juvenile Court, for which one of its members is a candidate?

Things have reached a point where there ought to be a code for governing all of these things. It is a job for Gen. Johnson, backed by the President, the Army, Navy and Marines.

In our condition of politics the "NRA" could stand for "nervously reeling around."

Mark Shields will resume his weekly political reviews over WCAE Saturday at 6 p. m.

University Women Here Back Schramm

Three hundred women, composing the Pittsburgh branch of the American Association of University Women, yesterday indorsed Attorney Gustav L. Schramm's non-partisan candidacy for the judgeship of the newly-created Allegheny County Juvenile Court. In their resolution, the organization said:

"His character, ideals and training, together with his service in the field of welfare work, make Mr. Schramm specially qualified for this office."

MALONE QUITS MAYOR RACE, EYES COUNCIL

May Re-enter Contest On McArdle Slate, Politicians Hear

Former President of Council James F. Malone, who yesterday withdrew as a candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, may become a candidate for City Council.

Today Mr. Malone said he had not decided on his next step, but there were reports in political circles that he would be offered a place on the Council slate being prepared by the Citizens' League, backing Councilman P. J. McArdle for Mayor.

If Malone becomes a Council candidate it is understood he would like also to be on the slate of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, the second mayoralty candidate against Mayor John S. Herron. So far Mackrell has been opposed to accepting on his slate any candidate who would not give him undivided support in the mayoralty primary.

Malone has until next Tuesday, the final day for filing petitions, to determine his future course.

'NO PREFERENCE'

In withdrawing, Malone did not indicate a preference between McArdle and Mackrell as an opponent to Herron.

His statement accompanying his elimination from the race reiterated previous declarations that divided opposition to Herron would result in victory for the Mayor.

He recited the various moves he had made to achieve harmony behind a single candidate, all of which failed.

In his statement he said:

"There is no doubt in my mind that divided opposition to the Coyne-Herron ticket will assure its nomination, and I have consistently maintained that I would not put nor keep myself in a position that would in the slightest degree impair the people's opportunity of changing the present administration.. Therefore, I shall not file papers for the office of Mayor.

"I sincerely thank all of the people who offered their support and encouragement to me and assure them and all the people of Pittsburgh that if in any manner my humble services can be of any benefit to them, collectively or individually, I shall always be available.

"I told Mr. Mackrell and Mr. McArdle that I had agreed to be for any one of three other men if all forces could be concentrated, and told them, as I had told other persons before, that if an agrement could be reached on one person, I would support the one agreed upon, but both men maintained their own candidacy."

Swedish Railroad Takes 'Knocks' Out

GOTHENBURG, Sweden. —(INS.)—Instead of buying new rails a private railroad in Western Sweden is trying a German method of welding the ends of the old rails together so as to eliminate the knocking when the car wheels hit the worn out joints. If the experiment succeeds the life of the rails will be prolonged at least 15 years.

Maybe We Won't Know Montagu Without Disguise

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Mr. Montagu Norman is coming to America again under his right monniker.

On his last trip Mr. Norman was disguised as a first-class stowaway with portfolio.

He was spotted by a newspaper photographer who had no respect for dual personalities nor reverence for astral bodies.

He accused Mr. Norman of being Mr. Norman and Mr. Norman confessed with all on board.

We are too hospitable to allow the chairman of the Bank of England to arrive unnoticed in a land where even a candidate for a Kentucky political job gets a salute of 21 guns, 15 Bowie knives and five yards of rope.

If he still wishes to be incognito he should smuggle himself in from Mexico in a load of hay. And even at that he would have a tough time dodging the welcoming committee.

House Demolished by Mystery Blast Which Rocked Homewood

SCENE OF DESOLATION IN CHAUCER STREET AFTER BLAST RAZED HOME OF ATTORNEY WILLIAM F. BEATTY.....FIRE RUINED TWO ADJOINING HOUSES

MOTHER, BABY TRAPPED ON ROOF SAVED

Explosion in Lawyer's House Sets Adjoining Dwellings Afire

A mother and her daughter were injured early today when they leaped from a second story window to escape flames that destroyed their home in Homewood after a mysterious explosion demolished an adjoining structure.

The blast, which police said may have been caused by gas, or a bomb, leveled the home of Attorney William F. Beatty at 7032 Chaucer street. The debris burst into flames and spread to two adjoining structures, which were destroyed.

The injured, Mrs. Fanny Brown, 52, and her daughter, Miss Marion, 15, were treated at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Another daughter, Mrs. Frances McCray, trapped on the roof of the building with her 10-month-old baby, was carried down a ladder to safety by neighbors. They are Negroes.

The third house was unoccupied.

Police said Attorney Beatty, husband of Mrs. Lorena Palmer Grise Beatty, divorced wife of Thomas Grise, East End hotel man, was arrested last June in an alleged kidnap-hoax of Mrs. Beatty's 10-month-old son.

The bomb and arson squad was investigating the blast which rocked the neighborhood and broke windows in many adjoining structures.

Aroused by the explosion, Charles Altenbaugh, of 7038 Chaucer street, rushed to the street and saw Mrs. McCray and her son standing on the roof of the second floor porch. With Martin Niforth and Leslie Russenberger, Altenbaugh got a ladder and aided the trapped pair to the street.

Other members of the Brown family, except Mrs. Brown and her daughter, made their way to safety through smoke-filled hallways.

Police said Attorney Beatty, absent at the time of the explosion, had left Pittsburgh last night on a vacation trip.

ASSAILS DELAY IN ASSESSING

Protesting the 10-day delay in assessing voters after they make affidavits as to residence, Attorney B. Robert Averbach failed to persuade the County Commissioners to change the new system.

Averbach, who said he appeared as counsel for the Regular Republican Campaign Committee supporting Mayor John S. Herron, charged the system used in making late assessments is illegal. The protest, made at yesterday's hearing, was against the delay caused by investigating the voters before assessing them.

It was charged voters' assessments will not be on the treasurer's books when deputy collectors start their work.

Averbach charged that streets have been missed by the assessors and that children have been enrolled. He offered to prove that a 6-month-old infant was on one list.

Chairman Charles C. McGovern, upholding the system, said investigation was necessary to bar nonresidents and floaters from the lists. Removal of such names would require legal action, he said, and the system was adopted to avoid this technicality.

BENEDUM LOSES HUGE TAX CASE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The board of tax appeals yesterday ruled in favor of the government in its contention that M. L. Benedum, of Pittsburgh; F. B. Parriott, Tulsa, Okla., and their company, the Tex-Penn Oil Company, were deficient by millions of dollars in the 1919 income taxes.

The board found that the amount of the deficiency was less, by a still uncalculated sum, than the $20,000,000 the Internal Revenue Bureau contended, after a hearing before the board started.

At one time the bureau calculated the deficiency at about $100,000,000.

The case concerned a corporate reorganization which Benedum and Parriott contended was effected in a manner which made income tax payment unnecessary.

20 Dog Owners Fined For Lack of License

Twenty owners of unlicensed dogs in Munhall were fined $5 and costs each last night by Justice of the Peace H. A. Ackerman, of Whitaker. Twenty-five more, of Homestead, will receive hearings tonight. Informations were made by V. D. Johnson, dog law enforcement agent for the state in Allegheny County.

MANAGER K. O.'S STORE BANDIT

Frank Storey, 28, manager of a chain store at 255 West Eighth avenue, West Homestead, knocked out an alleged Negro holdup man with one blow of his fist today, police reported.

The Negro had asked for potatoes. While Storey was bending to get them, the Negro struck at him from behind with half a brake shoe, weighing six pounds, Storey told police. Leaping up from the glancing blow, Storey lashed out with a right uppercut, felling his assailant.

Storey held the Negro until police arrived. The Negro gave his name as Theodore Michael, 28, of Slater, Mo. Police said Storey's skull would have been crushed if he had suffered a solid blow by the heavy iron.

$2,000,000 U. S. Funds Sought for Ramp Here

Group in Washington Seeking to Avert Traffic Hazard

One of Pittsburgh's "busiest corners" will be eliminated if federal authorities agree to build "Plan A," a $2,000,000 Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue bypass which would include a new postoffice traffic rump.

A committee of city officials and engineers is in Washington today to request the appropriation. James L. Stuart, noted Pittsburgh engineer and architect, heads the group.

The original government plan for the ramp put its entrance on Seventh avenue, near the Bigelow boulevard corner. City traffic engineers predicted that it would cause one of the world's worst traffic tangles, and Mayor John S. Herron protested to government officials.

Other plans, now thrown out, suggested that the ramp bridge Seventh avenue and descend along Pentland street to Strawberry way.

"Plan A," the much more costly project, which the committee is advocating to the federal officials as the best solution of the problem, would be an ultimate part of the North Side-to-Liberty Tubes "crosstown thoroughfare" as planned by the Department of City Planning.

The postoffice traffic ramp, by this plan, would bridge Seventh avenue parellel with the twin ramps which would carry through Bigelow boulevard traffic over the intersection.

CUSH ASSAILS CAVANAUGH

E. P. (Pat) Cush yesterday slapped back at Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, of Homestead, the "nervous burgess," as Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins called him.

Cush slapped back because a newspaper called him a "Communist organizer."

It all started with Miss Perkins' visit to Homestead to hear the steel workers' side of labor conditions.

First, the Homestead police barred Cush from entering one meeting; then Cavanaugh refused to permit a meeting in the park, which Cush asked Miss Perkins to attend.

Said Cush:

"I am not an organizer for the Communist party. I am national chairman of the Steel and Metal Workers' Industrial Union.

"The agents of the steel companies, like Burgess Cavanaugh, do not suppress meetings of the steel workers simply because they may be addressed by Communists, but because there is no answers other than this kind to the desire of the workers to organize.

"Cavanaugh has never been known to do anything except carry out steel company orders with enthusiastic brutality."

WOMAN'S BLAST DEATH PROBED

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—A Coroner's jury last night found that Mrs. James Rubright, of New Castle, was killed by an explosion of nitroglycerine or dynamite caused by persons unknown.

Mrs. Rubright was killed more than a week ago, a terrific blast ripping apart the automobile in which she was sitting in a country lane near Portersville.

The jury recommended that the District Attorney continue to investigate to determine whether the woman's husband was connected with her death.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 9.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

It takes a long time to find out how wrong you are sometimes. In 1898 we was all in beaded perspiration trying to fix so Cuba would have liberty and all the accompanying benefits. Now Cuba is having one of the best civil wars that's been produced in years. Got rid of the Spaniards now they can have a real fight.

Around 1917 we also decided that the world Will Rogers ought to have a mess of democracy, so we went a long ways from home to fix it up for 'em. Well, you can kinder get a rough idea of how we fixed it. So the moral of the whole thing seems to be, stay home, build a big army and navy. They can't come here to lick us. We are not going there to lick them, so how you going to have any war?

Yours, WILL.

BABY SAVED, BREATHES THROUGH TUBE

BETTY MERSHEIMER, AGED 14 MONTHS, AND NURSE ANNA MARY MILLER . . HER LIFE SAVED

Little Betty recovering today in Children's Hospital following a bronchoscope operation by a Pittsburgh woman doctor to remove a peanut which had lodged in her bronchial tubes. A tracheotomy enabled Betty to breathe through a tube. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

EVICTION COSTS ENRICH VICTIM

Jack Gabel, 35, unemployed ironworker, was happier and richer today because he and his four children had been evicted from their former house at 509 Lockhart street.

Jack made money over the deal, thanks to Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar.

The owners wanted Jack, who was $15 behind in his rent, evicted. Gollmar suggested the owners pay Gabel the costs of eviction proceedings and he would voluntarily get out.

They eagerly handed Gabel $50. He turned back $15—his back rent. And, $35 richer, he and the youngsters marched out to look for a new home which he obtained at 1312 Federal street.

Peanut in Baby's Throat Removed, Life Saved

An unusual life-saving operation on a 14-month-old baby girl, now recovering at Children's Hospital, is attracting the daily praise and attention of medical authorities.

The child is Betty Mersheimer, of Slippery Rock, Pa. She was saved from choking to death by a bronchoscope—a slender 10-inch metal tube.

About a month ago Betty ate some salted peanuts she found in her father's coat pocket. One of them lodged in her bronchial tubes and she began to choke; finally she could hardly breathe.

After a midnight automobile ride to the Children's Hospital, Betty was placed on the operating table. A Pittsburgh woman doctor, who, for professional reasons, does not want her name used, performed the operation.

The bronchoscope, with its little light on one end, was used to remove the small pieces of peanut. Then a tracheotomy was performed, which consists of placing a tube through Betty's neck into her windpipe so that she could breathe.

The operation is said to equal those performed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, the inventor of the bronchoscope. Dr. Jackson was a former staff member of the Children's Hospital and is now living in Philadelphia.

Herron Orders Curb On Candidate Signs

Mayor John S. Herron has joined in the war against the illegal posting of campaign signs.

The Mayor has instructed Harmar D. Denny, Jr., safety director, to order police to arrest any person found mutilating, by means of painting or otherwise, any city property.

The Mayor announced he considered the action timely in view of the primary campaign.

POLICE, HOSIERY PICKETS CLASH

READING, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Police tear gas and night clubs turned back hosiery mill pickets twice yesterday, one of the comparatively few days in which disorder has attended the strike of 12,000 workers in Reading and vicinity.

Three strikers, one a woman, were injured sufficiently to require hospital treatment.

Police said the first clash was caused by pickets who attempted to rush past the barriers outside the E. Richard Meinig mill while a small group of workers was leaving. In the other fight police broke up a march on City Hall.

Their walkout in its eighth week, strikers are feeling the pinch of hunger. Ten thousand members of 2,500 families, their income stopped, are said by the Berks County relief director to have sought help in the last three weeks.

SEES U. S. BAN ON IMPORTS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 9.—(INS.)—While characterizing such a move as unsound and impossible over a long period of time, Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, today saw the United States possibly forced to exclude for a time all foreign products until the country regains its business composure.

Arriving to address the forty-eighth annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, Secretary Perkins said:

"These 'buy national' movements have never seemed to me to be sound, but we are in a position where we may find it necessary temporarily to become a self-sustaining nation."

Miss Perkins said that if even partial recovery can be achieved during the next few months ar a year, the United States can again become a buyer in the world.

Nazi Radio Attack Disturbs French

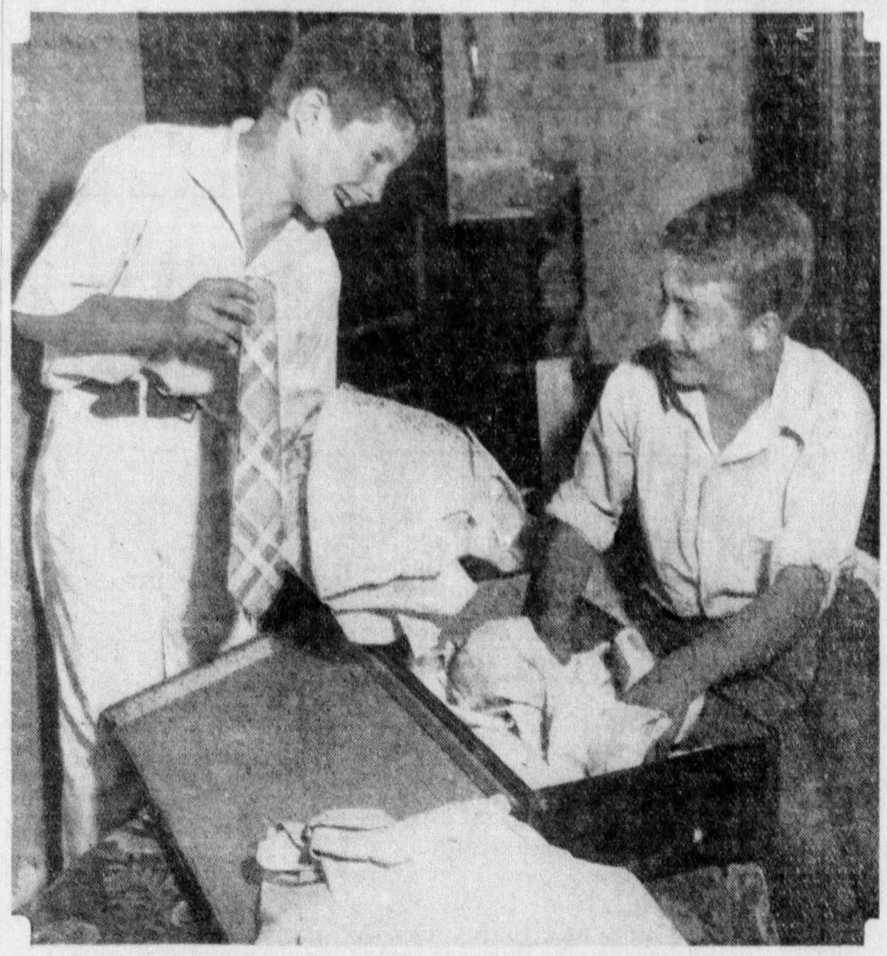
PARIS, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The French government is disturbed over information the Nazi wireless station at Breslau has renewed attacks against Austria despite the recent Anglo-French protest to Berlin, it was learned on high authority today.

The government, it was learned, views the radio activities as aggravating the problem between Germany and other European powers.

Boy's Hip Broken In Fall From Swing

Ralph Lostetter, 14, of 1919 Fairland street, Overbrook, was in South Side Hospital today with a hip fracture suffered in a fall from a swing in Phillips Park, Overbrook, last night.

AT THE FAIR—AND ARE THEY HAPPY!



PATRICK AND THOMAS FLANAGAN . . . THEY PULLED TOGETHER, WON TRIPS TO CHICAGO

Two of the 100 Pittsburgh boys now visiting A Century of Progress Exposition as prize winners in the contests conducted by a chain grocery company here. With two young friends, Patrick and Tom pooled their votes for four weeks, and came off victorious. They're sons of an unemployed railroader who couldn't afford a vacation for them. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

BROTHERS WIN FAIR TRIPS

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Two brothers, Pat and Thomas Flanagan, of Pittsburgh, believe in concerted and not individual effort.

That's the way they both won a free trip to the Chicago World's Fair, along with two other pals, George Beaumont and Donald Meyers.

Pat and Tom got together with their two friends when the A. & P. stores announced the contest which would send 100 boys to the World's Fair with expenses paid. They agreed to collect the coupons for four weeks and pool them each week. Each boy was to send in all the coupons for the week under his own name.

The first week Pat sent in his batch and won one of the 10 prizes. George Beaumont sent in the following week. Tom was one of the 10 the third week and so was Don the next week.

Pat and Tom are the sons of an unemployed railroad worker, who decided he couldn't send his boys on a vacation this year. He was surprised when he learned they had earned their own.

In the same contest, the Boy Scouts of Beaver also pooled all their coupons. But this time it was not to win a prize for one of them, but to send a little crippled boy here. Other Scout troops pooled their coupons and then decided the lucky one.

POSES AS SLAIN OHIOAN, HELD

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Police here today held incommunicado a shabbily dressed young man about 20 years old as a suspect in the slaying of Oliver S. Baily, 27, at Cincinnati, after the youth had attempted to pose as the slain man.

Authorities said the youth would only say his name is "Henkle" after first asserting he was "Oliver A. Baily, of Cincinnati."

Baily was beaten to death in Cincinnati last Sunday.

The suspect was arrested in an automobile believed to have belonged to Baily, which officers said contained bloody clothing and a life insurance policy made out in Baily's name.

"Henkle" was arrested at a gasoline filling station early today when the proprietor became suspicious of the contrast between his shabby appearance and the elegance of the roadster he was driving. The car had an Ohio license plate.

Wife of Johnson Aids In NRA Campaign

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Into the throbbing vortex of Recovery Administration headquarters a desk was moved today for a small, vivacious person already attuned to the tempo of the place—Mrs. Hugh S. Johnson. She was the answer to those who had been wondering what manner of wife could keep pace with Gen. Johnson, Recovery Administrator.

Serving without pay, Mrs. Johnson has accepted a place on the Consumers Advisory Board, serving on its Consumers' Protective Bureau, through which complaints will clear.

Means to Succeed Papale, Rumors Say

Reports were current today that William A. Means, former alderman of the Twelfth Ward, would be appointed police magistrate to succeed Charles F. Papale, who was discharged last week by Mayor John S. Herron.

Means was chairman of the registration commission for several years, being dismissed by Gov. Pinchot in 1931.

PAPALE, OUSTED MAGISTRATE, BOLTS G.O.P.

Charles F. Papale, who until Mayor Herron swung his political ax Saturday, was police magistrate in the Forty-third street precinct, has gone Democratic.

At the time of his dismissal, one of those Papale blamed was Mike DeRosa, and it was in the Twelfth Ward, where DeRosa is the organization's head man, that Papale told a large group of Democrats last night he would be for William N. McNair for mayor.

The meeting was held at 221 Larimer avenue, and was attended by McNair. It was the largest Democratic meeting ever held in the ward.

Besides DeRosa, Papale blamed Councilman William J. Soost, whom, he said, was supposed to run the entire East End district, and from whom he said he had refused to take orders.

Battling between the two Democratic mayoralty factions continued today, with John M. Henry, independent candidate, replying to Representative John J. Kane, who on behalf of McNair charged that Henry himself was not above playing bi-partisan politics, and had received an appointment from the Republican county commissioners in return for speeches in their behalf.

Henry charged that the Democrats, in the last Legislature, had made a deal which resulted in the ousting of himself and another anti-Lawrence Democrat as registration commissioners. The extent of the deal was illustrated, he contended, by the fact that the Republican Senate confirmed the two Lawrence-picked Democrats, while refusing to confirm the two Republicans, selected by independent members of that party.

Henry asserted that his charge that McNair had managed Lawrence's 1931 campaign for County Commissioner, supported by Republican Senator James J. Coyne, still is unanswered.

4 IN AUTO HURT IN CRASH WITH PICNIC BUS

Four persons were injured when a Harmony Short Line Bus, laden with 30 picnic-bound passengers, crashed head-on with a passenger car on the Steubenville pike, near Imperial, last night, according to a police report.

Three of the injured, occupants of the car driven by Pete Karpan, Imperial, were taken to Haddon Hospital. They were Paul Harkas, his son, Paul, Jr., 12, and his daughter, Sue, 16, of Tyre. Karpan was taken to Mercy Hospital.

The bus passengers, all Negroes, bound to a Rock Springs Park outing, were transferred to another bus.

SECOND CRASH NEARLY

While Highway Patrol Corp. Robert Clark was investigating the accident another automobile, driven by James E. Griffith, of Beaver Falls, went off the road and overturned 500 feet away.

Griffith's passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Holland, who were hitch-hiking to Pittsburgh from Los Angeles, were taken to Mercy Hospital. Holland suffered a fractured rib. His wife's injuries were reported slight.

Paul Kevacick, 50, of Pitcairn, struck last night by a hit-run motorist in Moss Side boulevard, Pitcairn, died in Braddock General Hospital today.

CYCLE, TRUCK COLLIDE

Jack D. Mars, 19, of 1334 Fifth avenue, suffered lacerations and bruises when his motorcycle collided with a truck driven by William Bearley, 25, of 834 Suismon street, at Fifth avenue and Miltenberger street last night, police reported. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

M. Rubin, 32, of 221 Dinwiddie street, suffered lacerations when the automobile he was driving hit a pole in the Boulevard of the Allies at Craft avenue yesterday, according to a police report. Rubin, taken to Montefiore Hospital, told police the steering mechanism locked.

Suffering a skull fracture when he fell from the rear of a truck in Leechburg, Joseph Lucas, 6, of Springdale, was in Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, today. The truck was said to have been driven by his father, Joseph Lucas.

AGED WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. J. C. Glass, 77, of Allegheny avenue, Oakmont, was in a serious condition today in Citizens' General Hospital at New Kensington with head injuries suffered in an automobile-truck collision in the Leechburg road late yesterday.

Police said the car, driven by her daughter, Ella Glass, collided with the truck when she swerved to avoid striking a boy on a bicycle.

A light pole at 6515 Hamilton avenue was sheered at its base early today when an automobile, out of control, crashed into it. F. W. Feicht, 27, of Parkers Landing, Pa., was arrested by East End Police on a reckless driving charge. He said a blowout caused him to lose control of his car.

'DRY' BUREAU CLOSES TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(INS.)—The Prohibition Bureau, which for 13 years has ranked as a major department of the government so far as popular interest is concerned, ceases to exist at midnight.

Under President Roosevelt's executive order consolidating investigating agencies of the government, the Prohibition Bureau is swallowed by the newly created United States Bureau of Investigation.

Approximately 1,800 dry agents lose their jobs—but about 1,200 of them will be immediately rehired and converted as investigators into the new bureau. The other 600 are out.

Woman Injured As Autos Collide

Mrs. Mary Sedrnko, 45, McKees Rocks, was injured when two automobiles collided in Eighth avenue, Homestead, early today. She was riding with her husband in a car driven by John Batursky, of McKees Rocks.

The two drivers, Batursky and Thomas Session, of McKeesport, were arrested, police reported.

Two Pittsburghers Hurt as Car Upsets

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 9.—Charles L. Widner and Charles Brandt, both of Pittsburgh, were in Uniontown Hospital today with injuries they received in an automobile accident.

The car in which they were returning to Pittsburgh overturned on a curve at Perryopolis.

Famous Showboat Auctioned for $20

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The Mississippi River's famous showboat "Cotton Blossom" was knocked down under the auctioneer's hammer today for $20.

Public sale of the romantic old boat which brought sunshine and melodrama to the interior towns of southern states for years, brought only one bid. Clarence Stanley of Baton Rouge, the buyer, said he would renovate the vessel for a theatrical comeback.

POLL TAX SUIT HEARING SET

Hearing in a mandamus action seeking to require the County Commissioners to separate the poll tax from the personal property tax collection was set today for 11 a. m. tomorrow in Common Pleas Court.

The time was set by President Judge James R. Macfarlane after Assistant Solicitor John H. Lauer filed a demurrer and asked that the hearing be held before the September primary registration.

The mandamus action was filed last week by A. G. Weil as a test case. Weil said when he sought to pay his poll tax separate from his personal property tax, the payment was refused. He said he was deprived of his vote as a result.

Judges Macfarlane, John P. Egan and William H. McNaugher will hear the case.

Father's Gun Kills Girl as She Runs Before Target

PAYSON, Utah, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Vergie Louise Bernard, 11, was shot through the heart and killed when she stepped in front of a target at which her father was firing with a large caliber rifle on a target range.

The girl had been in the target butts marking her father's shot and signaling his score. The girl's mother and three younger brothers, who were standing with Benard, saw the tragedy.

MOTHER SAVED FROM EXILE

A mother and two children today won their fight to remain in the United States.

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker handed down an opinion in United States District Court stating there was nothing in the record to show they had become or were likely to become public charges.

By virtue of the ruling, Mrs. Helena Bugla, 38, of 317 West Main street, Carnegie, a native of Poland, may stay here and keep her family together. Her oldest children, Anna, 9, and Teddy, 7, were slated for deportation with her. The younger children might stay, because they were born in this country.

The woman's husband, Antonio Bugla, 43, was deported a year ago.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Pitt's Timber Seasoned. Fifty Gridders on List. Packard Shifted Again. Son in Dad's Position. Equipoise Ranked First. Jeby's Title in Danger.

PANTHER SQUAD RICH IN EXPERIENCE

COACH JOCK SUTHERLAND has taken larger football squads to Camp Hamilton in past years, and he has had squads that included men of greater size, but never since he took over the reins at Pitt in 1924 has the silent Scot been able to look forward all summer to taking such an experienced group to the Panther mountain stronghold as he will pilot to that spot on September 10. In all probability there will be 50 men in the Pitt party, and of that large number every one either has had varsity experience or was a letterman on the freshman team.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

There will be 16 lettermen in the group, 12 other members of the 1932 varsity group who have had actual experience under fire, and 18 up-and-coming sophomores, all eager for a chance to show their mettle. The squad will be composed of 21 backs and 29 linemen. Outstanding among the ball toters will be such veterans as Bobby Hogan, Miller Munjas, Howdie O'Dell, Mike Sebastian, Heinie Weisenbaugh and Izzy Weinstock, all lettermen; Dick Matesic, who has played in practically all of Pitt's games during the last couple of seasons, and Leo Malarkey, Len Rector and Leon Shedlosky, all sophomores.

THE LINEMEN INCLUDE Tar Onder, Doc Hartwig, Kenny Ormiston, Joe Skladany, Frank Walton, Bob Hoel, Johnny Meredith, George Shotwell, John Love, and Harvey Rooker, all lettermen, and Stan Olenicsak, Louis Wojcihovski, Frank Kutz, Nick Kliskey and Bob Timmons, crack reserves.

Besides, there are Art Detzel, Bill Glassford, Verne Baxter and Vincent Sites, promising sophomores. All in all it looks as though Dr. Sutherland can look for a fairly successful season in 1933, though there is a paucity of first-year linemen that may result in serious difficulties a year or two hence.

FRANK PACKARD, Pittsburgh player, who is the property of Baltimore, continues to be shifted around. He has played on five clubs and in four leagues this year. First he went from Baltimore to Jersey City in the International League, next to Minneapolis in the American Association, thence to Williamsport in the New York-Pennsylvania circuit, and now he is playing third base for Charlotte in the Piedmont League.

Packard has the distinction of having shown enough drawing power to pay for himself in his first appearance. His debut with Charlotte was made the occasion of a special show and so many extra fans turned out to see him play that President Johnny Dobbs said the increased gate just about paid the sum given Williamsport for the Baltimore option.

TWO GENERATIONS OF one family may be listed among the star catchers of baseball history. Not only that, but in the same major league city and on the same club. Young Billy Sullivan finally has agreed to switch over to the backstopping department on the Chicago White Sox and try to reach the heights of catching fame to which his father soared a quarter of a century ago when the senior Sullivan was the battery mate of Big Ed Walsh, Doc White, Nick Altrock, Nig Smith and other mound notables of those days. In two years, Billy, Jr., has been tried in every position by the Chisox except center field and the pitcher's box. They wanted him to take up catching steadily, but he refused. He wanted to play first base. Finally he has yielded, however, and hereafter he will devote himself to the position in which his father became famous.

Billy Sullivan, Jr.

THE OLDER SULLIVAN, who is living the life of a fruit and nut grower in Oregon, did not attempt to influence his son in a choice of positions, though he did encourage his general baseball ambitions, with the stipulation that the boy first complete his education.

"That's why I stayed at Notre Dame until I graduated last June," explains young Billy. "I also have passed the bar examination in Indiana, so that I have a profession to look forward to when I am no longer young enough to play ball. That was Dad's idea. He says baseball is all right as an early career, but always was stressing the fact that baseball pay checks do not keep coming in forever."

THERE IS AT least one player in the National League who does not rate Carl Hubbell as the loop's best left-hand pitcher. He is Joe Hutcheson, Brooklyn's new outfielder. The Memphis recruit gives his vote to Ed Brandt, of Boston.

"Brandt showed me more speed than Hubbell did, and Brandt's curves are better," Hutcheson said. "Hubbell's most effective pitch, of course, is the screwball. Brandt does not have that sort of pitch. I did not dislike hitting against Hubbell. Brandt is the best pitcher I have seen so far."

SEVERAL VETERAN TURFMEN have rated C. V. Whitney's great horse Equipoise as worthy of being rated with the mighty Man o' War of 1919-20. Sonny Workman, famous jockey, goes farther. He pronounces Equipoise an even greater horse. "The only way he can be beaten," Workman declares, "is for the handicappers to break him down. If his legs could stand it, he could carry 200 pounds and beat any other horse now running. He's a greater horse than Man o' War. His record shows that, and if Man o' War were running now Equipoise would prove it by giving him weight and a beating. Equipoise could give any kind of weight to any horse in the country, and I feel sure he will go into winter quarters undefeated for the year."

BASKETBALL MEN OF the district are taking not a little pride in the fact that their game has an unusually strong representation on the Johnstown baseball club of the Middle Atlantic League. There are no fewer than three prominent floor figures in the Johnstown lineup.

Leo Mackey, manager and catcher, was one of the best basketball players of the old days hereabouts and now is one of the leading officials. Nat Hickey, one of the famous Celtics, is playing first base, and Tim Lawry, among the best of the local college court performers of recent seasons and co-captain of the Pitt five a year ago, is playing in the outfield.

PICKING OUT THE world's best swimmer is a proposition on which there are many different opinions, particularly when the field to be considered is made so large as to include both the professional and amateur divisions. Probably the ballots would be as varied as star natators are numerous.

Ben Jeby.

But one authority insists that after all the candidates have been sized up the world all-around title must be given to Stubby Kruger, now a professional. At least, Stubby is held to be the most versatile. The claim made for him is that he can swim any distance, using any stroke, and can dive with the best.

ANOTHER WORLD RING champion, or a fighter so rated at least under New York regulations, tonight will take a chance against the 1933 jinx that has unseated such other title holders as Jack Sharkey, Tony Canzoneri, Jackie Fields and Young Corbett. Ben Jeby will undertake to defend the middleweight crown against Lou Brouillard over the 15-round distance in New York. Indications are that Jeby will have a job of some size on his hands. Brouillard, former holder of the welterweight crown, is only 22, and has been fighting but a few years as a professional, but victories over such men as Jimmy McLarnin, Young Jack Thompson, Mickey Walker, Baby Joe Gans, Canada Lee, Johnny Indrasunno, Andy Callahan, Paul Pirrone, Bucky Lawless and others attest that he has something more than ambition to take into the ring with him. He is a tireless, aggressive fighter, and carries a dangerous punch. Jeby will have to so some tall fighting to hang on to his title, and there is just about an even chance that he will lose it.

BUCS PRIMED FOR INVASION OF CUBS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Their three open dates ending with today, the Pirates are ready to meet the invasion of Charley Grimm's Cubs, who are due to open a three-game series at Forbes Field tomorrow. The Buccos will play an exhibition game at New Castle this evening, but none of the first-string pitchers will be required to participate in the game. The regular sharpshooters, by the way, should be in fine fettle as they have had plenty of time for relaxation since Sunday.

X-Ray photographs of Adam Comorosky's injured right ankle today disclosed the Pirate outfielder's misfortune to be nothing more than a sprain, which should respond to ordinary treatment. Comorosky, however, is likely to be unfit for play over a period of 10 days. Adam was hurt in Chicago last Saturday when he attempted to score on a double steal.

The impending series between the Pirates and Cubs will be a keen struggle for second place. The Bruins topped the Cardinals yesterday in Chicago and today were only one game below the runnerup Pirates.

WORRY OVER GIANTS

The real concern of the Buccos has to do with the Giants and first place. The league leaders swallowed a bitter pill as they bowed to the Dodgers yesterday, the Pirates benefitting to the extent of a half-game gain. Gibby's club is three games below the pacesetters.

This time next week will find the Pirates in the first stages of their last Eastern invasion of the campaign. At the conclusion of Saturday's game with the Cubs, the Buccos and Bruins will move to Chicago where they are slated for a Sunday game. The Pirates will hurry back home to be ready to meet Babe Ruth and the rest of the Yankees in an exhibition contest scheduled for Monday.

The Freebooters will open their Eastern fireworks next Wednesday in Brooklyn. After Monday's tilt with the Yanks there will be no baseball at the Oakland Orchard until September 1, when the Cardinals come to town. The Bucs will play on their home lot through most of September.

LOSE TO STOGIES

The Pirates spent yesterday in Wheeling, where they lost to the Wheeling Stogies, of the Mid-Atlantic League, in an exhibition game, 5 to 4. The Stogies pushed over the winning run in the tenth inning on singles by Jablonowski and Curry.

Honus Wagner, who played first base part of the game, was presented a comb and brush set by Johnny Gallagher, assistant city manager, on behalf of the Wheeling fans. The score:

Oh, to Go a-Punting on the Dear Old Thames!

MISS R. C. E. CHART EASILY WINS WOMEN'S SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP IN RACES ON ENGLAND'S FAMOUS RIVER THAMES

You've often heard the expression, "Punting on the Thames." It doesn't mean kicking around a football, as we understand punting in this country. It means pushing along one of those little boats such as seen in the above International News Photograph Service picture, in much the same fashion as the Chinese boatman strokes his craft in the Yang Tse River. It's good sport.

LOCAL TYPOS ELIMINATED

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The defending champions from Washington today were away out in front in the Union Printers' baseball tournament, a 12-to-4 victory over the heretofore undefeated Chicago team yesterday giving them a record of three wins against no losses.

A seventh-inning rally in which they scored seven runs gave the Washington printers the victory and a tremendous start toward the championship that will be settled at Navin Field tomorrow. New York, which has won two games and lost none, was idle yesterday.

The other games yesterday resulted in elimination of three teams. Detroit put out St. Louis with an 8-to-2 triumph. Cleveland eliminated Pittsburgh, 7 to 2, and Minneapolis-St. Paul ended the hopes of Cincinnati with a 6-to-5 victory. Two defeats drop a team from the tournament.

Chicago, Detroit, Twin Cities and Cleveland now have won two and lost one game each. The unbeaten Washington and New York teams meet today at Navin Field, where Detroit also meets Cleveland. Chicago and Twin Cities meet in the other game of the day.

SEALS OFFER FANFEST

What about the return of pitching to something approaching its former high place in the baseball scheme of things?

How about a couple of playing managers in the world series for a change—perhaps Bill Terry and Joe Cronin?

How about the pennant races themselves?

How about—well, how about a lot of things in baseball?

The fans who would like to know are invited to listen in on the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock this evening. Harry Keck, sports editor, and Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert, will have a fanfest in which the questions and answers will pop.

HURLS NO-HIT WIN

BRANDON, Man., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Roman (Lefty) Bertrand, 20-year-old pitcher for the Brandon club of the Northern Baseball League, hurled a no-run, no-hit contest here last night to shut out Moorhead-Fargo, 2 to 0.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year

I think there is no question that the new, larger and lighter standard ball needs to be hit differently from the smaller 1.62-1.62 in order to get the greatest length off the tee. The smaller ball was relatively heavy enough to force some amount of roll even out of a slightly downward blow, and its weight and smallness enabled it to make good headway against an adverse wind no matter how it was hit. But the larger ball loses roll and boring power upon having applied to it the least perceptible amount of spin. Because any increase in the angle at which the club descends upon the ball tends to increase the backspin applied to it, it is therefore more desirable now than before to hit the ball a flat blow, squarely in the back, whenever maximum length is desired.

Knowing of my ideas with respect to this question, a friend and fellow golfer in New York City has written to suggest that this flatness in the arc of the swing approaching the contact point might be obtained by discharging the wrist-cock earlier in the swing, instead of reserving it until almost the last instant. He points to an old theory, once championed by Harry Vardon, that the first move of the downswing should be a throw of the club-head by means of the hands and wrists, thus straightening or eliminating the angle between the left arm and the shaft of the club.

Bobby Jones

ADDS TO WIDTH OF ARC

It is plain that such an action would have the effect of increasing the width of the arc of the upper part of the downswing—that is, it would force the club-head farther away from the player's body—and it would tend to cause the club to approach the ball from a point somewhat lower than is reached by the present-day swing in which the wrist-cock is retained until quite late in the stroke.

But the fact is that such a procedure would utterly destroy the timing and power of the stroke. Arriving at the point where the club-head should receive its final acceleration from the opening of the wrists, the player would discover that his only means of completing the stroke lay in his shoulders and body and no amount of gymnastics or contortions would enable him to deliver any sort of well-timed blow. He would find that his effort to obtain a few extra yards had led him to introduce into his swing a deadly destructive fault.

I believe that Vardon did at one time hold the view that this throw of the club-head from the top of the swing was correct, and I believe, too, that some of the older instructors, following him and without modern slow-motion movies to assist them, did preach the same doctrine. But this idea since has been discarded as wholly mistaken.

NO DIFFERENCE FOUND

The P. G. A. ultra-slow pictures made of Vardon a few years ago reveal no difference in this respect from the accepted modern practice. There has been more talk about the bend in Vardon's left elbow at the top of the swing than of anything else in his method. These pictures revealed that his left arm became perfectly straight almost immediately after the downstroke got under way, and that thereafter the action was almost precisely the same as in the swings of Miss Joyce Wethered and myself, who were photographed by the same camera.

Vardon very likely felt the straightening of his left arm to be the throw with the wrists which he described. It is quite certain that he never could have been the golfer he was had he actually performed the latter movement.

It is quite possible, when driving the ball from a reasonably high tee, to play it forward and strike it a flat, or even an ascending blow without disturbing the rest of the swing so disastrously. It is merely a matter of practice. The only compromise must be with accuracy, for the tendency toward error is far greater with this kind of stroke. There comes always a point where additional length is too dearly gained.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur bouts, St. Peter's A. A. Stadium, North Side (postponed from last night).

Benefit amateur bouts, St. Colman's School grounds, Turtle Creek.

Lou Brouillard vs. Ben Jeby (for world middleweight championship), 15 rounds; Battling Battalino vs. Phil Rafferty, 8 rounds; Varias Milling vs. Pete DeGrasse, 6 rounds; Jack Rose vs. Lew Ambers, 4 rounds, Polo Grounds, New York.

King Tut vs. Eddie Ran, 10 rounds, San Francisco.

Speedy Schaefer vs. Allen Matthews, 10 rounds, and Joe Red vs. Clem Reed, 8 rounds, St. Louis.

Karl Ogren vs. Freddie Heintz, 10 rounds, and Bob Groseh vs. Bill O'Connell, 5 rounds, Chicago.

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Ted Yarosz, Monaca's gift to the boxing game, is going wholehog on this middleweight championship business.

Fresh from the victory over Al Rossi at Newark, N. J., Monday night, Ted and his manager, Ray Foutts, are staying over in New York and will be at the ringside tonight to size up Ben Jeby and Lou Brouillard in their championship battle in Madison Square Garden's Long Island City Bowl.

Before the main bout, Yarosz is to be introduced from the ring and will issue a challenge to the winner.

Then he'll light out for home to prepare for his postponed battle with Vince Dundee at Forbes Field one week from next Monday night.

Newark newspapers received here today are lavish in their praise of Yarosz after the Rossi fight, coming on top of his knockout of Freddie Polo in Newark two weeks before, and there is no doubt that Ted has clicked in swell fashion in the East.

The North Braddock Bowl has asked the boxing commission for a hearing on its suspension following its Sammy Slaughter-Jack King fight, Monday night of last week. Through Leonard A. Mazer, attorney for his brother, Joe Mazer, the promoter, the club seeks a showdown on the facts in the case. It had been reported that the club was set down for not settling its financial obligations for the show, which the Brothers Mazer declare is all wrong. They want the public to know just what transpired and to be cleared of the charge, detrimental to the club's reputation. A hearing within three days is asked in a letter to the commission.

ELDRED MEETS SARAZEN AT MILWAUKEE

BULLETIN.

BLUE MOUND COUNTRY CLUB, Milwaukee, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Gene Sarazen held a 4-up lead on Vincent Eldred, of Pittsburgh, at the ninth hole in their first-round P. G. A. match here today.

BLUE MOUND CLUB, Milwaukee, Aug. 9. — (AP.) — Under cloudy skies that carried a threat of rain, Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, and 31 survivors of the most sizzling qualifying round in the tournament history opened match play battle for the national professional golf championship today.

James Hines, of the Timber Point Club, New York, and Mortie Dutra, brother of the defending titleholder, who finished in a deadlock for the championship medal yesterday with 138's, fired the first shots in the initial 36-hole match play skirmish and were followed by a large group of stars, among them six members of the Ryder cup squad.

DUTRA MEETS MILES

Olin Dutra's first round rival was Reggie Miles, Ashland, O., while Gene Sarazen, who landed in fourth place in the qualifying test on the tide of a rousing 68, matched shots with Vincent Eldred, of Pittsburgh. Sarazen and Olin Dutra were in the same bracket, the hardest of the two on the basis of golfing reputations.

Shooting even par and trading a hole apiece, Mortie Dutra and Hines were all square through the fifth. Dutra took the first with a par 4 as Hines missed the green with his approach but the big New York pro evened it up on the third by dropping a long putt for a birdie 3. The other holes were shot in par.

PICARD GETS LEAD

Henry Picard, of Charleston, S. C., started out in his match with Willie Klein, of New York, with a par and birdie 3 and held a two-up advantage through five holes.

Using only 11 putts on the front nine, Picard scored a great 33, two under par, to take a wide 4-up lead over Klein, who had a 37. The cards:

Picard out	434	443	355	—33
Klein out	544	344	445	—37

M. Dutra grew wild with his tee and iron shots to soar to a 38. Hines led him 2 up through the first nine.

Tom Cravy, of Albany, N. Y., 1931 champion, won the eighth and ninth holes with par shooting to grab a 2 up margin over young Dick Metz, of Deal, N. J., while Jack Curley, Quincy, Mass., bounded to a 1 up lead in his match with Frank Walsh, Chicago, 1932 runner-up.

Chipping in from the edge of the green for birdie 3's on the first two holes, Johnny Revolta, of Menominee, Mich., took a quick lead over Alex Gerlak, Catskill, N. Y., and shot par on the next three holes to gain a big 4 up advantage.

Leo Diegal shot nine straight pars, but fell 1 down to William Goggin, of Salada Beach, Cal., after nine holes. Goggin opened with a 7, but countered with three successive 3's to go ahead and stick there at the turn.

ELDRADE MAKES GRADE

Eldred, Sarazen's first round opponent, was the only Pittsburgh district pro to qualify. He scored a 143. Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, took a 147; Perry Del Vecchio had 150, and Paul (Toots) Erath 160.

Pairings with qualifying score for the first round follow:

UPPER BRACKET

Jimmy Hines, New York (138) vs. Mortie Dutra, Detroit (138).
Henry Picard, Charleston, S. C. (145) vs. Willie Klein, New York (140).
Jack Curley, Quincy, Mass. (142) vs. Frank Walsh, Chicago (143).
Tom Creavy, Albany, N. Y. (142) vs. Dick Metz, Deal, N. J. (143).
Charles Schneider, Cheltenham, Pa. (145) vs. Al Espinosa, Akron (148).
Leo Diegel, Grosse Point, Mich. (143) vs. William Goggins, Salada Beach, Cal. (145).
Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y. (141) vs. Al Houghton, Washington, D. C. (141).
Alex Gerlak, Catskill, N. Y. (146) vs. John Revota, Menominee, Mich. (139).

LOWER BRACKET

Horton Smith, Chicago (143) vs. Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J. (143).
Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. (143) vs. Ben Pautke, Detroit (146).
Vincent Eldred, Pittsburgh, Pa. (143) vs. Gene Sarazen, Miami (140).
Harry Cooper, Chicago (143) vs. Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass. (146).
Gunnar Johnson, St. Paul (146) vs. John Golden, Noroton, Conn. (145).
Bobby Cruickshank, Rumson, N. J. (141) vs. Johnny Farrell, New York (143).
Reggie Myles, Ashland, O. (145) vs. Olin Dutra, Los Angeles (did not have to qualify).

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—It is going to be as interesting as nine guinea pigs to see how Rog Hornsby experiments with his St. Louis Browns. But I don't think history will mimeograph itself this season. You will remember last August Hornsby was chief grizzly of the Cubs when all of a sudden he found himself out on a limb. That was when Charley Grimm took hold and changed the Cub team from a bearskin doormat to a pennant winner in about six weeks. Well, now the sitchyation has been reversicated, as Ardy would say to Amos, and Bill Killifer finds a gate in his pay envelope and Hornsby is manager of the club.

But I still don't see how Rog can get the team out of the cellar unless he puts 'em in a rowboat and then floods the cellar.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: MOTHER OF 57—Kuba Kyrlovova, the wife of a farmer of Wassiliew, government of Tobolsk, Siberia, gave birth to 57 children in 21 confinements. She bore quadruplets four times, triplets seven times and twins 10 times. She was presented to two Russian sovereigns, Catherine II and Paul I, who treated her with marked distinction. She died in 1804 and her husband, aged 52, married a second time. The second Mrs. Kyrlovova gave birth to an additional 18 children, of which six were triplets and 12 were twins. With the new acquisition of 18 children, Kyrlovova thus left 75 children when he died.

TOMORROW—A BEARDED BOY.

DODGERS SLICE GIANTS' EDGE IN NATIONAL

Associated Press.

Just when it appeared the New York Yankees in general and Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig in particular had swung back into their devastating ways, along came Earl Whitehill, leader of Joe Cronin's mound staff at Washington. As the result, the Senators today held a two-game advantage over the champions with one game to be played in the current warfare at the Stadium.

Unlike the team that rose in its might to sweep a doubleheader Monday, the Yankees yesterday were meek as lambs before the southpaw shoots of Whitehill as the Senators won, 5 to 1. Twice, when hits might have changed the complexion of the game, Babe Ruth hit into double plays.

RED SOX LOSE

The Washington-New York fray again overshadowed the remainder of the major leagues' abbreviated program that included the Athletics 7-to-6 decision over the Red Sox in the American League and the Dodgers' 1-to-0 victory in 11 innings over the Giants and the Cubs' 4-to-2 triumph over the Cardinals and Dizzy Dean in the senior circuit.

Robert Moses Grove, appearing for the first time since breaking the Yankees' shutout streak, won his seventeenth game of the season as the A's turned back the Red Sox, but he needed the help of three home runs, one of them Jimmy Foxx's thirty-second circuit clout of the season.

BENGE BEATS GIANTS

The Dodgers and Giants put on a pitching duel between Ray Benge and Hal Schumacher, and Brooklyn emerged with the winning run in the eleventh. Schumacher loaded the bases on two singles and a base on balls but it was an error by Johnny Vergez, just when the Giants appeared on their way out of the hole, that let pinch-runner Danny Taylor cross the plate.

The Cubs, who last week helped Dean establish a new strike-out record, avenged themselves by defeating the Cards in the opening game of the series.

BOUT POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The eight-round bout between Hans Birkie, German heavyweight, and Abe Feldman, of New York, scheduled for last night at Fugazy Bowl, Coney Island, was postponed until tomorrow because of threatening weather.

LOU BROUILLARD CHOICE TO WIN JEBY'S TITLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ben Jeby, who is recognized in New York as middleweight champion of the world but who hasn't carried his claims far outside, runs into one of the toughest tests in his career tonight when he faces Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, Mass., in a 15 round title fray at the Polo Grounds.

A crowd of only about 10,000 is expected at the Polo Grounds as the lack of color in the bout appears to have offset the top price of $3.50. Brouillard has been made a slight favorite in the betting on the strength of his fine showing in training.

TOURNAMENT DRAWS LOCALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A sizable coterie of Pittsburgh racqueters will fare forth next week in quest of honors of the Western Maryland title event at Mountain Lake Park and of the Northwestern Pennsylvania crown event at Hunters' Lodge, Erie. Following a brief period of quiet during the past and next few days, hectic activity lasting till latter part of September thus gets under way.

The Mountain Lake affair, involving an auto trip of a little more than 100 miles, will draw vast majority of the traveling troupe. Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace and holder of the West Penn men's singles championship, heads the Steel City crew billed to invade the Maryland resort. O'Loughlin copped decisively over Randolph Shields, Wash-Lee luminary and defending premier, in the final a year ago.

Along with the Winged Head mainstay will go his younger brother, Billy, Southern Pennsylvania champion; Frank Broida, Harvard-Edgewood southpaw, and former Pittsburgh Parks titleholder; Bob Lampus and Bud Leyda, Shannopin stars; John Brown and Eddie Alcorn, Mt. Lebanon contenders, now of Edgewood; Andy Smeaton, ex-Duke net leader; Paul Sullivan, of the P. A. A.; and various others. Margaret Carspecken, brilliant Morgantowner and present possessor of women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles laurels of Western Pennsylvania, Western Maryland and West Virginia, tops the feminine group.

Several first division frays remaining as result of postponed engagements on the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League card must be disposed of ere it can be determined whether University Club or College Avenue will repose definitely in last place in the upper sector.

The tail-ender must battle Belmont, winner in Division II, for right to compete in the speedier portion of the circuit in 1934.

Seattle Youth Archery Leader

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ralph Miller, Jr., 17-year-old threat from Seattle, Wash., scored 630 points here yesterday to lead Russell Hoogerhyde, defending champion from Bristol, Conn., by six points at the end of the first day's competition in the two-day target meets in the national archery tournament.

In the women's events, Miss Madeleine Taylor, of Newton Center, Mass., was ahead with 833 points. The defending champion Ilda Hanchette, of Inglewood, Cal., was in fourth place with 771 points.

Very much in the race for the Greater Pittsburgh League title, Parmelee and the Swissvale nines clash in the feature sandlot game of the evening at Magee Field.

Manager Dinny Moore will send Regis Leheny to the mound in an effort to stop Swissvale, the team that pulled a big surprise a couple of weeks ago by defeating Whitaker.

Jack Cummings, who once wore the livery of the New York Giants, will be Leheny's battery mate.

One game is carded in the City League, the Brentwood Gillespies clashing with Dormont at Dormont.

The Bellevue Welfare Club will meet a team of ex-Bellevue stars in a benefit game at Kendall Field, Bellevue, Friday evening. Jim, Joe, Andy and Steve Swetonic will play for the old-timers.

Auto Races Tonight At Greenlee Field

A field of 12 drivers has been named to start in the automobile races at Greenlee Field tonight, with qualifying trials getting under way at 7:30 o'clock. There will be three 10-mile races and one of 25 miles.

Following are the entrants:

Gummy Tramison, Winnie Walker, Harry Unger, Jack Jiarusso, Ollie Kiley, Owen Truesdale, Earl Johnston, Frank Hollman, Dean McCoy, Dan McGeever, Harold Hails and Bill Schempp.

YOUNG GOLFERS LEAD

BILLY MARKS HEADS FIELD AT OAKMONT

By TOM BIRKS

Young stars dominated the district qualifying play for the national amateur golf championship tournament, staged at Oakmont yesterday, as a quintet of youthful linksmen garnered the five places allotted the district for the national amateur, to be played in Cincinnati September 11 to 16.

Wilson (Billy) Marks, of Kiski, and Oakmont, son of the famous Jim Marks, of Kiski football and golf fame, lugged home a new trophy to add to his dad's collection as he put together rounds of 79 and 78 for an aggregate 157 to lead the field by three strokes. Fred Brand, Jr., of Shannopin, was second with 160. The other three to qualify from this district were Regis Wolff, of Highland, former Pitt captain, who had 163; Joe Wells, of East Liverpool, O., with 164, and H. V. Blaxter, of the Fox Chapel Golf Club with 165.

Falling by the wayside were Fred Weppner, of the Field Club; Tom Jamison, Jr., of Oakmont; Bill Farquhar, of the Field Club, and Ike Danforth, of Oakmont.

BRAND EARLY LEADER

Brand, former Penn State star, led the morning round with a 76, playing consistent golf. The only other player to break 80 in the first round was Marks, with a 79.

Right on the heels of Brand and Marks was Jamison, with 81, and Bruce Miller, of St. Clair and St. Louis, with 82. Regis Wolff came home with an 86, but the Highlander did not let that worry him, and he went around the course in the afternoon for a 77 and a sure berth.

Bill Farquhar, who toured the course in 72 strokes a couple of weeks ago, seemed to be a sure qualifier, but could not get going in the same stride, and his teammate, Fred Weppner, found things so tough in the afternoon that he decided not to turn in a card. The cards of the qualifiers:

PARKS FINALISTS CLASH

At North Park this afternoon, the first 18 holes for the county parks championship will be played. The contestants are Carl Kauffmann, three times national public links champion, representing the South Park, and Alex Shacoski, North Park. The second 18-hole duel is scheduled for South Park tomorrow.

At Alcoma, the course will take upon itself a dignified air this afternoon, when the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh stages its annual golf tournament.

STARS QUALIFY

Associated Press.

Three names stood out today among all the amateur golfers who expect to have a shot at bringing back to the United States the national crown which is now being worn by Ross (Sandy) Somerville, of London, Ont.

Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, the national open title holder, Frank Dolp, of Portland, Ore., former Walker Cup player, and Lawson Little, California star turned in the outstanding par-cracking feats in yesterday's sectional qualifying tests.

Most of the famous veterans, including H. Chandler Egan, who won his two titles nearly 30 years ago, and Chick Evans, another two-time winner, found themselves once more ready to go out for the crown. But Francis Ouimet, whose comeback to win the 1931 title more than 15 years after his first triumph startled the golf world, lost out to Jess Guilford in a playoff for the tenth place in the Boston district.

The scores of the leaders in each of the 22 sectional tests follow:

District and Player	Score
Tacoma, Frank Dolp, Portland	138
Omana, Johnny Goodman, Omaha	139
Dallas, Jack Munger, Dallas	140
Atlanta, Charles Yates, Atlanta	141

SUTTER LOSES AT CULVER

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Smothering his opponent with a varied assortment of fancy shots, Gene Mako, Los Angeles flash, advanced to the quarter-finals in the National Junior tennis tournament by defeating Ernest Sutter, of New Orleans, 6-1, 6-2.

Sutter could not withstand the attack of the Californian, who is the first seeded player in the tourney. He was stopped in every move, for Mako made few mistakes.

William Fay, of Pittsburgh, considered a real threat in the boys' competition, was eliminated yesterday by Seymour Greenburg, of Chicago, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

LOCAL WOMAN CHAMP LOSES

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The national public parks tennis championships moved into the fourth round today in both men's and women's divisions.

Neither of the defending champions were hard pressed yesterday as Arnold Simons, of Louisville, took his third round match from Martin Mayer, of New Orleans, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 and Helen Germaine, of New York, won two straight set matches from Beatrice Bryan, of Memphis, and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, Pittsburgh champion.

Most of the other seeded favorites advanced as easily, but Ted Drewes, second among the men, dropped a set to Raymond Stone, of New York, and Bernard Friedman, of Philadelphia, sixth on the list, was the victim of the day's big upset. Friedman was defeated by Heck Finn, of Brooklyn, 6-2, 10-8, 3-6, 6-4.

Local Pros May Have Seven All-Americans

Seven former all-America stars may be found in the lineup of the Pittsburgh Pirates, of the National Professional League, next fall. Four of them, Jap Douds, of Wash-Jeff; Tony Siano, of Fordham; Tony Holm, of Alabama, and Elmer Schwartz, of Washington State, already have been signed, and there is a possibility that Warren Heller, of Pitt; Chris Cagle, of Army, and Angelo Brovelli, of St. Mary's, also may be added. The tentative roster to date:

ENDS—Wilbur Soriet, West Virginia; Rat Tesser, Carnegie Tech; Hamlin Robinson, Catawba College, North Carolina; Stew Wilson, W. & J.

TACKLES—Coach Jap Douds, W. & J.; Sam Cooper, Geneva; Regis McNamara, Notre Dame; Don Rhodes, W. & J.

GUARDS—Howard Leisinger, Purdue; Bill Janecek, Purdue; Nick DeCarbo, Duquesne; Abe Marcovsky, Michigan.

CENTERS—Tony Siano, Fordham; Bob Erickson, Northwestern; Bert Ashback, Penn State.

BACKS—Warren Heller, Pitt; Red Cagle, Army; George Shafer, W. & J.; Jimmy Kestner, Catawba College, North Carolina; Tony Holm, Alabama; Bucky Moore, Loyola College, New Orleans; Jim Tangney, New York University; Angelo Brovelli, St. Mary's; Elmer Schwarz, Washington State; Bob Cottler, Center College, and Bob Deacle, W. & J.

Second Transfusion Planned for Hudkins

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9—(AP.)—Ace Hudkins, one-time Nebraska Wildcat of the boxing ring, was in a critical condition at a hospital here today.

A second blood transfusion was planned to aid in his recovery from bullet wounds. Two bullets fired into his body in a cafe disagreement Sunday were removed.

MRS. O. S. HILL DEFEATED IN TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, defending champion, was eliminated from the Western Women's Golf championship today by Mrs. Gregory Lifur, of Los Angeles, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Hill was seeking her fourth Western championship.

The Kansas City star, a determined golfer, started the thirteenth hole six down, won the next three, and it appeared that she might win over the Pacific coast player. But they halved the next hole to end the match, causing the first big upset of the tournament.

The national women's champion, Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, won a place in the quarter-finals when she defeated Rena Nelson, Chicago, 6 and 5.

Results of matches played in the second round follow:

Mrs. Gregory Lifur, Los Angeles, defeated Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, 3 and 2.
Miss Helen Lawson, Los Angeles, defeated Miss Imgard Grabbe, Terre Haute, 5 and 4.
Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, defeated Miss Rena Nelson, Chicago, 6 and 5.
Miss Elizabeth Abbott, Los Angeles, defeated Mrs. C. B. Harbaugh, Cleveland, 4 and 3.
Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, defeated Mrs. Lillian Zech, Chicago, 7 and 6.
Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, defeated Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, Jr., Chicago, 1 up.

SEEDED TENNIS STAR VICTOR

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Josephine Cruickshank, fifth ranking tennis player among American women, easily disposed of Joan Ridley, of England, today, 6-0, 6-2, in the quarter-finals of the Eastern grass courts championships at the Westchester Country Club.

The stocky California girl employed a powerful assortment of strokes to lead the way into the semi-finals. Not until midway in the second set did Miss Ridley, a finalist in the event last year, offer much effective resistanec and this was not sustained as Miss Cruickshank added a few notches to her speed and stroking accuracy.

Veteran Trainer To Join Warner

PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Wallace Denny, Indian trainer of Stanford football teams during the regime of Glenn (Pop) Warner, will not be on hand with his water bucket when the season opens here this fall. He served with Coach Warner since the latter's days at Carlisle and it is understood he will join Pop at Temple University, Philadelphia.

Owing to his long service at Stanford the board of athletic control voted to retain his official status here and resultant salary until next December 31.

Ernie Smith Turns Down Pro Offers

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ernie Smith, Southern California's all-America football tackle last fall and counted a bright prospect for the professional game, has decided to stick to his saxophone tooting and insurance selling.

Visiting here before going to Chicago, where he will take part in the East-West game August 24, Smith said:

"I wasn't made an offer that would net me $1,000 a season. I will go back to Los Angeles from Chicao and settle down to business."

Smilin' Again

JOHN L. HERNON
Gray skies have turned to blue and frowns to smiles for Promoter Hernon, who is staging the Vince Dundee-Ted Yarosz Battle of the Season at Forbes Field one week from next Monday. A postponement from the original date had John down for a time, but now, with two Yarosz victories since then and Dundee slated for a tryout in Paterson, N. J., tomorrow night, things are looking up, and he reports even greater interest and the prospects of a bigger gate. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

STREAKS OFTEN AFFECT CLUB, RUTH SAYS

By BABE RUTH
Baseball's Highest Salaried Star.

Well, that long overdue shutout finally caught up with the Yankees and I don't hesitate to say that I am glad that streak is over. I had begun to believe, with some of our other players, that is was becoming too important to us, when it really meant nothing in particular. Just a freak record, as they say, like flagpole sitting and such things.

Babe Ruth

Long streaks are interesting, but I believe they can become harmful to a player, and sometimes to a club. I was with the Boston Red Sox when Everett Scott started his long streak of more than 1,300 games and I was with the Yankees when Scott finished that long run. I have sometimes wondered if it might not have been better for Scott, and also for the teams he was with, if he had not played so steadily. It has occurred to me more than once that an occasional rest might have prolonged his big league career.

SOME BECOME STALE

You know a ball player can become stale, just the same as a fighter or golfer or track athlete. Too much of anything is harmful and there is such a thing as too much baseball. But managers hesitated to lay Scott off because they knew how intent he was to extend the mark for playing in consecutive games.

I think you will see a marked improvement in Lou Gehrig's all-round work after he has passed that mark which Scott set up, 1307 games between June 20, 1916, and May 5, 1925. Gehrig is near the 1300 mark now. Lou has been intent for some time back to set a new mark and I have thought he stuck to the game on days when a rest might have done him some good. I recall one time in 1931 he had a broken bone in the little finger of the right hand but he remained in the line-up every day.

HUBBELL STANDS OUT

Speaking of streaks, that recent pitching performance by Carl Hubbell was quite a thing. I would not class a streak of scoreless pitching as likely to affect the player, because that is in line with what he tries to do every day, streak or not. His aim is to keep opponents from scoring. It is the unusual, the things which take players' minds off the regular work which is sometimes harmful.

Hubbell's 45 innings of shutout pitching represent five complete ball games in succession without a run being scored. That is a marvelous achievement, and I believe it is more noteworthy now than in the days when home runs were infrequent and the ball was not as lively as it is now. This was pitching such as we are not likely to see again for several years.

Youngster Victor In Highland Event

Youth was served in no uncertain fashion yesterday at the Highland Country Club as a field of more than 200 women stars from various district clubs competed in a one-day event. Miss Betty Zimmerman, 14-year-old miss, of the home club, turned in a low gross score of 97 to lead the home players.

Mrs. L. T. Riley, with a 93, led the visitors.

Joe Crawford, former Western Pennsylvania amateur champion, established a new course record at Churchill Valley yesterday when he toured the layout in 34-33—67, cracking the previous mark by one stroke. The previous low was held jointly by Crawford, Jimmy O'Donnell, the club pro; W. J. Jacquette and Johnny Capebianco, Aliquippa professional.

U. S. Track Stars Win In Prague

PRAGUE, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Before a crowd of 8,000 spectators, America's touring track and field stars gave a brilliant display of speed and athletic prowess to win all but one of 12 events in which they were entered in a meet yesterday against Czechoslovakian stars.

In the shotput, Franz Douda, Olympic champion, outclassed John Anderson, of New York, who could do no better than 48 feet 10 7-26 inches. Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette University sprint star, and Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, won two races each while Henri LaBorde, of Stanford, and Anderson finished one-two in the discus throw.

RACES POSTPONED

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—The Grand Circuit's twelfth program of its 16-day Rockingham Park meet was rained out yesterday. Most of the card's features were added to today's program, which has been dedicated to Walter Cox, dean of New England horsemen.

FUEL SHORTAGE HAMPERING STEEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Iron Age says:

The forces of recuperation in the iron and steel industry have been checked by complications growing out of the National Industrial Recovery Act. Demand still shows a buoyancy surprising for this season, but it is commencing to waver in the face of continued labor troubles in the Connellsville region, soaring fuel prices, and confusion growing out of the application of the NRA blanket code, under which most iron and steel consumers must operate, pending the preparation and adoption of special codes.

An addition deterrent to buying is the resistance of larger buyers to the single-price policy recently adopted on leading mill products. Large consumers are unwilling to conform to this new practice until the steel code is officially adopted, and meanwhile are pressing for a continuance of concessions, which in a few cases have been granted, notably on automobile body and steel furniture sheets.

Pressure for concessions, however, is meeting with diminishing success in view of the growing alarm of steel producers over mounting costs. In addition to the increased costs incident to advances in wages and shortened hours, the industry faces not merely soaring prices of fuel, but an early shortage, in the event that current labor difficulties are not settled soon.

AVERAGE RATE UNCHANGED

Furnace coke has risen from $2.50 to $2.75 a ton, Connellsville, but only occasional cars can be bought at the advanced figure and some sellers are now asking $4. Coking coal is no longer available at any price.

Valley operations have reacted to the fuel stringency, ingot output having declined to about 60 per cent of capacity and the lighting of a steel company blast furnace having been indefinitely postponed. Steel production in other districts has not yet been curtailed because of the fuel situation, although there have been slight recessions in the Cleveland-Lorain district and in eastern Pennsylvania. In other centers, recent rates have been maintained and at Chicago there has been a gain, present operations averaging well over 53 per cent as compared with 52 per cent a week ago.

The national average of steel ingot output is still close to 57 per cent, the rate of a week ago, and any further decline is more likely to be due to a fuel scarcity than to reduced demand. Suspension of operations at certain steel plants may become necessary within the next fortnight if the fuel shortage continues.

AUTO TAKINGS RECEDE

Some slight falling off in the steel requirements of the automobile industry is noted, but motor car output for August will nevertheless exceed 200,000 units, according to present indications.

Fabricated structural steel awards are light, totaling only 8450 tons, compared with 33,135 tons a week ago. Action on public projects is impeded because of uncertainties surrounding codes under which contractors must operate. There is growing doubt in the steel industry whether the public works program will prove timely enough and large enough to bring business back to normalcy.

Advances in scrap at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia have raised The Iron Age composite for heavy melting steel from $12.08 to $12.25 a ton. General adherence to 1.65c., Pittsburgh, on hot strip has advanced The Iron Age finished steel composite from 1.973c. to 1.979c. a lb. The pig iron composite is unchanged at $15.94 a ton.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Vanadium-Alloys Steel Company and subsidiary companies report for the year ended June 30 last, shows combined net loss of $147,494 after expenses, depreciation and other charges. This compares with combined net loss of $326,455 in the year ended June 30, 1932. The statement issued by the company states all of the loss was incurred during the first 10 months and that since April 1 last, there has been a steady and constant betterment in business and the combined companies are now operating upon a profitable basis.

United Corporation in the June quarter earned 6c a common share, against 9c a share in the previous quarter, and 11c in the June quarter of 1932.

Hershey Chocolate Corporation net income for the June quarter, including affiliated Corporations, was $916,935, after depreciation, federal tax, etc., against $1,000,445 in the June quarter of 1932. Six months net income totals $1,991,023, compared with $2,743,824 in the first half of 1932.

John R. Thompson Company, chain restaurants, reports for six months ended June 30 last, net loss of $291,652 after depreciation, expenses and other charges. This compares with net profit of $334,236 after all charges, in the first half of 1932. Net loss for the June quarter was $63,084 as against loss of $228,548 in the preceding three months and net profit of $138,803 in the June, 1932, quarter.

BUSINESS GAIN HEARTENS STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Financial markets, heartened by the apparent steadiness of business and industrial progress, moved upward today in generally quiet and orderly trading.

In the early hours transactions in stocks were at a much faster pace than on Monday and yesterday, and gains of 1 to around 3 points were well distributed over a fairly broad front. The alcohol shares and several specialties were again in demand. Most of the top quotations, however, were shaded later in profit-taking. Cotton got back some of its previous losses, and grains were firm on the eve of the government's crop report. Bonds registered improvement. The dollar was somewhat easier in terms of leading foreign exchanges.

Traders who attempted to rekindle the inflationary fires yesterday were not so positive today that the administration was contemplating any immediate drastic expansion of the currency. The Treasury Department revealed that per capita circulation of money in the United States declined more than 1½ per cent during July. The country's monetary stock, as of July 31, therefore, disclosed deflation instead of inflation. It was about $900,000,000 under the total of July 31, last year.

Recent firmness of tobacco issues accompanied renewed reports that the wholesale price of cigarets might be advanced this month. Retail prices of the leading brands have already been increased, but the 10-cent packages which entered the field as strong competitors last spring, are still being sold at that price. Wholesale advances of the former 15-cent varieties are said to depend to some extent on the final form of the codes which the tobacco trades will adopt under the National Recovery plan.

Although various market observers continue to sound mild warning notes regarding too much optimism for a further upswing of stock prices, brokerage houses reported that short selling has been negligible during the past several days. At the same time, it is said, there has been a steady demand from small cash buyers for the better grade shares. Speculation, however, it is pointed out, is still under the influence of heavy margin requirements.

FRESH BUYING BOOSTS WHEAT

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Material upturns in grain prices early today accompanied enlarged speculative buying.

In the main, purchasing was apparently based on supply and demand conditions and on the known attitude of the government favoring higher commodity prices.

Opening ¼-⅞ up, wheat afterward rose further. Corn started unchanged to ⅝ advance and subsequently scored general gains.

Wheat climbed almost 2 cents before profit-taking led to something of a reaction. General expectance was that the United States government crop report, due after the close tomorrow, would prove bullish. Friends of higher prices asserted that recent rains in Canada had come too late to aid wheat production.

Corn prices were helped upward by reports that corn crop prospects were extremely poor. Oats prices duplicated the action of corn.

Provisions went upgrade with hog values and with cereals.

About midsession, wheat was 1½ to 2⅛ cents above yesterday's finish and corn was ⅞ to 1½ cents up.

WOOLEN WORKS OUT OF 'RED'

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—After operating for six years in the "red," the American Woolen Company, reputedly the world's largest manufacturer of woolen goods, turned the corner during the first half of 1933 and earned a net profit of $197,700, its report published today shows.

Consolidated earnings excluding the Textile Realty Company were equal to 49 cents a share on the company's preferred stock and compare with a net loss of $6,810,561, during the first six months of 1932.

The company's deficit in the second half of 1932 amounted to $474,860, a deficit of $1.15 per share of preferred.

Its deficit of $7,270,000 in 1932 was the largest in the 34 years history of the company, and was due, in part, to a severe slump in the raw wool market and a corresponding reduction in prices for finished goods.

For many years the company has earned nothing on the common stock and last showed earnings on the preferred stock in the last half of 1927 when net income of $2,358,874 was reported equal to $2.84 a preferred share.

The effect of the depression and changed conditions in the industry is mirrored in the financial statements of the company for recent years. The deficit in 1931 was $2,836,826; $4,897,585 in 1930, and $4,228,191 in 1929.

WORLD ADOPTS NATIONAL PLAN OF ECONOMICS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Since the World Economic Conference broke up at London, there has been a disposition to make public talk on the subject of economic nationalism square more with economic conduct.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a matter of fact, all the principal countries except Great Britain have for decades pursued the policy of economic nationalism, with strong protectionist tariffs. Within the last two years, Great Britain also joined the majority. Modern Germany, like the United States and France, pursued a national system of economics ever since Bismarck's time.

But until recently when public men began to talk in terms of reality, there was a glamour of economic internationalism surrounding public discussions.

As a result of this—and of vague academic philosophy in favor of economic internationalism—we embarked on an extensive pre-depression career in foreign lending. Under the cover of international will o' the wisp ideals, it was not apparent to the public that the principal nations were acting nationalistically in the economic field.

Now it is perfectly clear, and the debtors will make a plea that they cannot pay because the mechanism of international trade has broken down.

With an increasing emphasis here on the home market, it will become increasingly necessary to think of ways of salvaging the debts. One way to get what we can would be through arrangements with foreign governments whereby their property in this country would be seized and turned over to American creditors. The foreign nationals would then be repaid by their own government in their own currency, and the foreign government would reimburse itself by collecting from the debtors in their country. This technique would obviate the difficulties of international transfer.

Such a procedure was followed by Great Britain when it borrowed over here during the war. It used the foreign holdings of its own nationals as security.

Such a technique would place the emphasis on what it is practical to collect, rather than continuing the present fashion of stressing the uncollectible portion.

Blanket Code Covers Interim Problems Of Industries

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Despite many columns of publicity, inquiries to the National Recovery Administration indicate that formulation of the blanket hours-reducing, pay-raising code is still widely misunderstood throughout the nation.

In this connection, the recovery administration points out that the blanket code is not a substitute for special codes brought forward by industries and fields of commerce, but simply represents the administration's midsummer preparation for the increase in business activity which it expects the fall season to bring.

To Speed Up Special Codes

It has been placed before all employers in industry and trade in order that the preparation may be rapid enough and universal, so that any benefits accruing from a business upturn may be widespread, and all business enterprises may be in a position to share equitably.

It is felt the blanket code should speed the initiation and completion of special codes. Through these special codes adjustments can be made to meet special circumstances of different fields of business and difficulties caused by the general provisions of the blanket code can be obviated.

Trade Groups to Aid Plans

Chambers of commerce and trade associations hold an important role in the administration's plans. They are expected to assist individual employers in making their plans meet individual problems, thus bringing about the complete compliance that will afford a basis for future business activities.

With business men's organizations joining their energies in the effort to bring about fair basic conditions of operation throughout the country, officials feel that this great preparatory task will be accomplished quickly, and all forms of American business will be ready for a pickup next fall and winter.

Toledo Port Coal Movement Expands

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 9.—(AP.)—Ohio's booming lake cargo coal business has reached 1929 proportions at Toledo, United States Bureau of Mines records show.

During July shipments of coal through the Toledo harbor reached 2,191,000 tons, the best showing for the month since 1929 when shipments totaled 2,258,000 tons. This compares to 1,259,000 tons in July last year.

Toledo ranks first on the Great Lakes as a cargo coal port.

OBITUARY

McAfee Services.

Funeral services for Hugh McAfee, 88, who died Monday in his home at Kenmawr Hotel, will be held today at 2 o'clock from the hotel. Burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery. Mr. McAfee was born in Wheeling, W. Va.

He moved with his family to Temperanceville, now West End, in 1862. He attended the Pittsburgh public schools and the Iron City College. He obtained a position as clerk on the steamer Ida Reese and later became a Pullman conductor. Later he took a position with the Wallace, Cavitt & Co., glass and lamp jobbers. When the firm dissolved Mr. McAfee continued with Cavitt & Pollack and later formed a partnership when he bought the stock of M. W. Sackett & Co. The business was later merged with the Fostoria Lamp and Shade Company, of Fostoria, O., and was known as the Consolidated Lamp and Glass Company.

Mr. McAfee was president of this firm's plant in Coraopolis for 15 years. Mr. McAfee, who leaves no near relatives, was a member of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Aull Funeral.

Funeral services for Charles H. Aull, 84, who died Monday, were held today at the T. B. Moreland Funeral Home.

Mr. Aull lived in Pittsburgh for about 50 years previous to moving to Omaha, Neb., and then to St. Paul, Minn., where he died.

Surviving Mr. Aull are two children, William F., of St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. D. M. Everson, of Pittsburgh.

PREMIERE -:- Gripping Story of Life Behind The Scenes at Hollywood -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XXIV.

"You don't mean you're going to leave us in the lurch?" Wingate asked, in a hurt voice. "I can't believe you'd do a thing like that."

"I'm not leaving you in the lurch," Leni told him plainly. "Mr. Gerstenfield admits I'm a terrific gamble and there's no certainty about my future success. You gentlemen—your whole lives are wrapped up in pictures. With me, it's different, I only want one thing in life. I want to be happy. The pictures demand too much of me. There are ten thousand other girls waiting to step into my shoes. Let them have the chance. I've never had a chance for happiness in my whole life until now—and I'm going to take it."

By the time she had finished speaking, the power of Gertsenfield's eyes had forced her, at last, to look straight at him.

She was iron-bound in her determination to refuse anything he might demand. He held no authority of reward or punishment over her.

Fame, money, ambition were all obliterated in the warm glow that filled her whole being. It was as though she stood on the threshold of a new life pulsating with unearthly joy. Nevertheless, there existed somewhere in her a little area of fear, a black spot of foreboding that might spread and tarnish the glistening ecstasy of her whole beautiful dream.

"When did you fall in love?" demanded Gerstenfield.

His question was like a sharp knife pressing against her white flesh. The smile on Leni's lips did not diminish, although something of its warmth escaped.

"Last night."

"Who's the man?"

"It's a private and personal matter. Must I tell?"

She looked away from him, but her gaze was forced to return to his dark eyes as steel is drawn to the magnet.

INSISTS ON KNOWING

Leni resisted looking at those eyes for the unaccountable reason they held a force that chilled her inner warmth. As long as she did not look at Gerstenfield, she felt, everything would be all right—she could do as she pleased.

Somewhere within him lived a power dangerous to the free determination of her own destiny . . .

"I must insist on knowing who the man is," said Gerstenfield evenly.

Wingate thrust his hands into his pockets and walked to a window. His artistic sense of proportion told him he was entirely superfluous at the moment. Leni had been clutching a wisp of handkerchief in her palm. A tremor of childish helplessness came over her. The hand relaxed and the flake of chiffon fluttered to the floor.

"His name is Lucky Cavanaugh," she said, oddly surprised at her difficulty in giving it out. "Please believe me, this is no whim. It is—it is my life."

For just a moment, Gerstenfield's lids closed over his burning eyes and then opened again. In the instant Leni tore her gaze away.

Ned Wingate, standing by the window, suddenly became motionless as a painted portrait of a man.

Leni waited for somebody to say something. She did not know whether she had silenced them completely or whether they were merely gathering strength to attack her decision. In the fragment of a second she thought she detected something like pity in Gerstenfield's eyes.

"Lucky Cavanaugh is a wonderful man," she said as if to explain everything.

Gerstenfield turned toward Wingate with a dry cough in his throat.

"Get that newspaper out of my overcoat in the hall," he said.

"Newspaper! What's a newspaper got to do with this?" asked Leni quickly.

"It has everything to do with it, Miss Luneska," Gerstenfield said in a voice utterly lifeless. "A woman picture star is a fool to fall actually in love. We always make a mistake when we surrender our happiness to other people. We are not like other people—the public. As long as love with us is an emotionless recreation it does no harm. If we take it too seriously it ruins us."

"I don't know what you're talking about," said Leni, suddenly white and ghostly.

Wingate had returned to the room with the folded newspaper in his hand, his clown mouth was moving with a silent flexible smile.

READS ABOUT MURDER

"Show it to her," said Gerstenfield.

The man opened the paper and placed it in Leni's white outstretched hands.

LUCKY CAVANAUGH
HELD FOR MURDER

The headline was a black rush of letters stampeding across the entire top of the front page.

No sound broke from her lips in this devastating instant. She stood up, gripping the newspaper in her two hands, her eyes trying to drink in the sub-heading.

Gerstenfield watched her without a word or emotion.

"Rotten break!" said Wingate with a shade of casual sympathy. "It looks like Cavanaugh quarreled with his sweetheart and shot her dead in his own apartment. At any rate, they've got the girl's body and he's locked up. If you ask me, I'll say it's a lucky thing it was another girl instead of you that got that bullet in her heart last night. We'll be lucky if we can keep your name out of this mess."

A strength apparently from outside her body came to Leni's aid and held her steady and erect while she read the brief and hurried printed account.

She remained standing, filled with emptiness; she felt a hollow weakness in her joints. Then she sensed nothing at all and, as she started to topple, Wingate caught her in his long arms and held her up like a limp child . . .

The blackness surrounding Leni melted and turned to light.

With returning consciousness came a clarity of intelligence as bright and definite as sunlight. She knew she had fainted, and why.

Wingate had placed her upon a sofa and was rubbing her wrists with a handkerchief which he dipped into a glass of water. At the bottom of the sofa stood Gerstenfield watching, it seemed, for her to open her eyes so he could begin talking.

As her physical strength came back she sat up.

"Now that you've had that over with," said Gerstenfield without a trace of sympathy, "we'll get back to business. Are you capable of listening to me?"

"I'm going to get to Lucky just as soon as I can," said Leni.

She sat on the edge of the sofa, arched her spine inward and threw her head backward as she breathed in a deep draught of air. The color began coming back to her cheeks.

"Forgive me for fainting, gentlemen. Will you go with me, Ned? Will you take me to where he is locked up?"

Wingate glanced at his superior. Gerstenfield shook his head.

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Karl Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky. Lucky, arriving home, finds a jealous woman, named Annette, waiting for him. Steve Poletzki, the killer, aims at Lucky through a window and kills Annette by mistake. Next morning, Leni is swamped with congratulatory messages on the premiere. Her success is assured, but more important to her than that is Cavanaugh's love for her. Herman Gerstenfield, noted director, calls.

NOW GO ON

The man opened the paper and placed it in Leni's white hands.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Some new idea today, fellows!

Letters about the picnic are still coming in and of course we are glad to get them. We figure the more letters the members of the Junior Patrol write about it, the bigger and better the picnic next year is going to be. So here is one way to help others right now. Tell us what you liked.

Guess almost all of the Junior Patrol members have been following Snuggins' exciting adventures in Uncle Quin Hall's comic strip lately. Snuggins, you know, got separated from his pals, and trying to get back to Cincinnati, he was picked up by a robber. But Snuggins got away when the robber tried to use him for a "look out"—he woke up the town and they almost captured the scoundrel.

Now Snuggins is on his way to rejoin his pals in a big limousine! And he is wishing that Claire could see him, even though he does prefer to ride up in the front seat with the chauffeur. Looks like his troubles are over, doesn't it?

Fellows, guess you all go to the talkies now and then, don't you? How would you like to pick out your favorite movie star? In your next letter, you captains and lieutenants, tell us what movie star you and your members prefer. It will be interesting to find out which one is your favorite. Let's try it—who will it be?

How is your campaign for helping others coming along, fellows? Are you watching to see that people don't get hurt on the dangerous corners in your district? Are you keeping your neighborhood neat and clean? Are you helping your mother and father around the house? Are you being kind and courteous to others? These are just a very few of the many fine ways you can help others.

Hey, fellows—NOTICE! NOTICE!—we want photographs of any Junior Patrol captain, lieutenant or member. And we want drawings too. Send them in—they may be published right here in the Mail Box!

Did you ever notice that you don't see many signs which say "Keep Off the Grass" these days? People have learned that a more polite sign "PLEASE, Keep Off the Grass" will be obeyed twice as quickly. It pays to be courteous to people. We hope that all Junior Patrol members will remember to say "Please" and "Thank You."

There's a nice letter today from Walter Elmer Herr, Jr., of 142 Grant street, Greensburg, Pa. He says:

"We enjoy the comic strip and the bulletin very much, and we four play together most of the time this summer, so we have talked about the Junior Patrol a lot of times. We have a swing and slide and a sandbox in our yard and lots of youngsters to play with, and we build towns out of sand under the tree and play making roads and running our little cars in the garage.

We are learning to sing together, too, and we know lots of songs and my mama plays for us to sing and sometime we would like to come in and broadcast if we could. Gerry is my sister and Dot and Ben are my cousins, and they are visiting us.

"We were sorry we couldn't come to your picnic. I know you had a good time at your picnic and maybe we can come next year."

You must be having a wonderful vacation, Walter—you and your sister and your Cousins. And you are playing the very best way—by learning to do things and to build things. Wouldn't you like to start a Patrol in your neighborhood? During the summer, you could hold your meetings right out of doors under the cool trees! We hope to hear you all sing some time soon.

Q. & A. DEPARTMENT

Alienist, examining Mr. Harriman, asked:

What is the difference between a lie and a mistake?"

And the alienist contended Mr. Harriman gave the wrong answer when he replied:

"It is a matter of judgment."

It is a matter of judgment as to whether Mr. Harriman or the alienist used the best judgment.

An error was also marked against Mr. Harriman because he said a shark is a fish. The alienist declared that everybody knows a shark is not a fish.

And just to keep the record straight, we quote:

U. S. Attorney—Did Harriman when you questioned him break off into another subject instead of answering you?

Alienist, emphatically—He did.

Changes In Diplomacy

We can't say that world diplomacy has collapsed altogether until it stops quivering.

It certainly took a rare old walloping this season. And it may be due to the fact that it has changed so much.

In the beginning of things the international envoy brought plenty and took away nothing.

Before you could call on the Grand Mogul of Tartary you had to send in 1,000 white camels, 300 dancing girls, a fireman's hat chiseled out of one solid ruby, a package of diamond golf tees and a seven-no-trump bridge hand.

If he liked your presents he kept them and you could go in to see him. If he didn't like them he kept them to teach you a lesson.

If you got the okay from the look-out you took off your shoes and crawled in on all-fours. You banged your head three times on the floor.

No ambassador was considered a sincere floor-banger unless he knocked himself out on the first try. With each bang your nation lost prestige.

The Persian rugs were not put there to make the floor any softer. They were there to wrap you up in. Departing envoys were supposed to make neat and tidy bundles.

The mogul or sultan on his home field was supreme. He could order your head scimitared very thin on rye bread.

That was the chance the visiting plenipotentiary took. One swing of the glittering Himalayan boat-hook and there was your back collar button jutting out into mid-air all by itself. No hat, no head, no neck or nothing.

The pashas and the emperors knew how to command respect. They never let you forget you were there on a visit even though they shortened it.

Nobody spoke out of turn. There were no arguments and no rebuttals. The mogul was strictly a home-town umpire.

He was there to get the best of it. And, that's a rule the conferences still follow.

Maybe, we'd better go back to the oldtime methods.

The mogul had a tough temper, was supreme in all things.

He hated his enemies. And, even, if you wanted to be friends, it took him a long time to forgive you.

No. 211 Wood Street

Memorize This Address, and Send Beggars There Who Accost You on the Street.

The police have announced several times in recent years that they were going to put a stop to "panhandling" on the streets of the city, but they failed to do so. There is better prospect of success in the plan announced by the management committee of the Helping Hand, Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., of the Department of Public Safety, has already taken steps to promote the plan; but the public, too, will have to co-operate to make a go of it.

Director Denny is helping by serving notice on out-of-town vagabonds camping in the public parks that they must register not later than tomorrow with the Central Application Bureau for Homeless Men or leave the city.

When the Helping Hand curtailed, recently, the services it rendered homeless men at its free hotel on Water street, it had 2,000 of these "guests" on its hands. They were offered food, shelter and tobacco in return for work on a 563-acre farm near Harmarville. About 400 accepted. Many of the others took up their abode in the parks, and have made themselves so offensive that numerous residents of the city no longer care to visit the parks.

An inquiry by Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide, of the Bureau of Police, established that a majority of these campers in the parks had come to Pittsburgh after having been driven out of other cities that were not so hospitable to vagrants. It is against them that Director Denny's ultimatum is issued, and not against real Pittsburghers.

The Central Application Bureau is a state institution at No. 211 Wood street, between Second and Third avenues. Memorize the address, and the next time a beggar approaches you and asks for money, do not give him anything, but tell him to go there. If he is not a racketeer, but is in genuine need of help, he will obtain it.

You may think that you are doing a kind, a praiseworthy thing in giving "the price of a bowl of soup" to the mendicant who accosts you with a touching story of hunger and of a futile and heart-breaking search for work. There is no doubt of the man's sincerity, you think; and, after all, a dime is a small thing—you will not miss it—and the glow of satisfaction that comes from the consciousness of having done a charitable deed is pleasant.

Yet in yielding to the beggar's solicitation you may be contributing to a racket and helping to fasten more firmly on Pittsburgh a condition that is not only disgraceful but tends to interfere with business. Joseph C. Trees, chairman of the Helping Hand management board, says there is reason to believe that many a "panhandler" actually derives from mendicancy a larger unearned income than the income of the wage-earner from whom he begs a dime. And it certainly must be disagreeable to people who come into the city to shop to be stopped near the railroad stations and elsewhere on the streets by beggars.

If the "panhandler" who accosts you is telling the truth and is really in desperate need, you will be doing him a greater kindness in directing him to No. 211 Wood street than in giving him a small sum of money and then forgetting him. For the Central Application Bureau will send him to a relief agency which will not content itself with giving him "a bowl of soup," but will interest itself in making some permanent provision for his welfare.

Mr. Trees' committee has established a farm for homeless, unemployed men near Harmarville, where, in exchange for six hours of work a day, they are furnished food, shelter and tobacco. More than 400 men are now living on the farm, and if the people of Pittsburgh co-operate its population will be still further increased and the army of beggars that infests the downtown streets will disappear.

The Helping Hand farm not only takes care of the immediate necessities of the beneficiaries of its bounty, but helps those able to fill remunerative positions to find jobs.

This plan eliminates the impostors and racketeers. A large number of beggars who came to the Helping Hand vanished when work was mentioned.

You do not wish to help an impostor, but you do not have the time or facilities to make a thorough investigation of the story of every street beggar who appeals to your charity. The thing to do then is to refer "panhandlers" to No. 211 Wood street.

The 3,000,000th Accident

A Harrisburg Computation Vividly Illustrates the Importance of Safety Education.

The three millionth industrial accident since the workmen's compensation act became effective in Pennsylvania in 1916 has been reported to the Department of Labor and Industry at Harrisburg.

Joe Slagel, of Etna, has the dubious honor of being the victim.

The figures are impressive in themselves, but the department has made a little computation which illustrates still more vividly the importance of safety education.

It shows by census statistics that about 4,000,000 of the people of the state are workers, and goes on to say that if all the 3,000,000 accidents occurred in one week instead of being spread over a period of 17 years three out of every four workers in the state would have suffered an industrial injury.

Safety first! Watch your step!

The Tables Turned

Pennsylvania Furnishes a New Example of the Truth of One of Shakespeare's Sayings.

"The whirligig of time," says Shakespeare, "brings its revenges."

We have an interesting new example of the truth of the saying in a report of Dr. Donald A. Cadzow, archeologist for the State Historical Commission, Department of Public Instruction.

Dr. Cadzow recently unearthed a wall that separated the upper and lower formal gardens at William Penn's manor, established shortly after 1682 on the Delaware River, about 25 miles above Philadelphia.

A study of the manor records revealed that a Scotchman had charge of the upper garden and an Irishman worked the lower one, and that the Scotchman complained to Penn that rain washed the rich top-soil from his garden to the lower plot, but the Irishman would not let him take it back.

Historical commission workmen are now removing the excess of top-soil in the Irishman's domain to the upper garden.

His Salvation

(Copyright, 1933.)

When the cornerstone was laid recently at Lexington, Ky., for the first Federal Narcotic Farm, Surgeon General Cummings, of the United States Public Health Service, described its purposes as follows:

"Isolation and segregation of drug addicts with the object of medical treatment is desirable and necessary, for their presence and contact with others in American communities is a potential danger and a causative factor in the production of additional addicts.

"The object of this institution is to rehabilitate, restore to health and train to be self-supporting and self-reliant those who are admitted here."

Federal farms for scientific treatment of narcotic addicts have been advocated by the Hearst newspapers for years.

To the system of Federal farms now under way should be added State farms, where the same methods of rehabilitation may be applied.

The farm system for curing addicts represents one phase of the narcotic control problem in this country.

The necessary companion phase is enactment by all States of the Uniform State Narcotic Law—already operative in four States—which will enable the authorities to deal efficiently with the "dope" peddlers and "dope" racketeers responsible for the nefarious and illicit narcotic traffic which has ruined so many lives.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Play Cricket!

Nothing makes a man madder than to come home at the end of a hard, hot, high-pressure day at the office and find the house filled with bridge-playing, whoopee-making women.

* * *

Of course no man marries for a HOME and very few women marry for a support in these days. There are plenty of nice, comfy hotels and apartments for bachelors and there are high-salaried jobs for women. So the only thing to marry for is LOVE—but each expects to get something else along with love. And the average man dreams of a restful, homelike place, where he can go after office hours, slip into a dressing gown, light a cigar or pipe, stretch out and read a good book and have his frayed nerves soothed by a gentle presence and his stomach filled with good home cooking.

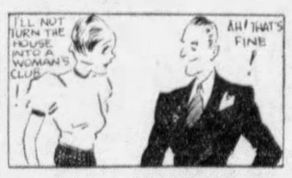
All he yearns for is to lie on the divan or the porch swing and be QUIET—and let himself DOWN from the day's high tension.

* * *

A man is sometimes lucky and wise to marry a "Tired Business Girl" who knows what it IS to come home all fagged out, and just yearning for food and rest and a little soothing companionship.

* * *

Of course, it is not always the woman's fault, when a man meets these domestic disappointments. When a settled, middle-aged man marries a woman almost young enough to be his daughter's school chum, he can hardly expect her to fossilize into a "mid-Victorian model wife." It just can't be done! She hasn't had her fling, yet; and, in these days, a woman expects a "fling," just as much as a man does.



That masculine illusion that "a man is as young as he feels" has done a great deal to increase the travel to Reno and sometimes makes you wonder if the bone taken from Adam's side wasn't transferred to his head.

* * *

There is no sadder sight on earth than that of a nice, dignified, middle-aged man walking back from the altar with a flossy, glamorous, giddy, young butterfly clinging to his arm. You just KNOW what's coming to him!

* * *

If a man is really looking for happiness, he should choose a wife somewhere around his OWN age. And if he is a Tired Businessman, his best bet is a girl who has held down a hard office job, and whose habits, tastes and desires in life are therefore the same as his own.

* * *

And the woman who marries a man and contracts to make a HOME and a LIFE for him, should "play cricket"—and not turn the house into a woman's club, a bridge club or a night club.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Since the passing of the most expert gastronomes, Will Hogg, I know of but two New Yorkers who insist upon preparing their salad and dressing at the table. They are Bertram Weal, a hotel manager, and George Rector. King Edward at private parties always observed this rite. So does Alfonso.

In Gay '90 days Berry Wall and Diamond Jim Brady used to arouse—and nothing is such an arouser—the respect of the maitres d'hotel and waiter captains by calling authoritatively for a huge bowl, chives, tarregon, olive oil, red pepper and "just a thought of garlic."

There are more than 100 ingredients and seasonings in salad lore. For the practised eye there's no need of a measurer. It is done with a slap-dash and the master practitioner keeps up a running ping of many-edged conversation with guests while doing his stuff.

It would not seem so, but there's a knack, a finesse, in preparing a salad that few attain. One fabulous version by the late Ralph Barton still twinges a hunger. It was a hot potato salad with lettuce, tarragon, fresh ground pepper and a clear soup stock. A heavenly yum-yum.

* * *

Even after walking up the avenue in the wake of a haughty movie star it struck me the most supercilious and superior looking things on the snootiest of all avenues are the twin lions outside the public library.

* * *

Dorothy Gish lived for years in the apartment upstairs from Will Cotton, who does caricatures for Vanity Fair. She rode gishishly and almost daily with him in the elevator without speaking. They were finally introduced when she was cast in a short-lived play he wrote, called "The Bride the Sun Shines On." New York!

* * *

Beverly Smith, Walter Millis and a number of newspapermen and magazine writers reside uptown in the venerable Dakota, one of the oldest apartment houses on West Seventy-second across from the site of the old Majestic. The building has 14-foot ceilings, walls done in period panelling four feet thick on the first floor, because no steel was used in construction, and a sweeping westernly side yard of clipped grass. The only concession to modernity was a few years ago when it was wired for electricity and telephones. In ways the inside court suggests the crepuscular Place des Vosges where Victor Hugo lived. And which one approaches gingerly on tiptoe.

* * *

Walter Prichard Eaton, once a newspaperman himself and named new drama lecturer at Yale, hails from Reading, Mass. Brooks Atkinson, of the Times, hails from Melrose, five miles away, and Lucius Beebe, of the Herald Tribune, from Wakefield, half way between, which may or may not prove something about the dramatic urge north of Boston.

* * *

The Forty-third street fire station, just off Fifth avenue, believes in tradition. Firemen on duty have a spotted coach dog for a pet. He can no longer run to 4-11 alarms under the noses of the galloping horses. But can bless him, at least ride to blazes in the auto pumper. And does.

* * *

Sudden thought: Not even the loss of his trousers can make a soft shirt-wearer feel so naked as the loss of his collar pin.

Stanley Sacket, fresh from Havana, also reports the spread of a New Elegance. Obscene postcards are hawked wrapped in cellophane. Incidentally, the sidewalk cafes in New York have given a fresh flair to this pornographic industry. Many of the salesmen are reputed to be the gigolo type that once posed as bogus royalty. In contrast to the seedy rue de Rivoli brand they are smartly dressed.

Many — but not all — people whose name is Hogg call it Hoag and the British pronounce Cholmondely Chumley, but the prize affectation is that of a socially ambitious lady among the lunchers at the Colony whose name is Sidebottom. She pronounces it Siddybottome!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You learn one grim lesson from a newspaper columnist's job. YOU LEARN TO "MAKE COPY" FROM EVERYTHING THAT HAPPENS TO YOU.

Your private disappointment and despair, fear and failure, heartbreak and humiliation—sooner or later, you put them all into a story, and that isn't because there's a dearth of other topics. There is a much deeper reason.

YOU LEARN TO MAKE COPY OF YOUR OWN LIFE BECAUSE IT IS REALLY JUST THAT—"SPOT NEWS." THE MOST CONVINCING "SPOT NEWS" YOU HAVE TO OFFER.

AND BY SHARING IT WITH THE OTHER FELLOW, YOU RENDER THE GREATEST POSSIBLE SERVICE TO HIM, AND TO YOURELF.

Life is just copy—a serial story to which every man contributes. And YOUR or MY contribution is no more vital or valuable than the next chap's.

I dream, and to me my dream seems unique. But it isn't. Everybody dreams. Everybody's dream seems unique.

I weep, and to me my tears seem particularly sad, peculiarly bitter. But they aren't. Everybody weeps. Everybody feels that his or her tears are unlike all other tears.

I rebel against the unfairness of the world, and to me my rebellion seems especially courageous. All these selfish, cowardly, stupid people whom I know—do they ever burn with such righteous indignation; ever thrill to such noble visions?

I'm sure they don't. But of course I'm wrong. Actually, they are no more selfish, cowardly or stupid than myself. They love fairness quite as much as I do, and have their flaming causes for which they, also, fight.

I suffer shame. Surely no one was ever so tortured by failure as I am; writhed so under ridicule; hungered so for love and praise and understanding! But again, I'm wrong. Sensitiveness is as universal as stomach ache. I have no monopoly of it. The other fellow's hide is fully as tender as mine.

I love! And this time I'M SURE I'M DIFFERENT. For here are ecstacies that no one else can ever know. Here are delicate mysteries impossible to cruder souls. So I rave on—not knowing that I share each joy with every loving soul!

Dreams, tears, fears, rebellions, regrets and ecstacies—none of them is really my "personal experience." They are all EVERYBODY'S personal experience. They are woof and warp of the universal fabric of life. Therefore, as part of MY limited life, these experiences are not particularly important or valuable. I may feel very poignantly about them, but that feeling won't buy me much if I keep it to myself.

BUT IF I CAN REALIZE THAT EVERYBODY FEELS THE SAME WAY, AND IF I CAN USE THAT REALIZATION AS A KEY TO ENTER OTHER LIVES, THEN EVERY EXPERIENCE, HOWEVER TRAGIC OR TRIVIAL, BECOMES A PRICELESS ASSET.

Prove it? Prove it for yourself. Observe some human who has suffered a greater grief or defeat, and has kept that agony locked tight within his own heart. What happens? You've seen it happen. Year after year that human grows more self-centered; less approachable. Finally his life is walled off from the common experience as completely as if he were locked in a cell.

Then observe some wiser person who has endured as heavy a blow, but who realizes that such experience is all-of-a-piece with the average human lot—and proceeds to act accordingly. What happens to him? He not only wins love, but he accumulates power. BY SHARING HIS LIFE WITH THE OTHER FELLOW, HE NOT ONLY EASES HIS OWN HURT BUT HE INCREASES HIS OWN HAPPINESS.

Why do newspaper columnists "make copy" of everything that happens to them? That's why.

THEY PASS LIFE on—NOT BECAUSE THEY'RE GOOD, BUT BECAUSE THEY'RE SMART. THEY KNOW THAT LIFE GOES SOUR UNLESS YOU KEEP IT IN CIRCULATION.

If you're wise, you'll follow the columnists' example. Stop thinking that you're different. Stop believing that your experiences are unique. Realize that they're only "copy"—only valuable if and to the degree that you pass them on.

Hog your life—and you'll lose it. SHARE YOUR LIFE—AND YOU'LL DOUBLE IT.

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

The past is the most cruel of all masters.

Money talks, but some of us get silent treatment.

Whenever some men make mistakes you may expect a tidal wave of explanation.

Don't envy the man with a wonderful memory; he remembers much that he'd rather forget.

The Human Side of the News

The Nizam of Hyderabad, Richest Man in the World—Henry Pu-Yi, Last of the Manchu Emperors

By EDWIN C. HILL

JOHN BULL, carefully watching every turn of events in his seething Indian Empire, and confronted by the strangest antagonist and rebel the British Empire ever had to deal with, keeps a special eye on the most powerful Mohammedan potentate in all India, His Exalted Highness, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Mir Usman Ali Khan, Nizam of Hyderabad and the richest man in the world—richer than Rockefeller, richer than Ford.

For the Nizam has been a powerful ally of Downing Street and could be a formidable enemy, and the shrewd British are at great pains to recognize all of the privileges and dignities of this hitherto strong prop of the British Raj.

In the strong room of his palace at Hyderabad, the Nizam has 800 tons of gold, almost as much as the Bank of England can boast. He rules over 13,000,000 people, this monarch of mediaeval might, and commands a royal salute whenever he fares forth in state. This stoop-shouldered, coffee-colored, black mustached master of 13,000,000 lives owns so many diamonds, rubies, emeralds and pearls that he could use a coal shovel to scoop them in and out of the bins in which they are kept. But this Croesus of India is far and away from being the open-hearted spender that his father was before him.

* * *

Each Bride Receives a Fortune

A COUPLE of years ago, when his two sons married the daughters of the exiled Caliph of Islam, the Nizam had a spasm of economy and refused to permit the use of his elephants in the marriage procession or to pay for the triumphal arches.

"Too costly," he complained.

Yet each of the brides received $200,000 in cash and a million dollars worth of jewels.

His state of Hyderabad, in Central India, is the principal native state of the Indian Empire. The city of Hyderabad is surrounded by a wall six miles around, built in the days of the Great Mogul. When the Nizam steps into one of his 400 automobiles and sets forth to worship Allah and his Prophet, Mohammed, a regiment of cavalry trots with clanking sabers in front of his gleaming car. He makes his way through kneeling thousands to the great mosque of Hyderabad which accomodates 10,000 worshippers as they kneel upon their prayer rugs, facing to the East, and chant the old, old refrain of the Moslem faith: "Allah il Allah! Allah akbar!"

Behind the ancient walls of his city Nizam dwells in a palace out of the Arabian Nights, feasting his eyes on his rooms full of gold and his chest and bins of jewels. While in the twisting streets of his capital India surges in its endless parade of elephants and camels, fakirs and beggars, shaven priests and money-lenders, haughty Brahmins and cringing untouchables of the pariah tribe. The mysterious, unchanging East.

The New King Of Manchuria

ABOUT the time the Dutch were buying Manhattan Isle for $25—in 1644, to be exact—the Ming Emperor of China was sorely beset. He sent an ambassador to the northern country of the Manchus—a Tartar race, great big fellows, hunters and fighters. They came down like Sennacherib and made short work of the rebellious Chinamen. The Ming Emperor killed himself at the moment of victory and the Manchu prince took over the throne and all China.

Time rattled on and the Chinese absorbed the Manchus. One stormy night in 1908 a 3-year-old squalling babe was aroused from sleep and, still squalling, was dressed in regal silks and placed on the throne of China. That babe was Henry Pu-Yi, the tenth and last of the Manchu Emperors, and now back as a puppet king in a Manchuria which is the sorest spot today in the anatomy of diplomacy.

Henry Pu-Yi is now 27 years old, wears western clothes and looks like a poorly-fed, bespectacled bookkeeper. A short while back, in an interview, he said he wanted to travel and meet Charlie Chaplin, former President Hoover, the Prince of Wales and Col. Lindbergh.

When the Manchu dynasty was overthrown in 1912, he was promised $4,000,000 a year and never got a dollar of it. In 1924 he had to flee Peking and the Japanese took him under their protection in Tientsin. There he miserably remained until they set him up this year as their puppet ruler in Manchuria. The Japanese insist that Manchuria is and must continue to be a separate and independent state, no matter what the League of Nations or the United States may say or think about it. The poor league, helpless to enforce its theories or mandates, sits by mournfully while resolute Japan, dealing in facts, not theories, consolidates her new great empire on the Chinese mainland and perhaps gets ready to strike a blow at Soviet Russia—a blow and a war that is certain to come.

Henry Pu-Yi, helpless creature of destiny, sits in his two-story palace in Changchun, his capital, nominal ruler over 30,000,000 Chinese, who probably hate him; over a country which compares in size and latitude with the stretch of land that runs from Hudson's Bay to Southern Pennsylvania, and from Chicago to New York. One of the richest lands in the world.

Japan will fight to hold that land so that she can set up, with Korea and her islands, the Asiatic equivalent of our United States. They are big dreams, these dreams of empire. Napoleon had them, and before him, Caesar and Alexander, and then Clive in India and William Hohenzollern. And always they have cost oceans of blood and years of human misery, and always they will cost it again.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Why do you seem to gain so much satisfaction in relating some of the devilish things you have done?

Some rather serious sins could be laid to your door if you speak the truth about yourself.

Instead of being proud of your offenses, do you know that you are laying a foundation for a bad reputation that will follow you where you least expect it.

Of course if your depredations were really of a serious character you would not be telling them so freely.

But to brag about your infractions and how no legal action was taken, while it may seem pretty sporty and racy to you, is giving your enemies an opportunity to lay a few things at your door, that you would not recognize later.

Men are only boys grown tall when they begin to recount adventure.

They want to show they dare to take a chance; that they have not always followed the straight and narrow path, and it seems to appeal to some men as evidence that they were real fellows in their day.

What a mistaken pastime.

You and your boon companions should be in better business than relating questionable and discreditable actions to your younger friends.
